Ike And Nixon Renominated

Victorious Team Of 1952 Unanimous Choice

Family Fuss Is Patched Up By President

Demise Of Stassen Revolt Proclaimed By Chief Executive

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower, in a history-making news conference, today dramatically—and positively—wiped out the last traces of an already faded revolt against the renomination of Vice President Nixon.

Eisenhower announced that Harold E. Stassen had given up his attempt to drive Nixon off the GOP ticket for 1956.

The President also voiced lavish praise for Nixon.

As on previous occasions in which he has spoken highly of the vice president, Eisenhower did not say specifically that Nixon was his choice as a running mate.

Delighted To Have Nixon

But he left no iota of doubt that he would be delighted to have Nixon as a partner in the forthcoming election campaign and, if they make it, another four years at the head of the government.

Eisenhower sewed up the nomination for Nixon at a news conference arranged only this morning at the St. Francis Hotel, where Eisenhower arrived last night to stay for the duration of the Republicans' 100th anniversary convention.

The President met with newsmen only a few hours before convention delegates were scheduled to assemble at San Francisco's famous Cow Palace and do what was expected all along—renominate with gusto an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

First "Live" TV Conference

It was the first presidential conference ever carried "live" on television, so millions across the country could watch, and hear the Q. and A. exchanges with the President the instant they occurred. Previously televised conferences have been shown on film, after the event.

The reaction to the President's remarks was instantaneous.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California, a holdout against Nixon, said the President had stated a clear preference which Knight himself was "pleased to accept."

E. W. Bromwich, head of Missouri's delegation, also threw in the towel. Bromwich had been one of Stassen's few visible supporters in the steamless effort to dump Nixon in favor of Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts or some other Republican.

Announcement Sets Pattern

The whole pattern was set with Eisenhower's announcement to the jampacked conference in the ornate Italian Room of the plush hotel. He had just come from a meeting with Stassen, the President said, and—

Stassen was now convinced that "the great mass of the delegates" to the convention were for Nixon.

Stassen felt there was no reason for carrying on his anti-Nixon campaign, especially since Herter "had withdrawn so decisively."

And Stassen thought the best way "to get his own position clear before the convention and the American public" was to seek permission to second Nixon's nomination.

That did it.

Chicago Polio Slackens

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (AP)—The rate of rise of Chicago's polio cases slacked off again today.

Eleven new cases were reported. That was the smallest number, except for the 10 announced on July 18, since the outbreak assumed serious status.

Patrol Plane Carrying 16 Is Shot Down

Attacked Off China Coast

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 23 (AP)—The U.S. Navy said one of its long-range patrol planes on a routine flight from Japan was attacked by unidentified aircraft early today off the Red China coast.

The plane was officially listed as missing and unaccounted for. It was presumed down in the East China Sea.

A Navy statement said the plane's last radio message, reporting the attack, showed it was over neutral waters north of Formosa, the Nationalist China base.

A spokesman of Far East naval forces said the plane reported "it was under attack by aircraft" at 1:25 a.m. Thursday (11:25 a.m. EST Wednesday).

Over Neutral Waters

"After making this report the plane suddenly stopped transmission," the spokesman said. "It was then operating 32 miles off Chinese Communist territory, 160 miles north of Formosa."

This would place it about opposite Juian and Wenchow, off the Red China coast.

The spokesman emphasized that the plane was over neutral waters. It carried a crew of four officers and 12 enlisted men aboard. He said he could offer no information on the identity or type of the attacking aircraft.

In Washington, the Navy said the plane was a P4M1 Mercator patrol plane and that an air and surface search for the plane and any survivors had been begun.

The plane had been on a routine flight from Japan, the Navy said.

Search Initiated

The Navy statement continued: "The commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet, Vice Adm. Stuart H. Ingersoll, has initiated an air and surface search for the plane or survivors and has provided air cover for the planes and ships taking part in the search.

"The plane's reported position at the time of the attack was approximately 160 miles north of Formosa and about 32 miles off the China coast over international waters. The plane, a P4M1 Mercator was powered by two jet and two reciprocating engines. It is designed for long overwater patrols and photographic reconnaissance. It normally carries a crew of nine. The missing plane was on a routine patrol flight at the time of attack."

Adlai Calls GOP Tax-Cut Pledge "Election Talk"

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 22 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson dismissed Republican tax reduction promises today as "just so much election talk" and what he called a reversal of President Eisenhower's own opposition to cuts.

The Democratic presidential nominee, warming up for a "person-to-person" stumping tour covering every crucial state, also contended the GOP is putting a "balanced budget" ahead of education, defense, agriculture and the "menace of communism in the world" in its efforts to re-elect Eisenhower.

Debt Increased Under GOP

And he declared that the national debt had been increased by 13 billion dollars under the Eisenhower administration and former Democratic President Harry S. Truman reduced it by 12 billion dollars while he was in office.

The former Illinois governor, again wearing the faded blue jeans which mark his regular attire at his farm home near here, let loose his onslaught against the Republican National Convention from the recreation room of his home.

Tour Plans Mapped

His daily news conference preceded the visit of James A. Finnegan, his campaign director, and Chairman Paul Butler of the Democratic National Committee to wrap up plans for a flying tour of the country next week to lay the groundwork for an uninterrupted election drive leading right up to the eve of the voting in November.

Actual campaigning will get under way Labor Day, Sept. 3, when he will speak in Detroit under the auspices of labor organizations in that area.

Oldest Delegate In Point Of Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Delaware delegation nominates 86-year-old John G. Townsend as the oldest delegate to the GOP National Convention in point of service. Townsend, former governor and senator, has attended every GOP convention but one since 1904.

"He thinks he was at the 1900 convention but can't be sure," Sen. John Williams said.

Cugat Tax Claim Filed

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—The State of New York today filed an income tax claim for $43,480 against band leader Xavier Cugat.

The claim says Cugat owes $15,861.62 in taxes and $27,691.04 in penalties for 1948 through 1952.

Farmer Seized, Removed To Pa. Mental Institution

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 22 (AP) — State's Atty. Omar T. Kaylor said today he was investigating the abduction of a farmer from the nearby Maugansville area and his removal to a Pennsylvania hospital.

Kaylor said he was told the farmer, Adin Hege, about 50, was seized Monday by six men while working on his farm, was given a hypodermic injection, and was then driven to Philhaven Hospital in Lebanon, Pa.

At Lebanon, Horace Martin, who identified himself as administrator of the Philhaven Hospital, said that Hege "has been here" but he refused to give any further information.

"We are reluctant to give any information on a patient because we consider our records confidential," Martin added. He identified the institution as "a hospital for mental and nervous diseases."

He added that Hege's family was "all in Maryland and declined to permit the patient to talk on the telephone.

The state's attorney said a nurse from Brooklane Hospital, an institution operated by the Mennonite sect, admitted being sent to the Hege farm by her superiors.

There is no record that Hege, born of Mennonite parents, was examined by a doctor or ordered committed to an institution by a court official, said Kaylor.

The abduction of Hege was reported to the state's attorney by persons who said they witnessed the episode.

Kaylor reported he had summoned six men for questioning about the case.

FBI officials in Baltimore said they also were investigating.

Nixon Keeps Vigil Beside Stricken Dad

Vice President's Father Near Death From Hemorrhage

WHITTIER, Calif., Aug. 22 (AP)—Vice President Nixon's father was taken critically ill today and his eldest son, considered a shoo-in for renomination tonight, flew here from the Republican National Convention to take up a bedside vigil.

Little hope was held for recovery of 77-year-old Frank A. Nixon.

The vice president's father was stricken with a dissecting abdominal aneurysm—bleeding of the major artery leading to the abdomen—in his home here at 4 a.m. today.

He suffered intense pain and, during the day, was intermittently unconscious.

Father Talks With Sons

The elder Nixon was conscious when his sons arrived, and asked to talk to them.

Despite his extremely critical condition, the father told the sons that he had been enjoying the Democratic and Republican conventions on the television set at the foot of his bed.

The senior Nixon was attended by the family physician and an internist, who have been treating him since he suffered a hemorrhage of stomach ulcers July 16.

"It is very doubtful that he will survive," the physicians told newsmen knotted across the street from the white, two-story stucco house in this orange-growing suburb of Los Angeles.

The doctors said the artery had ballooned, allowing blood to seep between the layers of the arterial walls.

Surgery Out Of Question

Because of Nixon's age, surgery is out of the question, they said.

"Patients sometimes recover," the physicians added, "but it is usually terminal. The odds in Mr. Nixon's case are very small."

The ailment was described as "a pitfall of old age" as a result of hardening of the arteries.

The doctors told newsmen that the question of the vice president returning to the convention will depend "on what we have to say tomorrow morning."

The vice president had said upon arrival, "I certainly will not return to San Francisco today. Whether I do tomorrow, I don't know."

British Terms Given Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Aug. 22 (INS)—British troops presented surrender terms tonight to Cypriot nationalists who last Thursday offered the British a truce.

Soldiers in army trucks rumbled through the countryside distributing yellow leaflets containing the surrender offer.

The rebels were called upon to lay down their arms beginning at midnight. They were given three weeks to do so.

The rebels also were given the choice of remaining in Cyprus or going to Greece if the Athens government accepted them.

Those deciding to go to Greece would be detained pending their actual departure. But, the British governor explained, none would be prosecuted for any crime he may have committed prior to today.

Nationalists who decide to remain in Cyprus were told they would be brought to trial if there were sufficient evidence that they had committed violence against any person.

The leaflets announced that at a later stage, when the governor, Field Marshal Sir John Harding, is satisfied that peace and stability have been restored to the rebellious island, an amnesty would be granted rebels now imprisoned for certain offenses.

The immediate reaction of Greek Cypriots was negative.

One youth who refused to give his name said:

"We will not lay down our arms until we achieve Enosis."

Enosis is union with Greece which the Ethnic Greeks in Cyprus—they comprise 80 percent of the island's population of 500,000—are demanding.

GOP Ticket

Stassen Feels He Owes Nixon All-Out Support

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—Amid the wreckage of his dump-Nixon campaign, Harold E. Stassen proclaimed today that he accepted the situation "wholeheartedly and cheerfully."

Stassen had vowed to fight to the end against the renomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, but today President Eisenhower announced, in effect, that his disarmament aide had tossed in the towel.

Stassen, the President said, had realized that the mass of the delegates to the GOP convention want Nixon, and therefore Stassen wanted to second the vice president's renomination.

Sees, Hears Ike On TV

Stassen listened in on television as Eisenhower made the announcement in the St. Francis Hotel. Stassen, who had conferred with the President earlier, then met reporters in his own suite on the ninth floor of the same hotel and told them:

"The President has stated the situation exactly."

Asked if he felt he owed Nixon an apology for attempting to drop him from the GOP ticket, Stassen replied:

"I feel I owe Mr. Nixon my all-out support from this point."

Stassen, on leave from his disarmament post, said he would be back in that job on the morning of Aug. 27.

Feels Campaign Proper

"I always had complete confidence that what I was doing was recognized and respected by the President as entirely proper," Stassen said with reference to his dump-Nixon drive.

He said this belief of his was reinforced at the conference he had with Eisenhower today.

Stassen was asked if he still feels, as he has repeatedly contended, that Nixon's name on the ticket would cost the party millions of votes in November.

He said he felt that there was no real point in commenting on things that were past.

Navy Confirms New U.S. Air Speed Mark

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(INS)—The Navy confirmed today that a new American speed record has been set by one of its F8U-1 jet fighters which traveled more than 1,000 miles an hour.

The Navy statement said the record was set over the Mojave Desert Tuesday in a plane piloted by Commander Robert W. Windsor.

The flight shatters the old U. S. mph set by Air Force Colonel mark for combat planes of 822 mph set by Air Force Colonel Horace A. Hanes in a F-100C "Super-Sabre" last fall.

A Navy spokesman said only that Windsor flew his craft over 1,000 mph but short of the 1,132 mph world record established by a British Delta-Wing research plane last spring.

Egypt Is Ready To "Negotiate"

CAIRO, Aug. 22 (INS)—A source close to President Gamal Abdel Nasser said tonight that the amended U. S. proposals for international management of the Suez Canal are "still unacceptable" to Egypt, but the Cairo government has "no objections to negotiations."

Nasser returned to Cairo from a brief holiday in Alexandria tonight and immediately conferred with his close advisors on latest developments in London, where 22 nations are preparing to wind up their conference on Nasser's nationalization of the canal.

The Egyptian source was asked about a London report that Egypt might negotiate on Suez if Britain and France withdrew troop reinforcements from the Middle East.

"Of course we have no objections to negotiations." The sorce refused to amplify.

India's Menon Blocks Majority At Suez Parley

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP)—India's V. K. Krishna Menon, backed by the Soviet Union and Ceylon, blocked the Suez conference majority today from speeding its international canal operation plan to Egypt for approval. A new air of crisis hung over the 22-nation conference.

Menon has said Egypt's President Nasser would reject the majority plan. Menon pleaded he needed more time to get fresh instructions from India's Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

The minority procedural maneuver—asking for instructions—is a common one used to block final decisions in international meetings.

"Little Filibuster"

American sources branded it "a little filibuster." Secretary of State Dulles emerged angrily from the conference room in Lancaster House, where the two sides had exchanged biting words.

Dulles, who finally agreed to a 24-hour delay, told the conference the U.S. proposal convered the views of countries representing 90 per cent of the tonnage going through the canal.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov also complained that the conference would go beyond its functions if it sent the majority plan to Cairo. He said that step would constitute a vote the conference was not supposed to take.

Spain Joins Majority

The majority grew to 18 today. Spain, with a big reservation, joined those who favor setting up an international board, with Egypt as a member, to operate the canal. It would be associated with the U.N.

Spain's Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo flew back from overnight consultations in Madrid to announce Spain would go along with the majority plan unless Nasser rejects it as a basis of negotiation.

Convention Is Enlivened By "Joe Smith" Episode

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—Nebraska threw the Republican convention into momentary confusion — and mirth — tonight by proposing Joe Smith for vice president.

"Joe who?" inquired Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr., his brow wrinkled in perplexity.

"Joe Smith," firmly replied Mrs. George P. Abel of Lincoln, chairman of the Nebraska delegation.

Martin, who has heard all sorts of unlikely suggestions as minority leader and former speaker of the House, took it in stride.

"Nebraska," he said, "reserves the right to nominate Joe Smith, whoever he is."

Least of all Mrs. Abel.

"I haven't the faintest idea who Joe Smith is," she told a reporter.

In fact, said Mrs. Abel, she was opposed to the whole thing.

All she knew, she said, was that a fellow member of the delegation, a man named Terry Carpenter, wanted to put Joe Smith into nomination and she guessed he had the right to.

All of which delayed the start of a speech by Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts to place in nomination the name of Richard M. Nixon for vice president.

Carpenter, who hails from Scotts Bluff, was led from the hall by guards at the instigation of Martin, who told the Nebraska delegate:

"You take your Joe Smith and get out of here."

Carpenter took his bum's rush calmly.

Why had he nominated Joe Smith?

Said Carpenter:

"Well, this has been a pretty dull show."

Pair To Again Accept Party Call Tonight

Nebraska Delegate Enlivens Conclave With His 'Joe Smith'

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Republican National Convention tonight unanimously renominated for the 1956 political wars their victorious team of 1952 — Dwight D. Eisenhower for president, Richard M. Nixon for his running mate.

It was Eisenhower and Nixon all the way, through the convention and through months of preliminaries, with never a real, threatening challenge for either.

For each of them, the party partisans had a tremendous, roaring, throbbing ovation as the names were offered in nomination.

Eisenhower watched it all, heard all the praise it was possible to pour out on a man, through a television set in his downtown hotel.

Nixon was 400 miles away, keeping vigil at the bedside of his desperately ill father at Whittier, Calif.

Tomorrow the two accept once again the call of their party and march off to political battle against Democrats Adlai E. Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

Eisenhower will accept in this great hall in person — Nixon, too, if the condition of his father permits.

It was Nevada and its 12 votes which clinched the nominations in turn for Eisenhower and Nixon, some halfway through the roll call of states. It took 662 votes to nominate.

For a time it looked as if Nixon would hang one vote shy of gathering in all 1,323 votes of the convention.

Delegate Terry (Terrible Terry) Carpenter of Nebraska had been bent for a time on putting up a "Joe Smith" — a man he said is "retired from work" and living on security back home.

On the first go-round, the report from Nebraska was:

"Nebraska casts 17 votes for Richard Nixon. There is one delegate passing."

But Carpenter, who had been given an official heave-ho from the hall at one point, was allowed back in. And in the end Nebraska announced that "we wish to be registered as having 18 votes for Vice President Nixon."

That business of Joe Smith was the one bit of comic relief in the whole convention.

For a while there was a bit of a family fuss over installing Nixon again as Eisenhower's running mate. But that had been patched up in the final hours before tonight's climactic moments of this 100th anniversary assemblage of the GOP.

It was Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana who placed Eisenhower's name in nomination and called the President "our greatest American today."

It was Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts who nominated Nixon.

Once Harold E. Stassen had hoped to stop Nixon and put Herter in the ticket's No. 2 spot, but Herter would have none of that.

"If we support Ike," Herter said, "if we take pride in the record of his administration, if we have faith in his crusade, we also take pride, we also have faith in the vice president who has helped to create that record and direct that crusade. In him we have a unique combination of experience and maturity with youth and energy. It's a winning combination—part of a winning team!

"Let's not break up that winning team! Let's renominate the man whom Ike himself has called its most valuable member!"

Adlai Congratulates Ike On Renomination

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 22 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson congratulated President Eisenhower tonight on his renomination and said "I am pleased to be matched against him again."

Stevenson's congratulations were voiced in a statement in which he referred obliquely to Vice President Richard Nixon's renomination and declared:

"I suppose we will now witness the greatest dry cleaning job in our political history."

Little hope was held for recovery of 77-year-old Frank A. Nixon.

The vice president's father was stricken with a dissecting abdominal aneurysm—bleeding of the major artery leading to the abdomen—in his home here at 4 a.m. today.

He suffered intense pain and, during the day, was intermittently unconscious.

Father Talks With Sons

The elder Nixon was conscious when his sons arrived, and asked to talk to them.

Despite his extremely critical condition, the father told the sons that he had been enjoying the Democratic and Republican conventions on the television set at the foot of his bed.

The senior Nixon was attended by the family physician and an internist, who have been treating him since he suffered a hemorrhage of stomach ulcers July 16.

"It is very doubtful that he will survive," the physicians told newsmen knotted across the street from the white, two-story stucco house in this orange-growing suburb of Los Angeles.

The doctors said the artery had ballooned, allowing blood to seep between the layers of the arterial walls.

Surgery Out Of Question

Because of Nixon's age, surgery is out of the question, they said.

"Patients sometimes recover," the physicians added, "but it is usually terminal. The odds in Mr. Nixon's case are very small."

The ailment was described as "a pitfall of old age" as a result of hardening of the arteries.

The doctors told newsmen that the question of the vice president returning to the convention will depend "on what we have to say tomorrow morning."

The vice president had said upon arrival, "I certainly will not return to San Francisco today. Whether I do tomorrow, I don't know."

British Terms Given Cypriots

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Aug. 22 (INS)—British troops presented surrender terms tonight to Cypriot nationalists who last Thursday offered the British a truce.

Soldiers in army trucks rumbled through the countryside distributing yellow leaflets containing the surrender offer.

The rebels were called upon to lay down their arms beginning at midnight. They were given three weeks to do so.

The rebels also were given the choice of remaining in Cyprus or going to Greece if the Athens government accepted them.

Those deciding to go to Greece would be detained pending their actual departure. But, the British governor explained, none would be prosecuted for any crime he may have committed prior to today.

Nationalists who decide to remain in Cyprus were told they would be brought to trial if there were sufficient evidence that they had committed violence against any person.

The leaflets announced that at a later stage, when the governor, Field Marshal Sir John Harding, is satisfied that peace and stability have been restored to the rebellious island, an amnesty would be granted rebels now imprisoned for certain offenses.

The immediate reaction of Greek Cypriots was negative.

One youth who refused to give his name said:

"We will not lay down our arms until we achieve Enosis."

Enosis is union with Greece which the Ethnic Greeks in Cyprus—they comprise 80 percent of the island's population of 500,000—are demanding.

Stassen Feels He Owes Nixon All-Out Support

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—Amid the wreckage of his dump-Nixon campaign, Harold E. Stassen proclaimed today that he accepted the situation "wholeheartedly and cheerfully."

Stassen had vowed to fight to the end against the renomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, but today President Eisenhower announced, in effect, that his disarmament aide had tossed in the towel.

Stassen, the President said, had realized that the mass of the delegates to the GOP convention want Nixon, and therefore Stassen wanted to second the vice president's renomination.

Sees, Hears Ike On TV

Stassen listened in on television as Eisenhower made the announcement in the St. Francis Hotel. Stassen, who had conferred with the President earlier, then met reporters in his own suite on the ninth floor of the same hotel and told them:

"The President has stated the situation exactly."

Asked if he felt he owed Nixon an apology for attempting to drop him from the GOP ticket, Stassen replied:

"I feel I owe Mr. Nixon my all-out support from this point."

Stassen, on leave from his disarmament post, said he would be back in that job on the morning of Aug. 27.

Feels Campaign Proper

"I always had complete confidence that what I was doing was recognized and respected by the President as entirely proper," Stassen said with reference to his dump-Nixon drive.

He said this belief of his was reinforced at the conference he had with Eisenhower today.

Stassen was asked if he still feels, as he has repeatedly contended, that Nixon's name on the ticket would cost the party millions of votes in November.

He said he felt that there was no real point in commenting on things that were past.

Navy Confirms New U.S. Air Speed Mark

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—(INS)—The Navy confirmed today that a new American speed record has been set by one of its F8U-1 jet fighters which traveled more than 1,000 miles an hour.

The Navy statement said the record was set over the Mojave Desert Tuesday in a plane piloted by Commander Robert W. Windsor.

The flight shatters the old U. S. mph set by Air Force Colonel mark for combat planes of 822 mph set by Air Force Colonel Horace A. Hanes in a F-100C "Super-Sabre" last fall.

A Navy spokesman said only that Windsor flew his craft over 1,000 mph but short of the 1,132 mph world record established by a British Delta-Wing research plane last spring.

Egypt Is Ready To "Negotiate"

CAIRO, Aug. 22 (INS)—A source close to President Gamal Abdel Nasser said tonight that the amended U. S. proposals for international management of the Suez Canal are "still unacceptable" to Egypt, but the Cairo government has "no objections to negotiations."

Nasser returned to Cairo from a brief holiday in Alexandria tonight and immediately conferred with his close advisors on latest developments in London, where 22 nations are preparing to wind up their conference on Nasser's nationalization of the canal.

The Egyptian source was asked about a London report that Egypt might negotiate on Suez if Britain and France withdrew troop reinforcements from the Middle East.

"Of course we have no objections to negotiations." The sorce refused to amplify.

Convention Is Enlivened By "Joe Smith" Episode

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—Nebraska threw the Republican convention into momentary confusion — and mirth — tonight by proposing Joe Smith for vice president.

"Joe who?" inquired Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr., his brow wrinkled in perplexity.

"Joe Smith," firmly replied Mrs. George P. Abel of Lincoln, chairman of the Nebraska delegation.

Martin, who has heard all sorts of unlikely suggestions as minority leader and former speaker of the House, took it in stride.

"Nebraska," he said, "reserves the right to nominate Joe Smith, whoever he is."

Least of all Mrs. Abel.

"I haven't the faintest idea who Joe Smith is," she told a reporter.

In fact, said Mrs. Abel, she was opposed to the whole thing.

All she knew, she said, was that a fellow member of the delegation, a man named Terry Carpenter, wanted to put Joe Smith into nomination and she guessed he had the right to.

All of which delayed the start of a speech by Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts to place in nomination the name of Richard M. Nixon for vice president.

Carpenter, who hails from Scotts Bluff, was led from the hall by guards at the instigation of Martin, who told the Nebraska delegate:

"You take your Joe Smith and get out of here."

Carpenter took his bum's rush calmly.

Why had he nominated Joe Smith?

Said Carpenter:

India's Menon Blocks Majority At Suez Parley

LONDON, Aug. 22 (AP)—India's V. K. Krishna Menon, backed by the Soviet Union and Ceylon, blocked the Suez conference majority today from speeding its international canal operation plan to Egypt for approval. A new air of crisis hung over the 22-nation conference.

Menon has said Egypt's President Nasser would reject the majority plan. Menon pleaded he needed more time to get fresh instructions from India's Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

The minority procedural maneuver—asking for instructions—is a common one used to block final decisions in international meetings.

"Little Filibuster"

American sources branded it "a little filibuster." Secretary of State Dulles emerged angrily from the conference room in Lancaster House, where the two sides had exchanged biting words.

Dulles, who finally agreed to a 24-hour delay, told the conference the U.S. proposal covered the views of countries representing 90 per cent of the tonnage going through the canal.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov also complained that the conference would go beyond its functions if it sent the majority plan to Cairo. He said that step would constitute a vote the conference was not supposed to take.

Spain Joins Majority

The majority grew to 18 today. Spain, with a big reservation, joined those who favor setting up an international board, with Egypt as a member, to operate the canal. It would be associated with the U.N.

Spain's Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo flew back from overnight consultations in Madrid to announce Spain would go along with the majority plan unless Nasser rejects it as a basis of negotiation.

Pair To Again Accept Party Call Tonight

Nebraska Delegate Enlivens Conclave With His 'Joe Smith'

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Republican National Convention tonight unanimously renominated for the 1956 political wars their victorious team of 1952 — Dwight D. Eisenhower for president, Richard M. Nixon for his running mate.

It was Eisenhower and Nixon all the way, through the convention and through months of preliminaries, with never a real, threatening challenge for either.

For each of them, the party partisans had a tremendous, roaring, throbbing ovation as the names were offered in nomination.

Eisenhower watched it all, heard all the praise it was possible to pour out on a man, through a television set in his downtown hotel.

Nixon was 400 miles away, keeping vigil at the bedside of his desperately ill father at Whittier, Calif.

Tomorrow the two accept once again the call of their party and march off to political battle against Democrats Adlai E. Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

Eisenhower will accept in this great hall in person — Nixon, too, if the condition of his father permits.

It was Nevada and its 12 votes which clinched the nominations in turn for Eisenhower and Nixon, some halfway through the roll call of states. It took 662 votes to nominate.

For a time it looked as if Nixon would hang one vote shy of gathering in all 1,323 votes of the convention.

Delegate Terry (Terrible Terry) Carpenter of Nebraska had been bent for a time on putting up a "Joe Smith" — a man he said is "retired from work" and living on security back home.

On the first go-round, the report from Nebraska was:

"Nebraska casts 17 votes for Richard Nixon. There is one delegate passing."

But Carpenter, who had been given an official heave-ho from the hall at one point, was allowed back in. And in the end Nebraska announced that "we wish to be registered as having 18 votes for Vice President Nixon."

That business of Joe Smith was the one bit of comic relief in the whole convention.

For a while there was a bit of a family fuss over installing Nixon again as Eisenhower's running mate. But that had been patched up in the final hours before tonight's climactic moments of this 100th anniversary assemblage of the GOP.

It was Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana who placed Eisenhower's name in nomination and called the President "our greatest American today."

It was Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts who nominated Nixon.

Once Harold E. Stassen had hoped to stop Nixon and put Herter in the ticket's No. 2 spot, but Herter would have none of that.

"If we support Ike," Herter said, "if we take pride in the record of his administration, if we have faith in his crusade, we also take pride, we also have faith in the vice president who has helped to create that record and direct that crusade. In him we have a unique combination of experience and maturity with youth and energy. It's a winning combination—part of a winning team!

"Let's not break up that winning team! Let's renominate the man whom Ike himself has called its most valuable member!"

Adlai Congratulates Ike On Renomination

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 22 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson congratulated President Eisenhower tonight on his renomination and said "I am pleased to be matched against him again."

Stevenson's congratulations were voiced in a statement in which he referred obliquely to Vice President Richard Nixon's renomination and declared:

"I suppose we will now witness the greatest dry cleaning job in our political history."

$250 Million Air Safety Program To Be Launched

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—The government today took the first step in a big three-year program in which 250 million dollars will be spent to increase aviation safety and get airports ready for the jet plane age.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration announced nearly 200 sites for installation of the latest types of air navigation and traffic control equipment, including long-range radar units which eventually will blanket the nation.

CAA said contracts will be let by November and installation of some of the less complicated equipment should be started by late spring. These initial contracts call for the expenditure of a 75-million-dollar fund available for the current fiscal year. Contracts for additional equipment will be let later.

Originally the aviation safety program was set down as a five-year plan. In early summer, because of the increasing need for safety improvements, the government decided to telescope the plan and complete it in three years.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks announced the step-up in speed in July and said that with additional money appropriated it would be "the greatest federal aviation program in history."

Among the early contracts will be those for production of 25 long-range radar units to cost from three-quarters of a million to a million dollars each. Eventually there will be 73 such units in operation.

Addition of the 25 units at as many sites in the next 12 to 18 months will make about 30 in operation with a visual range of around 100 miles.

Such radars already are in operation in the New York and Washington air route traffic control centers. Additional data is piped into the New York center from a long-range Navy radar at Atlantic City, N. J. Units already have been ordered and will be put in service at Norfolk, Va., about Sept. 1 and in Chicago by Nov. 30.

CAA said it will take manufacturers about a year to turn out radar units for the additional 25 cities on the initial list.

Baltimore's Mayor Acts To Trim Budget

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro today decided his administration has a job of budget pruning to do.

Charles L. Benton, Jr., city budget director, reported to the Board of Estimates that budget requests of city departments for next year total $145,148,105, an increase of $13,440,616 over current allotments.

Benton said this would require a property tax rate of $3.70, an increase of 57 cents over the present figure.

If all the other proposals not provided for in the budget requests—such as salary raises for firemen and policemen and addition of 300 policemen to the force—were added, Benton said, a tax rate of $4.21 would be required.

The mayor said he was gravely concerned over the increased requests. On his motion the board named a committee to revise the budget.

Ever Hear of a "Clearance" Like This?

People here are invited to enjoy a "clearance" of old or accumulated bills on an "All Bills Paid" plan offered by Aetna Finance Co.

Here is how it works: You add up all your bills—and also your monthly installment payments. The bills and debts are then paid in full immediately, and just one payment arranged each month. Usually this means less to pay. You get out of debt—and your payments are reduced, besides.

Up to $1500 cash is available to employed persons for this or other purpose. The money may be obtained on signature or other plan. Fast, one-trip service offered. Persons now owing money who would like to take advantage of this plan are urged to call or see Aetna Finance Co. 48 N. Centre St., Dial PA 4-5800.

Ike Has New Quality; Could Be Fulfillment

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower doesn't look in the least like a lassoed man being dragged unwillingly into another presidential campaign and possibly four more years in the White House.

Anything but.

He looks like a man who knows exactly where he is going, and is glad to be on the way. There is a brand new quality about him today, a kind of plus quality.

He comes boiling into a room as though the door wasn't there. But he always did. The smile is still a sudden incandescence. The furrow between his eyes when he is concentrating may be a little deeper, but it isn't new either.

It's hard to define, this new air. In trying, you go back through a montage of memories—

ALGIERS, 1943—"We're going to invade Sicily in about a month ... You can't write it ... You can't even talk about it among yourselves ... I'm telling you so that you can make your plans."

No military commander in history ever gave correspondents such important information. Eisenhower had learned to trust reporters. He was not disappointed.

LONDON, 1945—Victory—roaring throngs in Trafalgar Square ... a balcony ... Eisenhower makes a long speech about the war and the meaning of relations between the Allies ... As he finishes, he turns quickly to Winston Churchill ... "Was it all right, Winnie?"

That was one of the first major speeches Eisenhower ever made. He was by no means sure of it then, nor himself.

FRANCE, 1951—The big question: Will Gen. Eisenhower come home next year from NATO to try for the presidential nomination? You sit in his office outside Paris for nearly an hour, asking questions. He is cautious, guarded. He has been in the Army all his life, and there is a lot he just doesn't know. You come away with no inkling of his real intentions.

KANSAS, 1952 — His compartment on a train after the Abilene kick-off speech ... A handful of reporters ... "I'll tell you why I'm in this thing. The world situation looks terribly serious to me and if I can help, with my experience, I want to try." He speaks uneasily of "splinter parties" such as he has seen in Europe.

NEW YORK, 1952—A news conference ... and something brand new in political candidates, a man who can say, candidly, "I don't know." ... He doesn't have the answers to every domestic problem, "but I intend to find out darned quick."

A campaign train in the West, 1952—He is struggling mightily to master the trick of "whistle-stopping," of the off-the-cuff talk from the rear platform ... Gets himself all wound up in some of the most tortured syntax the English language has ever seen ... He sometimes says "Indonesia" when he means "Indochina" ... Once he gets a political cliche mixed up and denounces the "cigar-filled room."

The Commodore Hotel, New York, election night—The returns are in ... at a comparatively early hour, the election is conceded ... Dwight D. Eisenhower, president-elect, comes into the main ballroom ... He is not smiling, he doesn't look jubilant ... His expression is humble and serious ... "Thank you for your help. I will need it even more now."

This is the same man who came into San Francisco, made a graceful little speech at the airport, happily waved to the crowds on the way to town, and then got on a treadmill of conferences.

The new quality of the President?

Convention Highlights

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Sen. Prescott Bush, a couple of pretty important Republicans, got together on this highlight day of the GOP National Convention, but their minds strayed from politics a bit—to golf.

Bush actually called on the President to report officially that the convention unanimously had approved the party platform last night.

The Connecticut senator was chairman of the committee which drafted the document. He spent about 10 or 15 minutes with the President, and told newsmen later the chief executive was "very well satisfied with the platform."

Then about golf—

Bush reported he had expressed regret that he couldn't stay a bit longer on the coast to play a round with Eisenhower after the convention at Cypress Point. The President plans to vacation there for a few days.

Mostly, Bush said they talked about the 16th "water" hole and how it should be played. Bush called it one of the toughest in the country and described two ways of playing it:

The hard way, shooting straight into the prevailing wind and hoping the tee shot will carry over the water.

The easy way, playing it in dog-leg fashion so that the first shot lands on the edge of the water hazard.

"The President is going to take the short cut," said Bush. "I would myself."

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—Adjacent San Mateo County is boiling mad.

In all the millions of words transmitted from these precincts about the Republican convention, there hasn't been a single mention—so far as the good people of San Mateo know—of their fair county. All the newspapers, TV and radio describe so glowingly is San Francisco.

But, ask the partisans of San Mateo, where is this convention being held? In the Cow Palace. And exactly where is the Cow Palace? In San Mateo County, just across the line from San Francisco.

Minister Demoted

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Romanian minister for communications, Jonel Diaconescu, has been demoted for lacking foresight, Radio Bucharest said today. Disconescu will hold the post of deputy communications minister under Jon Cozma, a Politburo member, the radio said.

Three Dead In Crash Caused By Quarrel

PORTLAND, Maine Aug. 22 (AP)—An automobile accident stemming from a family quarrel claimed its third victim today.

Mrs. Pauline Metcalf, 33, of Westbrook, died of injuries at the Maine Medical Center.

The husband, Ernest, 34, and their 4-year-old son, William, perished when the family car crashed into a tree at Westbrook last Friday.

Another son, Peter, 6, told police his father turned to slap his wife and the car went out of control.

Peter is still in the hospital with two broken legs and other injuries.

Russia Seeking U.S. Subscriptions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Russia has begun soliciting subscriptions in the United States for its projected new monthly picture magazine U.S.S.R.

The magazine would be distributed here as part of an arrangement for the United States to circulate a Russian-language magazine Amerika in the Soviet Union. The distribution of each magazine was to have started in each country several weeks ago but Soviet officials reportedly have not been in a rush to complete arrangements for circulating Amerika.

Soil Bank Program Deadline Extended

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today extended to Aug. 31 the deadline for farmers to comply with the 1956 acreage reserve program of the soil bank.

The extension, from Aug. 3, was announced by Acting Secretary True D. Morse.

Unless crops are plowed under or removed from land designated for the acreage reserve, by Aug. 31, Morse said, they will be ineligible for government payments.

Morse said in announcing the latest extension that comparatively few farmers had understood the penalty provisions of the acreage reserve program.

While the deadline for compliance previously was Aug. 3, an official said that no penalty action was taken in any case after it expired.

Howard County Court Suit Calls For Segregation

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—Twenty-eight parents today petitioned the Howard County Circuit Court to order the county school board to "establish and maintain separate schools" for Negroes.

The suit is the same as one filed Aug. 7 in Anne Arundel County by eight parents against school officials there. The cases are the first of their kind in Maryland.

The suit was filed for the parents by George Washington Williams, who sought the Democratic senatorial nomination on a State's Rights platform last spring, and was sponsored by the Maryland Petition Committee. Williams also is handling the Anne Arundel County case.

Anne Arundel officials have asked the State to defend them.

The petition declares that State law requires the board to operate separate facilities for Negro and white pupils. The Supreme Court's decisions outlawing segregation contain errors "in both law and fact," it said.

A hearing on the petition was set for Sept. 21 in Howard County Circuit Court.

Williams gave these reasons for challenging the Supreme Court decisions:

1. The 14th Amendment, upon which the decisions were partly based, "was illegally proposed by the Congress (in 1866) because of the forced absence of representatives of ten Southern States. . . and was illegally proclaimed and acted upon as having been ratified by the requisite three-fourths of the States to which the same had been submitted. . . ."

2. "Even if the 14th Amendment had been legally ratified. . . It does not appear from the opinions of the court that due consideration and respect or value" was given to the purpose of Congress in proposing the amendment.

3. This purpose could not have supported racial integration in public schools because "the same Congress that proposed the amendment enacted a segregation school law for the District of Columbia."

4. An examination of the history of the amendment shows that, if it had obviously provided for integration, "it would now be resting in Tartarus or some other Limbo of the damned or merely in some mnemonic memory."

5. The integration decisions are "in violation of the 9th and 10th Amendments, as they infringe upon, violate and conflict with the rights and powers reserved there under to the several States. . . ."

Dewey, Booed In '52, Given Ovation In '56

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey got a far different reception at the Republican National Convention today than the one given him at the 1952 GOP convention.

Then during the bitter debate, he was soundly booed when Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, pointed at Dewey and cried: "You led us down the road to defeat."

The crowd booed—a reminder that twice Dewey had been the GOP's presidential nominee and twice had been defeated.

Everything was sweetness and light today, though. Dewey got a three-minute ovation, and there was a parade led by the New York delegation.

"Dewey could have had 1952 in mind when, before launching into his prepared speech, he said:

"It is wonderful to be at a Republican convention where nobody is mad at anybody else."

Dry Weather Aids Harvest Of Maryland's Fruit Crops

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—The recent dry weather has led to excellent progress in the harvest of the Central and Western Maryland fruit crops.

The weekly crop report from the University of Maryland for last week said a good quality crop of Summer Rambo apples and Hale Haven peaches were being picked in Washington County and in other important fruit producing areas in north central Maryland.

Varieties moving in smaller quantities in the same area include Wealthy apples and Hiley and Golden East peaches.

Harvest of vegetables and hay also went well as the weather encouraged field work. Growing crops were beginning to need rain, however, on the western half of the Delmarva Peninsula and in scattered localities elsewhere.

Austria Battles Floods

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Aug. 22 (AP)—Thousands of troops, police and voluntary workers fought floods today in Austria's western provinces of Tyrol and Salzburg.

Originally the aviation safety program was set down as a five-year plan. In early summer, because of the increasing need for safety improvements, the government decided to telescope the plan and complete it in three years.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks announced the step-up in speed in July and said that with additional money appropriated it would be "the greatest federal aviation program in history."

Among the early contracts will be those for production of 25 long-range radar units to cost from three-quarters of a million to a million dollars each. Eventually there will be 73 such units in operation.

Addition of the 25 units at as many sites in the next 12 to 18 months will make about 30 in operation with a visual range of around 100 miles.

Such radars already are in operation in the New York and Washington air route traffic control centers. Additional data is piped into the New York center from a long-range Navy radar at Atlantic City, N. J. Units already have been ordered and will be put in service at Norfolk, Va., about Sept. 1 and in Chicago by Nov. 30.

CAA said it will take manufacturers about a year to turn out radar units for the additional 25 cities on the initial list.

Baltimore's Mayor Acts To Trim Budget

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro today decided his administration has a job of budget pruning to do.

Charles L. Benton, Jr., city budget director, reported to the Board of Estimates that budget requests of city departments for next year total $145,148,105, an increase of $13,440,616 over current allotments.

Benton said this would require a property tax rate of $3.70, an increase of 57 cents over the present figure.

If all the other proposals not provided for in the budget requests —such as salary raises for firemen and policemen and addition of 300 policemen to the force— were added, Benton said, a tax rate of $4.21 would be required.

The mayor said he was gravely concerned over the increased requests. On his motion the board named a committee to revise the budget.

Ever Hear of a "Clearance" Like This?

People here are invited to enjoy a "clearance" of old or accumulated bills on an "All Bills Paid" plan offered by Aetna Finance Co.

Here is how it works: You add up all your bills—and also your monthly installment payments. The bills and debts are then paid in full immediately, and just one payment arranged each month. Usually this means less to pay. You get out of debt—and your payments are reduced, besides.

Up to $1500 cash is available to employed persons for this or other purpose. The money may be obtained on signature or other plan. Fast, one-trip service offered. Persons now owing money who would like to take advantage of this plan are urged to call or see Aetna Finance Co. 48 N. Centre St., Dial PA 4-5800.

Ike Has New Quality; Could Be Fulfillment

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower doesn't look in the least like a lassoed man being dragged unwillingly into another presidential campaign and possibly four more years in the White House.

Anything but.

He looks like a man who knows exactly where he is going, and is glad to be on the way. There is a brand new quality about him today, a kind of plus quality.

He comes boiling into a room as though the door wasn't there. But he always did. The smile is still a sudden incandescence. The furrow between his eyes when he is concentrating may be a little deeper, but it isn't new either.

It's hard to define, this new air. In trying, you go back through a montage of memories—

ALGIERS, 1943—"We're going to invade Sicily in about a month ... You can't write it ... You can't even talk about it among yourselves ... I'm telling you so that you can make your plans."

No military commander in history ever gave correspondents such important information. Eisenhower had learned to trust reporters. He was not disappointed.

LONDON, 1945—Victory—roaring throngs in Trafalgar Square ... a balcony ... Eisenhower makes a long speech about the war and the meaning of relations between the Allies ... As he finishes, he turns quickly to Winston Churchill ... "Was it all right, Winnie?"

That was one of the first major speeches Eisenhower ever made. He was by no means sure of it then, nor himself.

FRANCE, 1951—The big question: Will Gen. Eisenhower come home next year from NATO to try for the presidential nomination? You sit in his office outside Paris for nearly an hour, asking questions. He is cautious, guarded. He has been in the Army all his life, and there is a lot he just doesn't know. You come away with no inkling of his real intentions.

KANSAS, 1952 — His compartment on a train after the Abilene kick-off speech ... A handful of reporters ... "I'll tell you why I'm in this thing. The world situation looks terribly serious to me and if I can help, with my experience, I want to try." He speaks uneasily of "splinter parties" such as he has seen in Europe.

NEW YORK, 1952—A news conference ... and something brand new in political candidates, a man who can say, candidly, "I don't know." ... He doesn't have the answers to every domestic problem, "but I intend to find out darned quick."

A campaign train in the West, 1952—He is struggling mightily to master the trick of "whistle-stopping," of the off-the-cuff talk from the rear platform ... Gets himself all wound up in some of the most tortured syntax the English language has ever seen ... He sometimes says "Indonesia" when he means "Indochina" ... Once he gets a political cliche mixed up and denounces the "cigar-filled room."

The Commodore Hotel, New York, election night—The returns are in ... at a comparatively early hour, the election is conceded ... Dwight D. Eisenhower, president-elect, comes into the main ballroom ... He is not smiling, he doesn't look jubilant ... His expression is humble and serious ... "Thank you for your help. I will need it even more now."

This is the same man who came into San Francisco, made a graceful little speech at the airport, happily waved to the crowds on the way to town, and then got on a treadmill of conferences.

The new quality of the President?

Convention Highlights

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Sen. Prescott Bush, a couple of pretty important Republicans, got together on this highlight day of the GOP National Convention, but their minds strayed from politics a bit—to golf.

Bush actually called on the President to report officially that the convention unanimously had approved the party platform last night.

The Connecticut senator was chairman of the committee which drafted the document. He spent about 10 or 15 minutes with the President, and told newsmen later the chief executive was "very well satisfied with the platform."

Then about golf—

Bush reported he had expressed regret that he couldn't stay a bit longer on the coast to play a round with Eisenhower after the convention at Cypress Point. The President plans to vacation there for a few days.

Mostly, Bush said they talked about the 16th "water" hole and how it should be played. Bush called it one of the toughest in the country and described two ways of playing it:

The hard way, shooting straight into the prevailing wind and hoping the tee shot will carry over the water.

The easy way, playing it in dog-leg fashion so that the first shot lands on the edge of the water hazard.

"The President is going to take the short cut," said Bush. "I would myself."

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—Adjacent San Mateo County is boiling mad.

In all the millions of words transmitted from these precincts about the Republican convention, there hasn't been a single mention —so far as the good people of San Mateo know—of their fair county. All the newspapers, TV and radio describe so glowingly is San Francisco.

But, ask the partisans of San Mateo, where is this convention being held? In the Cow Palace. And exactly where is the Cow Palace? In San Mateo County, just across the line from San Francisco.

Minister Demoted

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Romanian minister for communications, Jonel Diaconescu, has been demoted for lacking foresight, Radio Bucharest said today. Disconescu will hold the post of deputy communications minister under Jon Cozma, a Politburo member, the radio said.

Three Dead In Crash Caused By Quarrel

PORTLAND, Maine Aug. 22 (AP)—An automobile accident stemming from a family quarrel claimed its third victim today.

Mrs. Pauline Metcalf, 33, of Westbrook, died of injuries at the Maine Medical Center.

The husband, Ernest, 34, and their 4-year-old son, William, perished when the family car crashed into a tree at Westbrook last Friday.

Another son, Peter, 6, told police his father turned to slap his wife and the car went out of control.

Peter is still in the hospital with two broken legs and other injuries.

Russia Seeking U.S. Subscriptions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Russia has begun soliciting subscriptions in the United States for its projected new monthly picture magazine U.S.S.R.

The magazine would be distributed here as part of an arrangement for the United States to circulate a Russian-language magazine Amerika in the Soviet Union. The distribution of each magazine was to have started in each country several weeks ago but Soviet officials reportedly have not been in a rush to complete arrangements for circulating Amerika.

Soil Bank Program Deadline Extended

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today extended to Aug. 31 the deadline for farmers to comply with the 1956 acreage reserve program of the soil bank.

The extension, from Aug. 3, was announced by Acting Secretary True D. Morse.

Unless crops are plowed under or removed from land designated for the acreage reserve, by Aug. 31, Morse said, they will be ineligible for government payments.

Morse said in announcing the latest extension that comparatively few farmers had understood the penalty provisions of the acreage reserve program.

While the deadline for compliance previously was Aug. 3, an official said that no penalty action was taken in any case after it expired.

Howard County Court Suit Calls For Segregation

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—Twenty-eight parents today petitioned the Howard County Circuit Court to order the county school board to "establish and maintain separate schools" for Negroes.

The suit is the same as one filed Aug. 7 in Anne Arundel County by eight parents against school officials there. The cases are the first of their kind in Maryland.

The suit was filed for the parents by George Washington Williams, who sought the Democratic senatorial nomination on a State's Rights platform last spring, and was sponsored by the Maryland Petition Committee. Williams also is handling the Anne Arundel County case.

Anne Arundel officials have asked the State to defend them.

The petition declares that State law requires the board to operate separate facilities for Negro and white pupils. The Supreme Court's decisions outlawing segregation contain errors "in both law and fact," it said.

A hearing on the petition was set for Sept. 21 in Howard County Circuit Court.

Williams gave these reasons for challenging the Supreme Court decisions:

1. The 14th Amendment, upon which the decisions were partly based, "was illegally proposed by the Congress (in 1866) because of the forced absence of representatives of ten Southern States. . . and was illegally proclaimed and acted upon as having been ratified by the requisite three-fourths of the States to which the same had been submitted. . . ."

2. "Even if the 14th Amendment had been legally ratified. . . It does not appear from the opinions of the court that due consideration and respect or value" was given to the purpose of Congress in proposing the amendment.

3. This purpose could not have supported racial integration in public schools because "the same Congress that proposed the amendment enacted a segregation school law for the District of Columbia."

4. An examination of the history of the amendment shows that, if it had obviously provided for integration, "it would now be resting in Tartarus or some other Limbo of the damned or merely in some mnemonic memory."

5. The integration decisions are "in violation of the 9th and 10th Amendments, as they infringe upon, violate and conflict with the rights and powers reserved there under to the several States. . . ."

Dewey, Booed In '52, Given Ovation In '56

COW PALACE, San Francisco, Aug. 22 (AP)—Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey got a far different reception at the Republican National Convention today than the one given him at the 1952 GOP convention.

Then during the bitter debate, he was soundly booed when Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, pointed at Dewey and cried: "You led us down the road to defeat."

The crowd booed—a reminder that twice Dewey had been the GOP's presidential nominee and twice had been defeated.

Everything was sweetness and light today, though. Dewey got a three-minute ovation, and there was a parade led by the New York delegation.

"Dewey could have had 1952 in mind when, before launching into his prepared speech, he said:

Dry Weather Aids Harvest Of Maryland's Fruit Crops

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—The recent dry weather has led to excellent progress in the harvest of the Central and Western Maryland fruit crops.

The weekly crop report from the University of Maryland for last week said a good quality crop of Summer Rambo apples and Hale Haven peaches were being picked in Washington County and in other important fruit producing areas in north central Maryland.

Varieties moving in smaller quantities in the same area include Wealthy apples and Hiley and Golden East peaches.

Harvest of vegetables and hay also went well as the weather encouraged field work. Growing crops were beginning to need rain, however, on the western half of the Delmarva Peninsula and in scattered localities elsewhere.

Merger Of Two Big Coal Firms Is Considered

POCAHONTAS, Va., Aug. 22 (AP) —A possible merger of two huge coal companies was announced here today by A. R. Matthews of Bluefield, W. Va., president of Pocahontas Fuel Co.

The proposed merger would link Pocahontas with the company regarded as the world's largest coal producer, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co.

If the plan goes through, Matthews is slated to become president of Pittsburgh Consolidation. George H. Love of Pittsburgh, now the president, would become chairman of the board.

Matthews told Pocahontas stockholders that "informal discussions have taken place looking toward a possible exchange by Pocahontas stockholders of their common stock for unissued Pittsburgh Consolidation common stock."

The announcement came at a meeting originally called to vote on a proposed increase in Pocahontas fuel stock from 1,250,000 shares to three million shares. The meeting was adjourned until Oct. 22 without voting on the stock increase proposal.

Matthews said the proposed stock transfer would be on the basis of 2⅝ shares for each share of Pocahontas stock.

Pocahontas properties would continue under the same management except that Matthews would become president of Pittsburgh Consolidation.

Matthews said he understood a special meeting of shareholders of Pittsburgh Consolidation had been called for Nov. 5 to vote on a necessary increase of its authorized capital stock.

He also said no offer of exchange could be made prior to Oct. 20 because of the necessity of filing by Pittsburgh Consolidation of a registration statement under the securities act.

The mammoth Pittsburgh Company, which produced more than 28 million tons of coal last year, operates mines in the high volatile coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, northern West Virginia, and eastern Kentucky. Its stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Pocahontas, seventh largest coal producer in the nation last year, is the nation's largest commercial producer of low volatile coal, Matthews said. Production last year was more than eight million tons.

Intruder Tosses Cleaver, Escapes

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP) —As soon as Mike Papas opened the door to his lunchroom, he saw something was amiss. For one thing, the juke box was moved away from the wall.

He walked toward it. A man jumped from behind it and started for the rear door, which was locked.

Papas grabbed for him. He missed.

The intruder picked up a meat cleaver and threw it at Papas.

Papas ducked, and the cleaver crashed through a window.

Then the man quickly stepped through the broken window, ran down the alley and disappeared.

Papas retrieved his cleaver and ordered a new window. Nothing was missing from his lunchroom.

Legionnaires Take Up Flag Code Violations

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP) — A resolution calling for stiff penalties for violations of the United States Flag Code will be submitted to the state convention of the American Legion, probably tomorrow.

Daniel H. Burkhardt, state adjutant of the Legion, said today the penalties proposed in the resolution were calculated to deter violations against the American flag.

The resolution, scheduled for presentation at the convention which opened today, calls for a six-month prison sentence, a $250 fine, or both, for violations of the Flag Code.

Other resolutions will be offered to the convention on veterans affairs and local, national and international affairs.

Nearly 1,300 Legion and Legion Auxiliary members were on hand at the opening session of the convention in the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Friday, the delegates will recess in the afternoon to prepare for the big convention parade which is expected to draw a crowd of 100,000 in the downtown section.

The parade will start at the 5th Regiment Armory and proceed through the city's main streets past the reviewing stand in front of City Hall.

Cumberland Valley Firemen Convene

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 22 (AP)—The 55th annual convention of the Cumberland Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association gets underway here tomorrow, with more than 2,500 volunteer firemen and about 100 units expected to attend.

The association covers the surrounding section of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The highlight of the convention will be the grand parade on Saturday. It will feature bands, drum and bugle corps, floats, fire trucks and fire fighting equipment, beauty contestants, marching units, drill teams and all sorts of equipment.

A torchlight parade will be staged through the downtown section Friday night.

Condemnation Suits Are Filed For Road Rights

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—The State Roads Commission today filed nine condemnation suits to acquire property for the new Thurmont by-pass, to be a new part of U. S. 15.

The action, taken under a new law passed by the last session of the General Assembly which became effective June 1, is intended to prevent real estate speculation in the path of the new highway and to expedite real estate transactions.

With the filing of the suits, the properties immediately become available for highway purposes, and the property values are frozen for a period of one year.

The state plans to acquire rights of way 200 feet wide for the Thurmont by-pass. The first construction calls for one lane only.

Eighty-five properties are involved in this construction. Agreement already has been reached with 75 of the property owners on value of the land.

The by-pass will be 4.4 miles long, and will include two bridges, one over the Western Maryland Railway tracks and another over Maryland 77. The road will by-pass the town of Thurmont to the west.

The kindergarten was made an integral part of the public school system of St. Louis in 1872, and it is claimed this was the first city to take that step.

Tractors Now Air-Conditioned

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—How are you going to keep 'em down on the farm?

An implement maker today announced an air - conditioned tractor.

Cockshutt Farm Equipment Inc. Bellevue, Ohio, said its tractor has been successfully tested at an experimental farm in Bucks County, Pa. A spokesman estimated the model will cost little more than the price of a good high fidelity sound system or a console color television set.

"When the market demand for such a tractor is evident, a production model will be planned," said the spokesman.

McKeldin Suggested As Envoy To Israel

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP) — A prominent Israeli attorney now working for the State of Israel Bonds drive says Gov. McKeldin would make a good ambassador to Israel.

Zvi Englander, speaking at a press conference here yesterday, called the governor a "sincere and understanding man who is not looking for makeshift solutions." McKeldin "knows the problems. . . and wants a just solution," Englander said.

Englander, a former bank manager in Israel, was in Baltimore to address Jewish groups in connection with the bond drive.

Cross Burned At School Due To Be Integrated

FULLERTON, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—A nine-foot cross was burned on the grounds of an elementary school here last night. The school is due to be opened to both white and Negro children for the first time next month.

Baltimore County police, summoned by a neighbor's call, kicked down the cross and stamped out the blaze.

Officers said the upright of the cross was a two-by-four, and the cross section was a part of a door frame. It had been wrapped in oil-soaked rags.

They said there never had been racial trouble associated with this community, located northeast of Baltimore City.

Several Baltimore County schools were integrated last year, and most others would be opened to all this year.

North Carolina has recorded 350 species of fish.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP) — A resolution calling for stiff penalties for violations of the United States Flag Code will be submitted to the state convention of the American Legion, probably tomorrow.

Daniel H. Burkhardt, state adjutant of the Legion, said today the penalties proposed in the resolution were calculated to deter violations against the American flag.

The resolution, scheduled for presentation at the convention which opened today, calls for a six-month prison sentence, a $250 fine, or both, for violations of the Flag Code.

Other resolutions will be offered to the convention on veterans affairs and local, national and international affairs.

Nearly 1,300 Legion and Legion Auxiliary members were on hand at the opening session of the convention in the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Friday, the delegates will recess in the afternoon to prepare for the big convention parade which is expected to draw a crowd of 100,000 in the downtown section.

The parade will start at the 5th Regiment Armory and proceed through the city's main streets past the reviewing stand in front of City Hall.

Cumberland Valley Firemen Convene

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 22 (AP)—The 55th annual convention of the Cumberland Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association gets underway here tomorrow, with more than 2,500 volunteer firemen and about 100 units expected to attend.

The association covers the surrounding section of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The highlight of the convention will be the grand parade on Saturday. It will feature bands, drum and bugle corps, floats, fire trucks and fire fighting equipment, beauty contestants, marching units, drill teams and all sorts of equipment.

A torchlight parade will be staged through the downtown section Friday night.

Condemnation Suits Are Filed For Road Rights

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—The State Roads Commission today filed nine condemnation suits to acquire property for the new Thurmont by-pass, to be a new part of U. S. 15.

The action, taken under a new law passed by the last session of the General Assembly which became effective June 1, is intended to prevent real estate speculation in the path of the new highway and to expedite real estate transactions.

With the filing of the suits, the properties immediately become available for highway purposes, and the property values are frozen for a period of one year.

The state plans to acquire rights of way 200 feet wide for the Thurmont by-pass. The first construction calls for one lane only.

Eighty-five properties are involved in this construction. Agreement already has been reached with 75 of the property owners on value of the land.

The by-pass will be 4.4 miles long, and will include two bridges, one over the Western Maryland Railway tracks and another over Maryland 77. The road will bypass the town of Thurmont to the west.

The kindergarten was made an integral part of the public school system of St. Louis in 1872, and it is claimed this was the first city to take that step.

Tractors Now Air-Conditioned

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—How are you going to keep 'em down on the farm?

An implement maker today announced an air - conditioned tractor.

Cockshutt Farm Equipment Inc. Bellevue, Ohio, said its tractor has been successfully tested at an experimental farm in Bucks County, Pa. A spokesman estimated the model will cost little more than the price of a good high fidelity sound system or a console color television set.

"When the market demand for such a tractor is evident, a production model will be planned," said the spokesman.

McKeldin Suggested As Envoy To Israel

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP) — A prominent Israeli attorney now working for the State of Israel Bonds drive says Gov. McKeldin would make a good ambassador to Israel.

Zvi Englander, speaking at a press conference here yesterday, called the governor a "sincere and understanding man who is not looking for makeshift solutions." McKeldin "knows the problems. . . and wants a just solution," Englander said.

Englander, a former bank manager in Israel, was in Baltimore to address Jewish groups in connection with the bond drive.

Cross Burned At School Due To Be Integrated

FULLERTON, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)— A nine-foot cross was burned on the grounds of an elementary school here last night. The school is due to be opened to both white and Negro children for the first time next month.

Baltimore County police, summoned by a neighbor's call, kicked down the cross and stamped out the blaze.

Officers said the upright of the cross was a two-by-four, and the cross section was a part of a door frame. It had been wrapped in oil-soaked rags.

They said there never had been racial trouble associated with this community, located northeast of Baltimore City.

Several Baltimore County schools were integrated last year, and most others would be opened to all this year.

Little Chance Nasser Will Accept West's Suez Plan

CAIRO, Aug. 22 (AP)—As the 22-nation London conference on the Suez Canal draws to a close, one fact stands out clearly: The West can establish international control over the canal only at the point of a gun.

Those familiar with Arab nationalism say there is little chance that President Gamal Abdel Nasser will accept the Western-sponsored plan for an international agency to operate the canal.

Nasser probably would consider that accepting the West's proposal would be giving in to what he calls "collective colonialism." This, in the Arab world, could mean political suicide.

Nasser probably would not accept the plan offered by Secretary of State Dulles in any event, since it goes against his expressed convictions.

Persons close to Nasser say he feels deeply that all vestiges of Western control must be rooted out of the Arab world.

It is unlikely any other Egyptian government could or would accept the Dulles proposal for international control. Egyptian governments before Nasser were anti-Western, though not so actively.

The temper of public opinion now is such that only a government backed by overwhelming force could consider accepting international control over any stretch of Egyptian soil.

Nasser has taken a political risk already by hinting he might accept India's plan for an international advisory body, attached to the Egyptian-controlled canal company.

Usual Arab reaction opposes any suggestion for international intrusion—even of an advisory board. If Nasser agreed to the Indian plan, he would be offering the West probably as good a deal on the canal as it could get without using force.

"If Western troops ever land in Egypt," an informed Egyptian said today, "the entire Arab world will look like Korea, Indochina, Cyprus and North Africa rolled together."

China Faces Drought

HONG KONG, Aug. 22 (AP)—Red China faces a drought in the South central regions after disastrous typhoon floods and torrential rains. Peiping radio said two rainless months in Hunan province have dried up more than 1½ million acres of arable land and forced a 90 per cent reduction in planting.

State Project Under Federal Road Aid Set

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP)—The first section of Maryland highway scheduled for construction under the multimillion - dollar federal roads program is a section of the Baltimore beltway.

The State Roads Commission said today bids will be asked immediately on the 2.725-mile project running north from Wilkens Avenue to U.S. Route 40. Bids will be opened Sept. 11.

The project also includes 5.706 miles of feeder roads and ramp connections and a four-span, single-track bridge to carry the Canton and Loudon Railway over the beltway.

This section of the superhighway which eventually will circumvent Baltimore was included in the State's original 12-year program. But it was not scheduled for construction until the second four-year period, 1958-1962.

Robert O. Bonnell, SRC chairman, said the project's time schedule was moved forward to coincide with the opening of the Baltimore harbor tunnel about Dec. 1, 1957.

The commission has submitted seven other projects to the federal government for approval, Bonnell said, but "this is the first job we have submitted which has satisfied all of the federal requirements."

The federal government pays 90 per cent of all costs on roads approved for the interstate system, which includes the beltway. Maryland's share of the interstate money for the first three years of the program is about 56 million dollars. The State will have to match this with at least $5,600,000.

Tavern Owners Win New Trial

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 22 (AP) — The Court of Appeals has ordered a new trial to determine whether the owners and operators of a Pasadena, Md., tavern are liable for injuries a Baltimore businessman suffered when he fell down a flight of steps at the inn.

James H. Austin had told the high court that the owners and operators of Vance's Tavern in Pasadena were responsible for a fall which nearly blinded him on Sept. 16, 1952. Austin fell down a flight of stairs as he stepped through the tavern door while canvassing the area as a solicitor for a Baltimore trust company.

The appeals court reversed an Anne Arundel County Circuit Court decision in favor of the defendants after the case had been submitted to the jury and the jury had failed to agree.

The tavern was owned by J. Adam and Lula Buettner and leased by Edwin S. Vance, Olla Vance and William L. Gable.

The high court opinion said in part:

"A stairway leading down to the basement directly from an outside door is not the kind of thing one would expect to find on going through an entrance from a sidewalk to a restaurant or tavern. Whether the plaintiff was or was not guilty of contributory negligence is a question of fact which, we think, should have been submitted to the jury for determination."

Economy Still Has Weak Spots

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Lower prices for farm products and a decline in durable goods sales due to a dip in the auto field were weak spots in the economy the first half of this year, the Commerce Department said today.

Generally, the report said, there has been an upswing all along the line in comparison with the first half of 1955, and the late summer months have continued the rising trend in business activity.

At the same time, the monthly survey of current business said, farm product prices began dropping again in July and continued a decline into early August. This tapering off followed slight rises in farm prices in the May-June period.

In contrast to the drop in farm prices, the report said, food prices continued their advance, which amounted to 2 per cent in the early months of the year. Consumer prices also were moving up.

Mississippi Governor To Support Stevenson

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 22 (AP)—Gov. J. P. Coleman said today he will support the Democratic ticket and that presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson will be invited to campaign in Mississippi.

Coleman's announcement and a statement from state party Chairman Bidwell Adam seemed to put at rest any likelihood of a party bolt by Mississippi Democrats.

The governor declared:

"I feel that our gains in Chicago are too great for us to consider bolting the ticket."

Coleman confirmed he had talked by telephone with Stevenson since the convention and that plans are for the nominee to speak in Mississippi.

Big Fire Threatens Chicago Stockyards

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (INS) — A spectacular, five-alarm fire broke out in the Chicago stockyards tonight, and two hours later firemen succeeded in confining the flames to an abandoned building area but still had not brought them under control.

Fifty-three of Chicago's 124 engine companies were called out to battle the flames which broke out in one of six buildings being wrecked by Armour & Company.

Fifteen-mile an hour winds fanned the flames, and the fire soon spread to five other buildings, all to be wrecked, and nearby wooden cattle trestles.

Man Who Helped Dig Suez Canal Shouts For Gun

CAIRO, Aug. 22 (AP)—A grizzled old Egyptian who claims he is 103 and helped dig the Suez Canal walked into the Egyptian liberation army headquarters today shouting: "I am Gomma Gomman. Give me a gun."

He insisted he worked on the digging of the canal. It was completed 87 years ago when Gomman—by his claim—would have been 16.

Officers explained to him that he is several score over the age limit for volunteers and signed up his great-great-grandson instead.

The waltz as it is now danced originally came from Germany.

Local Girl Serves On Caravan

Miss Judy Johnson has returned to her home in Cresaptown, after serving as a member of the Youth Caravan for the past eight weeks at the Philadelphia Conference of the Methodist Church.

Miss Johnson was the only girl chosen from Maryland to serve on the caravan, which was composed of members from Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas and Pennsylvania.

Working under the direction of the church board of education at Nashville, Tenn., the caravan represented the Methodist youth program visiting six different churches in the Philadelphia area. Besides teaching the church doctrine, Miss Johnson was soloist and pianist. The group had a two-week training course at Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, W. Va., before going on tour. On weekends they visited Atlantic City and the Poconos, besides sightseeing in the city.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Johnson, Miss Johnson is a graduate of Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va. Last spring she was one of 30 Good Will representatives for the United States on a tour in Iceland, Bermuda and the Azores.

Coal Production Is Increasing In Garrett County

Coal production is increasing, new mines are being opened and old ones being modernized in Garrett County.

Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, said yesterday there is a rebirth of activity in the Garrett County bituminous field that had a depression several years ago.

The lack of a market in the soft coal business caused towns like Shallmar, Crellin and Vindex to become centers of stricken economies.

Stanley Opens Mines

Shallmar became a ghost town even though people of the United States assisted mining families by financial contributions.

Powers said that the Stanley Coal Company is opening two mines at Crellin. Forty-three miners are on the payroll and after the company sinks the mine 2,000 feet deeper it will have plenty of room to expand.

Today, operations at these two mines, Offutt No. 1 and No. 2, are curtailed on either side by the Youghiogheny River.

At Vindex, the Garrett Coal Corporation has cleaned up, painted and expanded its holdings at Earl No. 2 Mine.

Powers added that this mine has been producing right along, but with the modernization procedures a larger quantity of coal will be mined.

Johnstown Studies Situation

Engineers of the Johnstown Coal and Coke Company are investigating the possibilities of opening up new mines in its 6,000-acres of coal property.

At Shallmar, some recovery has been made and operations were resumed in mines there about two years ago.

At Vindex, the D&R Mine is in operation, while two new mines have been opened in that vicinity. On the side of Backbone Mountain, along the road between Kitzmiller and Vindex, three deep mines have been started.

Big Operation Sighted

But the big news, which has to remain in a confidential status for a while, is that there are two major coal concerns in the eastern bituminous field considering operations in Garrett County.

Powers said there is a distinct possibility that they will open up.

The coal picture in this area, particularly Garrett County, is bright at this time. Powers said production will be up considerably by the end of the year.

Garrett County's production dropped to 267,710 tons in 1954 and during 1955 climbed up to 324,807 tons. Back in 1947, there were 1,145,000 tons produced in Garrett County.

Mine Property Bought

Another evidence of renewed interests in Western Maryland mining was shown the first of this month when the Cherry Hill Coal Corporation of Cleveland purchased the entire common stock of the George's Creek Coal and Land Company, of Lonaconing, and its wholly-owned subsidiary, the Georges Creek Fuel Company of Cumberland.

The Ohio concern thereby acquired 2,000 acres of coal lands in Allegany County and 8,000 acres in Garrett County.

The remaining coal reserves in this property are estimated to be in excess of 30,000,000 tons.

Area Resident Is Assaulted On Highway By Nine Boys

Nine Uniontown, Pa., youths have been charged with assault and battery on Dewayne Fair of Friendsville.

Authorities said the assault occurred early Sunday morning on U. S. Route 40 near the Brown Derby, east of Uniontown.

Police said the group, after attacking the Friendsville man, turned on the authorities as they were being apprehended.

Arrested by Constable John E. Spear of Markleysburg were Thomas J. Yezbak, 19; David Lindsey Atkinson, 18; Donald Collins, 16; John Chesler, 20; Moses Payne, 18; Richard Tamburri and Louis Panalo. Two more youths are being sought in connection with the assault.

According to police the nine youths were in a car en route to a "drag race" in the mountain region east of Beaver Creek Road when they spotted Fair who was attempting to hitch a ride home.

One of the boys told officers: "Someone said, 'let's get out and beat him up,' and that is what we did."

Shortly after the attack, the man, bleeding about the nose, mouth and ears, was discovered by Constable Spear, his former assistant, George Fisher, and Fisher's son, Hardy Fisher. The three took Fair to the Brown Derby to determine the extent of his injuries. A short time later the carload of young men appeared on the scene and attacked the constables.

Constable Spear was attempting to place handcuffs on one suspect when a severe laceration of the scalp was inflicted by a blackjack reportedly wielded by Yezbak.

All fled the scene.

Two youths were captured later when Constable Spear returned with Constable Savage and others.

Savage had just returned from Uniontown after taking two of the suspects to jail, and stopped at Namosa Village for coffee when the Payne boy was discovered trying to hide in a truck.

Returning from a second trip to the county jail with Payne, the constable saw the handcuffed Chesler youth walking along the highway. The "Good Samaritan" asked him where he was going and Chesler reportedly said he would like to get to Uniontown. The constable amiably replied, "That is just where I am going," and in a short time another youth was behind bars.

The actual bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of clubs.

Declarer seemed to have had too much of a good thing in today's hand for he stumbled over the abundance of possessions which had lulled him into a false sense of safety.

The opening bid of two no trump is fractionally short of the requirement. Two no trump openings it seems are treated lightly in North's league for, with 10 points, he showed not the slightest interest in slam prospects.

West led the deuce of clubs, and East's nine forced the king. With eight top card tricks in hand, declarer had numerous resources for his ninth and ample time in which to find it. He first tried the diamond suit leading low to the jack. Hindsight analysis will hasten to point out that he could have picked up three diamond tricks by playing the ace and king, but a low diamond to the jack is the superior play. It loses only where East has the doubleton queen, but gains where West has four or five headed by the queen, a much more common holding.

However, East won and returned the eight of diamonds, declarer then tried to find a diamond break, but met with disappointment. That clubs would not break was a foregone conclusion, but declarer tested the suit for confirmation. He then attempted to find West with the king of spades and led low to the queen. East won and returned a spade. Declarer had one more chance in the heart finsese, but went wrong and gave up the ghost.

This had been a most frustrating hand, yet a little reflection at trick one might have assured success even against the demon who distributed the cards in this highly sadistic fashion.

Declarer should assume that club lead had been from four. East's nine is, therefore, singleton. Without sacrificing a trick, declarer may permit East to hold it. What then can he return? If it is a spade, Dummy's queen becomes a winner. If it is a diamond, South merely permits it to run to the jack and three tricks are assured in the suit. If it is a heart, things really become too easy.

Glass Production To Begin Soon

Preparations for the production and shipping of rough glass from the North Branch Plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company continued yesterday.

R. M. Hainsfurther, plant manager, said the firm anticipates getting into production by the week of September 3.

Construction is near completion, but there may be unforeseen delays, he added.

Arriving Tuesday at the plant site were the first big boxes for shipping the glass to Pittsburgh Plate's other plants for grinding and polishing. They were removed from the flat cars into a storage building.

The big melting tank is slowly being brought to a heat where it will melt the basic ingredients of glass —sand, cobalt and soda ash.

Hainsfurther said the big furnace heated by natural gas supplied by the C&A Gas Company was first lighted July 27.

Since that time the furnace and flues constructed from 1,250,000 bricks were dried out, and then heat in the tank was gradually increased. It will be at melting heat by Friday.

Class Plans For Reunion

Final plans for the reunion of the Class of 1940 of Allegany High School will be made today at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph E. Mackert, 420 Franklin Street.

The reunion dinner will be held Saturday at 7 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Toastmaster will be Leonard Schwab. Guests include Lewyn C. Davis, junior high school supervisor for the Board of Education who was assistant principal of Allegany High in 1940; Mrs. Florence G. Warfield, and Mrs. John A. Cupler, members of the faculty at that time.

Thomas A. Mont, president of the class and head football coach at University of Maryland, has informed the committee that he will be in Atlantic Conference meetings starting today, but may be able to fly here Saturday for the reunion.

The deadline for reservations for the dinner is this evening. Any member of the committee planning the reunion will receive reservations. They include: Mrs. Henry Sauer, Miss Geraldine Wolfe, Miss Eleanor Albright, Mrs. Mackert, Mrs. Paul Gipe, C. A. Lancaster, or Paul R. Morgan.

Members of the class are invited by the committee to attend this evening's meeting.

The reunion will start with a get-together at 6 p. m. A business meeting will follow the program.

Polio Drops In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22 (AP) — Mexico's Health Department says polio cases so far this year are 70 per cent under the 1951-55 average. No figures were given. Salk vaccine injections were credited for part of the decline.

Tax Bills Of Daffodil Hue Will Be Mailed Next Month

Taxes are a sure thing but the color of the city's new tax bills—well, that's something else again.

Tax Collector George E. Davis ordered spring green tax forms instead of the pink ones used last year. The new forms are on hand but the spring green looks yellow.

"More like a daffodil or buttercup yellow," say some City Hall stenographers who are more familiar with color schemes. But to be fair, there is a greenish cast to the tax forms.

The color isn't the most important thing, however. Of primary concern is this:

The new bills are being printed and will be mailed to approximately 13,000 taxpayers on or about September 20, Davis said. Handling the billing are Davis' assistants, Mrs. Thelma Streett and Mrs. Marian Ryan.

Taxes will be figured on the basis of the record new rate of $1.52 on each $100 of assessable property. That's an increase of eight cents over last year.

Instructions to taxpayers are on the bills. If paid by check, they should be made payable to the Mayor and Council. Office hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday.

The due date is October 20. If taxes are not paid by that time, they will bear interest of one half of one per cent retroactive to August 20, Davis said.

Trooper's Wife Hurt In Highway Mishap

Mrs. Loma Leeson, 25, wife of West Virginia State Trooper J. J. Leeson, with the Petersburg detachment, was admitted Tuesday to Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a two-car collision on U. S. Route 220 near the Hardy-Grant County (W. Va.) line.

Attaches reported Mrs. Leeson suffered a lacerated upper lip when her face struck the steering wheel of the car she was driving. Trooper Leeson, who investigated, said his wife had stopped as she approached a bridge. She saw another vehicle coming off the bridge to a sharp curve.

The other car, operated by R. H. Strickler, Harrisonburg, Va., failed to keep on the right side of the highway, Trooper Leeson stated, and crashed into the stopped car. Damage was estimated at between $800 and $900 to each car.

Trooper Leeson said Strickler posted $200 bond for a hearing.

Birth Announced

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lewis, 21 High Street, Lonaconing, announce the birth of a son Saturday in Miners Hospital.

Meningitis Victim Dies In Hospital

A two-year-old Frostburg girl died in Memorial Hospital Tuesday evening just 12 hours after being stricken with spinal meningitis.

Her physician said yesterday the child, Delores A. Smith, daughter of Joseph B. and Mildred (Izat) Smith, of 29 Park Avenue, Frostburg, died shortly after being admitted to the local institution.

The doctor said the child was stricken approximately 12 hours before death, and that instant death is not unusual in the type of meningitis the child contracted.

Besides her parents, she is survived by a brother, Joseph R. Smith, at home, and a sister, Linda Jean Smith, at home.

Grace Methodist WSCS Meets At Midland

MIDLAND—The regular monthly meeting of WSCS of Grace Methodist Church was held with Mrs. Eloise Baker in charge.

The meeting was opened with the theme hymn. Mrs. Hazel Alexander recited two poems. Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Ethel Elliott. Prayer was given by Mrs. Martha Glime.

Two readings were given by Mrs. Florence Fleigle and Mrs. Elizabeth Miller. Mrs. Charles Reckley rendered a song, "Keys to the Kingdom." Business was conducted by the president Mrs. Hazel Alexander. Roll call, collection of dues and the secretary's report was given. Mrs. Melvin Henry, Grahamtown, was a guest. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Louise Ravenscroft, Mrs. Elmira Robertson, Mrs. Agnes Cassett and Mrs. Mary Kroll.

Ellerslie Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Burkett and David and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Burkett and sons Dale and Eddie returned home after vacationing in Ocean City, Md.

Mrs. Clara Mobley and James Mobley, Maywood, Ill., are visiting Mrs. Effie Pierce.

Harold Luman returned from Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Wililam Decker and children, Linda, Billy and Cathy of Harrisburg, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Davey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Stair and daughter Shirley recently visited relatives in Baltimore and visited places of interest in Virginia.

Area Resident Is Assaulted On Highway By Nine Boys

Nine Uniontown, Pa., youths have been charged with assault and battery on Dewayne Fair of Friendsville.

Authorities said the assault occurred early Sunday morning on U. S. Route 40 near the Brown Derby, east of Uniontown.

Police said the group, after attacking the Friendsville man, turned on the authorities as they were being apprehended.

Arrested by Constable John E. Spear of Markleysburg were Thomas J. Yezbak, 19; David Lindsey Atkinson, 18; Donald Collins, 16; John Chesler, 20; Moses Payne, 18; Richard Tamburri and Louis Panalo. Two more youths are being sought in connection with the assault.

According to police the nine youths were in a car en route to a "drag race" in the mountain region east of Beaver Creek Road when they spotted Fair who was attempting to hitch a ride home.

One of the boys told officers: "Someone said, 'let's get out and beat him up,' and that is what we did."

Shortly after the attack, the man, bleeding about the nose, mouth and ears, was discovered by Constable Spear, his former assistant, George Fisher, and Fisher's son, Hardy Fisher. The three took Fair to the Brown Derby to determine the extent of his injuries. A short time later the carload of young men appeared on the scene and attacked the constables.

Constable Spear was attempting to place handcuffs on one suspect when a severe laceration of the scalp was inflicted by a blackjack reportedly wielded by Yezbak.

All fled the scene.

Two youths were captured later when Constable Spear returned with Constable Savage and others.

Savage had just returned from Uniontown after taking two of the suspects to jail, and stopped at Namosa Village for coffee when the Payne boy was discovered trying to hide in a truck.

Returning from a second trip to the county jail with Payne, the constable saw the handcuffed Chesler youth walking along the highway. The "Good Samaritan" asked him where he was going and Chesler reportedly said he would like to get to Uniontown. The constable amiably replied, "That is just where I am going," and in a short time another youth was behind bars.

Glass Production To Begin Soon

Preparations for the production and shipping of rough glass from the North Branch Plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company continued yesterday.

R. M. Hainsfurther, plant manager, said the firm anticipates getting into production by the week of September 3.

Construction is near completion, but there may be unforeseen delays, he added.

Arriving Tuesday at the plant site were the first big boxes for shipping the glass to Pittsburgh Plate's other plants for grinding and polishing. They were removed from the flat cars into a storage building.

The big melting tank is slowly being brought to a heat where it will melt the basic ingredients of glass —sand, cobalt and soda ash.

Hainsfurther said the big furnace heated by natural gas supplied by the C&A Gas Company was first lighted July 27.

Since that time the furnace and flues constructed from 1,250,000 bricks were dried out, and then heat in the tank was gradually increased. It will be at melting heat by Friday.

The actual bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of clubs.

Declarer seemed to have had too much of a good thing in today's hand for he stumbled over the abundance of possessions which had lulled him into a false sense of safety.

The opening bid of two no trump is fractionally short of the requirement. Two no trump openings it seems are treated lightly in North's league for, with 10 points, he showed not the slightest interest in slam prospects.

West led the deuce of clubs, and East's nine forced the king. With eight top card tricks in hand, declarer had numerous resources for his ninth and ample time in which to find it. He first tried the diamond suit leading low to the jack. Hindsight analysis will hasten to point out that he could have picked up three diamond tricks by playing the ace and king, but a low diamond to the jack is the superior play. It loses only where East has the doubleton queen, but gains where West has four or five headed by the queen, a much more common holding.

However, East won and returned the eight of diamonds, declarer then tried to find a diamond break, but met with disappointment. That clubs would not break was a foregone conclusion, but declarer tested the suit for confirmation. He then attempted to find West with the king of spades and led low to the queen. East won and returned a spade. Declarer had one more chance in the heart finsese, but went wrong and gave up the ghost.

This had been a most frustrating hand, yet a little reflection at trick one might have assured success even against the demon who distributed the cards in this highly sadistic fashion.

Declarer should assume that club lead had been from four. East's nine is, therefore, singleton. Without sacrificing a trick, declarer may permit East to hold it. What then can he return? If it is a spade, Dummy's queen becomes a winner. If it is a diamond, South merely permits it to run to the jack and three tricks are assured in the suit. If it is a heart, things really become too easy.

Freak Mishaps Keep Hospital Dispensary Busy

Memorial Hospital was kept busy Tuesday afternoon with a series of freak accidents involving everything from a one-year-old girl catching her finger in a car door, to a city fireman cutting his thumb while sharpening a scythe.

James Detrick and Mario Giovanali were both treated at the hospital after sustaining injuries while playing football at Ridgeley High. Detrick sustained a leg injury, while Giovanali injured his left knee. Both youths had X-rays taken.

Michael Granet, three-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Milton Granet, RD 1, city, was treated after he sustained a laceration of the foot when a phonograph record fell on his foot at his home.

Alvin Dean, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dean, was treated at the hospital after suffering an eye injury when he smashed his bicycle into a garage near his home, 410 Park Street.

A 13-year-old youngster, Charles Ralston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ralston, 427 Virginia Avenue, was admitted to the hospital when he suffered a severe laceration of his foot by stepping on a bottle on the Salvation Army Playground on Virginia Avenue.

In another bike accident, Gerald Shook, 13, son of Mrs. Susan Shook, 428 Virginia Avenue, suffered a deep laceration of the upper lip and abrasions of the face.

Katherine Ann Wilson, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Wilson, 838 Greene Street, was treated at the hospital after she caught her finger in her father's automobile door.

Body heat of so-called "cold-blooded" creatures such as reptiles and turtles varies with outside temperature instead of remaining fixed as in mammals and birds.

On The Line
by Bob Considine

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (INS)—If Minsky was running the official headquarters at the GOP convention he'd be raided.

By conservative estimate, at least four acres of semi-naked young ladies move through the lobbies of the prim old Fairmont, the chipper old Mark Hopkins and the brave old St. Francis each day, giving away buttons, pens, stickers and assorted soft drinks. They look like apprentice strippers somehow transported into a mob scene.

A couple of them broke up a stem-winding endorsement of Dick Nixon by Gerald L. K. Smith in the Fairmont lobby Monday by appearing before the sweating political minstreal and offering him free gum—a proffer which is believed to have established a new A. A. U. record for redundancy.

The beautiful young babes endlessly parade their charms through the clattering, bustling news rooms at the Fairmont, disturbing busy copy boys and putting a faraway look into the eyes of the gaffers. You can't look up from the keys without finding yourself confronted by a reasonable embodiment of a dream about Mrs. Arthur Miller—tastefully gowned in half a dozen soft drink bottle tops.

Some strange writing has come out of here partly as a result of these shocks to the nervous system.

I know a fellow who was buried fathoms deep in a brilliant new lead the other day which began, "All roads led to the Cow Palace today where jubilant delegates pledged allegiance to Eisenhower, Nixon and the flag. Permanent Chairman Joseph W. Martin said: (at this point the reporter looked up at a dish that would stop traffic at noon) 'Jimminy Crickets! It can't be true! Do you think I can palm her off as my wife's sister?'"

At least that's how the first paragraph of his story ended. It may lead to Martin's defeat.

Miss San Francisco of 1958, or whoever she was, gave our man a genuine imitation leather socket for a buggy whip. Free. The experience affected his mind. When he reached for her she had gone. Unshaven, unkempt and probably unconstitutional, the whisky-soaked derelict can be seen wandering through the crowds night and day, calling her name. Her name was Chloe.

Sue Boomer, a real blondish type of blonde in a yellow satin bathing suit she found under an air-mail stamp, came by INS yesterday to call on our distinguished boss, J. Kingsbury Smith.

She wore her curves like medals, though, come to think of it, we've never seen any medals like that. She bore a banner plugging a local disc spinner for vice president, or some such sign. Joe was out, and this is how he will learn he had the visitor in the first place. Miss Boomer, one of the Boomer girls, waited 15 minutes and left in a convertible huff, an impetuous act which may cost her candidate votes.

Joe Smith wouldn't know Miss Boomer from one of the original Boomer girls. But there were others, who asked not to be identified, who tried to.

It's quite a show, this bone-dry aquacade they're running out here. Calvin Coolidge would have had difficulty understanding what it has to do with the Republican Party. So did a delegate from Saudi Arabia who passed through the chorus line. He tried to buy them all and ship them home, only to learn that their hearts belonged elsewhere—chiefly to Daddy Bernie Relin.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of the enemy, was paged in the Fairmont lobby this morning. Several old Republican delegates needed smelling salts. . . Chairman Len Hall won't take a salary. . . Gen. Snyder, the White House physician, arrived with a case of milk of magnesia. . . The parties are piling up so badly that even the free-loaders are hollering "uncle" instead of "encore." . . Which will do for a millenium until one comes along.

Freak Mishaps Keep Hospital Dispensary Busy

Memorial Hospital was kept busy Tuesday afternoon with a series of freak accidents involving everything from a one-year-old girl catching her finger in a car door, to a city fireman cutting his thumb while sharpening a scythe.

James Detrick and Mario Giovanali were both treated at the hospital after sustaining injuries while playing football at Ridgeley High. Detrick sustained a leg injury, while Giovanali injured his left knee. Both youths had X-rays taken.

Michael Granet, three-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Milton Granet, RD 1, city, was treated after he sustained a laceration of the foot when a phonograph record fell on his foot at his home.

Alvin Dean, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dean, was treated at the hospital after suffering an eye injury when he smashed his bicycle into a garage near his home, 410 Park Street.

A 13-year-old youngster, Charles Ralston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ralston, 427 Virginia Avenue, was admitted to the hospital when he suffered a severe laceration of his foot by stepping on a bottle on the Salvation Army Playground on Virginia Avenue.

In another bike accident, Gerald Shook, 13, son of Mrs. Susan Shook, 428 Virginia Avenue, suffered a deep laceration of the upper lip and abrasions of the face.

Katherine Ann Wilson, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Wilson, 833 Greene Street, was treated at the hospital after she caught her finger in her father's automobile door.

Body heat of so-called "cold-blooded" creatures such as reptiles and turtles varies with outside temperature instead of remaining fixed as in mammals and birds.

On The Line
by Bob Considine

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (INS)—If Minsky was running the official headquarters at the GOP convention he'd be raided.

By conservative estimate, at least four acres of semi-naked young ladies move through the lobbies of the prim old Fairmont, the chipper old Mark Hopkins and the brave old St. Francis each day, giving away buttons, pens, stickers and assorted soft drinks. They look like apprentice strippers somehow transported into a mob scene.

A couple of them broke up a stem-winding endorsement of Dick Nixon by Gerald L. K. Smith in the Fairmont lobby Monday by appearing before the sweating political minstreal and offering him free gum—a proffer which is believed to have established a new A. A. U. record for redundancy.

The beautiful young babes endlessly parade their charms through the clattering, bustling news rooms at the Fairmont, disturbing busy copy boys and putting a faraway look into the eyes of the gaffers. You can't look up from the keys without finding yourself confronted by a reasonable embodiment of a dream about Mrs. Arthur Miller—tastefully gowned in half a dozen soft drink bottle tops.

Some strange writing has come out of here partly as a result of these shocks to the nervous system.

I know a fellow who was buried fathoms deep in a brilliant new lead the other day which began, "All roads led to the Cow Palace today where jubilant delegates pledged allegiance to Eisenhower, Nixon and the flag. Permanent Chairman Joseph W. Martin said: (at this point the reporter looked up at a dish that would stop traffic at noon) 'Jimminy Crickets! It can't be true! Do you think I can palm her off as my wife's sister?'"

At least that's how the first paragraph of his story ended. It may lead to Martin's defeat.

Miss San Francisco of 1958, or whoever she was, gave our man a genuine imitation leather socket for a buggy whip. Free. The experience affected his mind. When he reached for her she had gone. Unshaven, unkempt and probably unconstitutional, the whisky-soaked derelict can be seen wandering through the crowds night and day, calling her name. Her name was Chloe.

Sue Boomer, a real blondish type of blonde in a yellow satin bathing suit she found under an air-mail stamp, came by INS yesterday to call on our distinguished boss, J. Kingsbury Smith.

She wore her curves like medals, though, come to think of it, we've never seen any medals like that. She bore a banner plugging a local disc spinner for vice president, or some such sign. Joe was out, and this is how he will learn he had the visitor in the first place. Miss Boomer, one of the Boomer girls, waited 15 minutes and left in a convertible huff, an impetuous act which may cost her candidate votes.

Joe Smith wouldn't know Miss Boomer from one of the original Boomer girls. But there were others, who asked not to be identified, who tried to.

It's quite a show, this bone-dry aquacade they're running out here. Calvin Coolidge would have had difficulty understanding what it has to do with the Republican Party. Snyder, the White House physician, arrived with a case of milk of magnesia. . . The parties are piling up so badly that even the free-loaders are hollering "uncle" instead of "encore." . . Area Firemen Appointed To State Committees

Members of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association have been appointed to committees of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

Philip H. Beard, Walkersville, president, announced that David E. Kirk of Barton has been appointed to the executive committee, while a McCoole volunteer, Homer Ambrose has been appointed to the Fire Prevention Bureau.

Delbert Valentine of District 16 has been appointed to the firemen's training booster committee. Named to the same committee was George Comp of Deer Park.

Alvin Rankin of Frostburg represents Allegany County on the legislative committe, while Carl A. Schell of Kitzmiller represents Garrett County on that committee.

A Lonaconing volunteer, John Eichhorn, was appointed to the standards committee by Beard. Heading the topics and statistics committee is Joseph C. Stuckey of Corriganville.

Among those on that committee are Harry M. DeHaven of Baltimore Pike, and John F. Fatkin of Clarysville. During the annual convention, which was held this year in Frederick, William A. Wilson was elected state treasurer, while John S. Prichard of Grantsville was elected to the board of trustees.

Next year's convention will be held on June 19, 20 and 21 at Ocean City.

Safe Drivers Preserve Voters, Burke Suggests

Safe driving will keep more voters alive for the November 6 Presidential election between Eisenhower and Stevenson, Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, told members of the Cumberland Optimist Club at Central YMCA last night.

Burke told the Optimists that if the nation's present highway death and injury toll continues, 7,700 Americans will be killed on the highways between now and election day. They will not have a chance to choose between Ike and Adlai.

Neither will many of the 420,000 other Americans who will be injured between now and November 6. Burke said there are 70 days until election day. Each day in America approximately 110 are killed and 6,000 injured by automobile collisions.

To this terrible death and injury toll between now and election time, Maryland will contribute approximately 140 dead and 3,500 to the hospital lists if the present rate of accidents persists.

SCHOOL BUSES INSPECTED—The Board of Education yesterday completed its pre-school program of bus inspections to insure the safety of Allegany County children who ride to and from school on the vehicles. David Davis (kneeling), mechanic, checks a wheel as the owner and officials look on. They are (left to right) William B. Byrnes of Eckhart, Department of Motor Vehicles inspector; Guy Stonestreet, bus owner, and Arthur G. Ramey, superintendent of transporation for the school board.

Police Search For Robber

City police last night were continuing their search for a youthful robber who held up a 19-year-old gasoline station attendant at gun point early yesterday and robbed him of $79.33.

The youth, Donald Helmick, of 411 Greene Street, said a youth around 17 years of age walked into the Powers Gasoline Station, Henderson Avenue, at 5 a. m. yesterday, pulled out a pistol and ordered Helmick to turn over the money.

Helmick said the boy came into the station, purchased two soft drinks, and then pulled a blue steel pistol on him.

The bandit made off with two $20 bills and the balance of the $79 in $5s, $10s, one-dollar bill and change.

Police said the armed robber was later seen walking on Bedford Street, but could not be located.

Helmick is employed as night attendant at the service station and said he had never seen the bandit before, but could identify him.

The robber was also seen by another service station attendant on Henderson Avenue. Police have received a good description of the youth.

Sgt. James Brown, Officer James Bolyard and Officer Harry Iser are investigating the case. Several other members of the local Police Department assisted with the case.

Delegate Favors Improved Route 40

One secondary result of yesterday's public hearing at the City Hall on revision of motor vehicle laws is that the chairman of the Legislative Council sub-committee is now an ardent advocate of an improved U. S. Route 40 from Hagerstown west to the Pennsylvania line.

Delegate Edgar P. Silver, who drove to Garrett County Tuesday and back to Cumberland yesterday was making his first trip into the two western-most counties over U. S. 40.

Silver said he was shocked at the condition of U. S. 40 which he believes is a major cause of accidents in this area. He promised to support legislation to get the highway improved as soon as possible.

Deaths

TRUMAN BOWSER

OAKLAND—Truman Bowser, 84, a farmer, died yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Markley.

A native of McHenry, he was born July 4, 1872, and was a son of the late Daniel and Katherine (Hileman) Bowser. He was a member of the Assembly of God Church in Deer Park where a funeral service will be conducted on Saturday at 10:30 a. m. (EDT) with Rev. Ernest Blizzard officiating.

Interment will be in the Mennonite Cemetery near Bittinger. Surviving are the following children: Mrs. Markley; Gorman Bowser, Deer Park; Simon Bowser, Masontown, Pa.; Mrs. Clyde Stark, Jennings; Mrs. Malva Cardiff, Orlando, Fla.; a brother, Archibald Bowser, Clarksburg, W. Va., and eight grandchildren.

The body is at the Bolden Funeral Home here.

FOLK SERVICE

FROSTBURG — A funeral service for William R. Folk, 84, who died Tuesday, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Durst Funeral Home.

Rev. Wilbur H. Gross will officiate and interment will be in the Porter Cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

Pallbearers will be Edgar Donius, William Eisel, Arthur Blank, George and James Geary and James Steele.

FANNIE E. JOHNSON

OAKLAND—Fannie Edna Johnson, 84, died here yesterday morning.

She was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Surviving are a sister, Miss Sara Johnson, Washington, D. C. and Mrs. Rachael Ballengee, with whom she lived.

The body is at the Bolden Funeral Home, where a service will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Charles Carlson officiating. Burial will be in the Oakland Cemetery.

Family Picnic Set

Holy Cross Episcopal Chapel will hold its final family picnic of the season Sunday afternoon from 2 until 7 o'clock at the Union Grove grounds, according to Rev. David C. Streett, vicar.

The picnic is open to all members and their friends. The group will gather at 5 p. m. at the picnic tables for a family supper. Evening prayer will be read by the vicar at 6 p. m.

Games will include softball, badminton, horseshoes and dodgeball. Those needing transportation may telephone Mrs. Harry D. Edmiston, Mrs. James W. Edmiston or Mrs. George Ward.

Church Social Events Slated

St. Philip's Episcopal Church is planning a wiener roast Friday from 6:30 p. m. until 9 p. m. on the lawn of Mrs. Charles L. Denson's home, 526 Greene Street, for the benefit of the church baby contest.

Aiding in arrangements, according to Rev. David C. Streett, vicar, are Mrs. Donald Hoes, Mrs. Maran Miles and Mrs. William W. Stewart.

Following the roast a teen-age record dance will be held in the parish hall, 9 South Smallwood Street, from 9 to 12 p. m. Refreshments will be available and a small admission fee will be charged.

Saturday from 2 until 5 p. m. a bake sale will be held in Benjamin Bannaker Homes 2-A for the benefit of the baby contest. Miss Evelyn Powell is hostess.

Kiwanis Will Meet At Sunshine Camp

Members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will hold their weekly luncheon meeting today at 12:15 p. m. at Sunsihne Camp, where the club is entertaining a group of deserving boys for a two-week summer visit.

Post Offices Making Many Improvements

With an eye to the future, the Post Office Department has established a major program which is expected to revolutionize the government agency, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon.

Advance studies on possible uses of automation in the postal service, including research on automatic mail facing machines, are planned.

Also being considered are automatic sorting by electronic scanning, self-service equipment for patrons in Post Office lobbies, mechanical parcel post sorting to replace present hand-sorting methods, and other devices and methods to take the drudgery out of the postal service and provide improved efficiency.

Many changes are included in a list of major improvements that have marked the Post Office Department's reorganization since 1953.

Ball point pens are being provided for Post Offices, a new certified mail service gives many advantages of registered mail at less cost, while a new combination mail service permits mailing of a letter or message inside a package or publication for the first time.

A revolution in improved transportation methods has been dramatized by the "airlift" for experimental carrying of mail on a space-available basis between many major cities, with one billion letters a year being delivered as much as 48 hours earlier.

Since 1953 the Post Office Department has added the equivalent of 20,000 new carriers, serving five million more families and 250,000 more business concerns.

FFA Plans Election

The annual regional meeting of the Future Farmers of America will be held in the grandstand at Fairgo this morning at 10 o'clock.

The regional organization, which is comprised of officers and members of all clubs in Allegany and Garrett counties, will elect officers and make plans for the coming year.

Area Firemen Appointed To State Committees

Members of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association have been appointed to committees of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

Philip H. Beard, Walkersville, president, announced that David E. Kirk of Barton has been appointed to the executive committee, while a McCoole volunteer, Homer Ambrose has been appointed to the Fire Prevention Bureau.

Delbert Valentine of District 16 has been appointed to the firemen's training booster committee. Named to the same committee was George Comp of Deer Park.

Alvin Rankin of Frostburg represents Allegany County on the legislative committe, while Carl A. Schell of Kitzmiller represents Garrett County on that committee.

A Lonaconing volunteer, John Eichhorn, was appointed to the standards committee by Beard. Heading the topics and statistics committee is Joseph C. Stuckey of Corriganville.

Among those on that committee are Harry M. DeHaven of Baltimore Pike, and John F. Fatkin of Clarysville. During the annual convention, which was held this year in Frederick, William A. Wilson was elected state treasurer, while John S. Prichard of Grantsville was elected to the board of trustees.

Next year's convention will be held on June 19, 20 and 21 at Ocean City.

Safe Drivers Preserve Voters, Burke Suggests

Safe driving will keep more voters alive for the November 6 Presidential election between Eisenhower and Stevenson, Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, told members of the Cumberland Optimist Club at Central YMCA last night.

Burke told the Optimists that if the nation's present highway death and injury toll continues, 7,700 Americans will be killed on the highways between now and election day. They will not have a chance to choose between Ike and Adlai.

Neither will many of the 420,000 other Americans who will be injured between now and November 6. Burke said there are 70 days until election day. Each day in America approximately 110 are killed and 6,000 injured by automobile collisions.

To this terrible death and injury toll between now and election time, Maryland will contribute approximately 140 dead and 3,500 to the hospital lists if the present rate of accidents persists.

SCHOOL BUSES INSPECTED—The Board of Education yesterday completed its pre-school program of bus inspections to insure the safety of Allegany County children who ride to and from school on the vehicles. David Davis (kneeling), mechanic, checks a wheel as the owner and officials look on. They are (left to right) William B. Byrnes of Eckhart, Department of Motor Vehicles inspector; Guy Stonestreet, bus owner, and Arthur G. Ramey, superintendent of transporation for the school board.

Police Search For Robber

City police last night were continuing their search for a youthful robber who held up a 19-year-old gasoline station attendant at gun point early yesterday and robbed him of $79.33.

The youth, Donald Helmick, of 411 Greene Street, said a youth around 17 years of age walked into the Powers Gasoline Station, Henderson Avenue, at 5 a. m. yesterday, pulled out a pistol and ordered Helmick to turn over the money.

Helmick said the boy came into the station, purchased two soft drinks, and then pulled a blue steel pistol on him.

The bandit made off with two $20 bills and the balance of the $79 in $5s, $10s, one-dollar bill and change.

Police said the armed robber was later seen walking on Bedford Street, but could not be located.

Helmick is employed as night attendant at the service station and said he had never seen the bandit before, but could identify him.

The robber was also seen by another service station attendant on Henderson Avenue. Police have received a good description of the youth.

Sgt. James Brown, Officer James Bolyard and Officer Harry Iser are investigating the case. Several other members of the local Police Department assisted with the case.

Delegate Favors Improved Route 40

One secondary result of yesterday's public hearing at the City Hall on revision of motor vehicle laws is that the chairman of the Legislative Council sub-committee is now an ardent advocate of an improved U. S. Route 40 from Hagerstown west to the Pennsylvania line.

Delegate Edgar P. Silver, who drove to Garrett County Tuesday and back to Cumberland yesterday was making his first trip into the two western-most counties over U. S. 40.

Silver said he was shocked at the condition of U. S. 40 which he believes is a major cause of accidents in this area. He promised to support legislation to get the highway improved as soon as possible.

Deaths

TRUMAN BOWSER

OAKLAND—Truman Bowser, 84, a farmer, died yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Markley.

A native of McHenry, he was born July 4, 1872, and was a son of the late Daniel and Katherine (Hileman) Bowser. He was a member of the Assembly of God Church in Deer Park where a funeral service will be conducted on Saturday at 10:30 a. m. (EDT) with Rev. Ernest Blizzard officiating.

Interment will be in the Mennonite Cemetery near Bittinger. Surviving are the following children: Mrs. Markley; Gorman Bowser, Deer Park; Simon Bowser, Masontown, Pa.; Mrs. Clyde Stark, Jennings; Mrs. Malva Cardiff, Orlando, Fla.; a brother, Archibald Bowser, Clarksburg, W. Va., and eight grandchildren.

The body is at the Bolden Funeral Home here.

FOLK SERVICE

FROSTBURG — A funeral service for William R. Folk, 84, who died Tuesday, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Durst Funeral Home.

Rev. Wilbur H. Gross will officiate and interment will be in the Porter Cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

FANNIE E. JOHNSON

OAKLAND—Fannie Edna Johnson, 84, died here yesterday morning.

She was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Surviving are a sister, Miss Sara Johnson, Washington, D. C. and Mrs. Rachael Ballengee, with whom she lived.

The body is at the Bolden Funeral Home, where a service will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Charles Carlson officiating. Burial will be in the Oakland Cemetery.

Family Picnic Set

Holy Cross Episcopal Chapel will hold its final family picnic of the season Sunday afternoon from 2 until 7 o'clock at the Union Grove grounds, according to Rev. David C. Streett, vicar.

The picnic is open to all members and their friends. The group will gather at 5 p. m. at the picnic tables for a family supper. Evening prayer will be read by the vicar at 6 p. m.

Games will include softball, badminton, horseshoes and dodgeball. Those needing transportation may telephone Mrs. Harry D. Edmiston, Mrs. James W. Edmiston or Mrs. George Ward.

Church Social Events Slated

St. Philip's Episcopal Church is planning a wiener roast Friday from 6:30 p. m. until 9 p. m. on the lawn of Mrs. Charles L. Denson's home, 526 Greene Street, for the benefit of the church baby contest.

Aiding in arrangements, according to Rev. David C. Streett, vicar, are Mrs. Donald Hoes, Mrs. Maran Miles and Mrs. William W. Stewart.

Following the roast a teen-age record dance will be held in the parish hall, 9 South Smallwood Street, from 9 to 12 p. m. Refreshments will be available and a small admission fee will be charged.

Saturday from 2 until 5 p. m. a bake sale will be held in Benjamin Bannaker Homes 2-A for the benefit of the baby contest. Miss Evelyn Powell is hostess.

Kiwanis Will Meet At Sunshine Camp

Members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will hold their weekly luncheon meeting today at 12:15 p. m. at Sunsihne Camp, where the club is entertaining a group of deserving boys for a two-week summer visit.

Post Offices Making Many Improvements

With an eye to the future, the Post Office Department has established a major program which is expected to revolutionize the government agency, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon.

Advance studies on possible uses of automation in the postal service, including research on automatic mail facing machines, are planned.

Also being considered are automatic sorting by electronic scanning, self-service equipment for patrons in Post Office lobbies, mechanical parcel post sorting to replace present hand-sorting methods, and other devices and methods to take the drudgery out of the postal service and provide improved efficiency.

Many changes are included in a list of major improvements that have marked the Post Office Department's reorganization since 1953.

Ball point pens are being provided for Post Offices, a new certified mail service gives many advantages of registered mail at less cost, while a new combination mail service permits mailing of a letter or message inside a package or publication for the first time.

A revolution in improved transportation methods has been dramatized by the "airlift" for experimental carrying of mail on a space-available basis between many major cities, with one billion letters a year being delivered as much as 48 hours earlier.

Since 1953 the Post Office Department has added the equivalent of 20,000 new carriers, serving five million more families and 250,000 more business concerns.

FFA Plans Election

The annual regional meeting of the Future Farmers of America will be held in the grandstand at Fairgo this morning at 10 o'clock.

The regional organization, which is comprised of officers and members of all clubs in Allegany and Garrett counties, will elect officers and make plans for the coming year.

Russia Still Wants More From Japan

In September 1954, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov announced that Russia wanted to resume diplomatic relations with Japan. Most of the world, including nations that had suffered heavily at Japanese hands in World War II, had signed a peace treaty with her in 1951, but Russia, having fought Japan for only a week and gained more than any other nation at less cost, refused to participate. Moscow wanted more.

The Reds still want more. That is why Japan, after almost two years of negotiations, is still unwilling to accept Russian terms. Tokyo may eventually pay Moscow's price to end the Soviet veto of Japan's United Nations membership. What is holding the Japs back is Russia's refusal to return several Japanese islands at the southern end of the Kurile chain.

The agreement at Yalta not only gave Russia important concessions from China in exchange for Russia's participation in the war against Japan. It also gave Russia Japanese territory — the Kurile Islands and the southern half of Kamchatka. And it didn't define the Kuriles exactly, leaving room for doubt as to whether bear-infested, volcanic Kunashiri and Etorofu should have been included.

These two islands, less than 10 miles off the coast of Japan proper, could be considered either at the end of the Kurile chain or as Japanese coastal islands. But Russia moved in. Now the Reds refuse to discuss the matter. Japan balks at signing a treaty forever renouncing all claim to the two islands.

The entire Kurile chain, with 6,000 square miles and 4,500 population including aborigines, is worth very little to Russia unless the Reds want to use the 32 islands as stepping stones in future aggression against Japan. But to Japan the two islands near her coast are important.

Fish is a major item in the meager diet of her people to whom fishing is a livelihood, not a sport. The streams of Etorofu abound with salmon, and Japanese fishing boats have always criss-crossed these waters. But the Russians are now chasing the fishermen away. By refusing to loosen their grip on the islands, they reduce Japan's supply of food without benefiting themselves particularly.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Vice Presidency

The vice presidency is not more important today than it was when William McKinley ran for president and Theodore Roosevelt was nominated to the vice presidency to prevent him from making too great a nuisance of himself in New York State politics. It is no more significant today than it was when Calvin Coolidge was nominated because he put down a police strike in Boston, Mass. Those who are so excited this year about this secondary position are stimulated by Eisenhower's ill health which may or may not continue. The Democrats can only be moved by the truism that all men are mortal and that ill health is not the exclusive characteristic of Republican presidents, although all the presidents who have been assassinated were Republicans. Adlai Stevenson was correct in his attitude when he removed President Eisenhower's health as a campaign issue.

Richard Nixon is one of the few vice presidents who have been taken very seriously. Most vice presidents are ignored in or out of office. Who remembers Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, for instance? He was once vice president of the United States, but why, I do not recall. Nixon, however, has left an imprint as a member of Congress and as vice president. He speaks things and does things and whether one agrees with him or not and whether one likes or dislikes him, nobody can ignore him. The Democratic Convention proved that, paying more attention to Vice President Nixon than has been usual in an opposition convention.

The leading Democrats know that Vice President Nixon has not been President Eisenhower's alter ego. Eisenhower has organized his office on the efficient basis of an army general staff with Sherman Adams as chief of staff and a large body of specialized experts as assistants. However, in the Eisenhower administration, the vice president has been an active member of the cabinet and of the National Security Council, presiding over these bodies in the absence of the President. The vice president has also been sent to various parts of the world to represent the President and has been used in Washington to welcome and entertain foreign guests of the President. Under the staff system of the White House, it has been Sherman Adams, not Richard Nixon, who acts for the President.

It is likely that some of these new roles for the vice president, initiated by President Eisenhower, will be continued by his successors, because it is logical that the vice president should share some of the President's load if he is a suitable person for that purpose. Certainly, it is not expected that Kefauver would like to be a gavel-pounding dummy.

The opposition to Nixon has many motives, some of which are obvious. His activities in pursuit of Alger Hiss, when Nixon was a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, won him a host of friends and admirers among the anti-Communists, but also brought him many enemies among the friends of Alger Hiss and among those who felt that the Hiss case was used to damage the reputation of President Roosevelt.

Nixon was projected into the 1954 congressional campaign after the Republicans felt that they had been irreparably damaged in that canvass. He went into the fight as Harry Truman did in 1948, hitting hard and in all directions. The Democrats had taken the Eisenhower attitude of being above party seriously and expected that no fight would be left in the Republican party. They took the view that it made little difference to Eisenhower whether Republicans or Democrats were elected to Congress. Nixon was a surprise. Although he did not win the Congress, he cut Republican losses and emerged as a leader.

But the attacks on him are really indirect attacks on Eisenhower. However, as the Democratic Convention proceeded, the attack on Eisenhower became increasingly more direct and indicates that the campaign will be sharp and focussed and the target will be Eisenhower. All the talk of the importance of the vice presidency in the Democratic Convention was designed originally as an attack on Nixon, but it began to look as though the Democrats had no arguments against Eisenhower and took a lesser target. Stevenson hit at Eisenhower in his acceptance speech.

The open convention at Chicago will not affect the Republican situation at San Francisco because according to information that reached me, Nixon has a pledge of 900 votes which, of course, is more than enough.

Now For The Campaign

President Eisenhower Has Changed Considerably In Past Four Years

By Drew Pearson

SAN FRANCISCO — There've been a lot of changes in Dwight D. Eisenhower since an August day just four years ago when the Scripps-Howard newspapers accused him of "running like a dry creek." He had delivered a speech in Abilene, Kan.—his first speech, a stumbling, moderate speech during which the rain slashed down on his bald head, soaked his raincoat and blurred his manuscript. It was not a dry occasion, but to GOP Sachem Roy Howard it was dry politics . . . .

Those were days when it looked as if D. D. Eisenhower wasn't going to be a good campaigner. He certainly didn't like campaigning. In Paris before he left to take the big political plungs, his press relations experts had a terrible time. In filming some TV political blurbs, he couldn't read his TV cue cards without glasses, and he didn't want to wear his glasses on television. He tried memorizing his lines, but forgot, stumbled; his press aides were in despair. . . .

In the Commodore Hotel in New York, during and after the campaign, he confided to his new friend, Jim Hagerty: "When I walk through the corridor (where newsmen were sitting) I feel that everyone of them has his foot out to trip me." Ike hated the press and everything connected with it. And he delayed holding press conferences until staunch GOP publishers began griping, wondering when the man they had put in the White House would begin meeting the press.

Sure-Footed Ike — Yes, there've been a lot of changes in Dwight D. Eisenhower as he accepts his renomination in San Francisco. The editorial spur applied by the Scripps-Howard newspapers whipped Ike into a near dither of campaign charge and countercharge. "Communism, Korea and corruption" replaced the moderation of that first speech in Abilene. . . . Later, considerably later, a sure-footed Eisenhower replaced the timid, suspicious Eisenhower who felt every newsman's foot was out to trip him. No President, not even that past master Franklin Roosevelt, has become so adroit at press conferences, has used them so skillfully to reflect his personality, get his views across to the American public. . . . Yes, it's a poised and sure-footed Eisenhower back in his role of moderation, who accepts the renomination. . . . Sure-footed except in two things—health and in making decisions where top political personalities are concerned.

In Panama last month, President Juscelinko Kubitschek of Brazil, himself a physician, asked: "Tell me as a doctor and your friend how you feel?". . . I feel sick and tired all the time," replied the President. . . .He made an equally frank statement to a Panamanian, and at a recent press conference he talked in the mood of one who was fully prepared to die in office. . . .This is a fortitude the American people admire in a soldier, but they recall the jolt to the stock market after the heart attack, remember the delicate diplomatic balance around Suez, Formosa, Moscow, and they are concerned about the-die-with-your-boots-on courage of a president: Especially they are concerned about his successor.

Ike's Buffaloes—Across the lobby of the Fairmount Hotel in San Francisco ambled one of the best natured, best liked figures on the Republican side of the Senate—Homer Capehart of Indiana. He illustrates why Ike is not sure-footed on politics, why he doesn't have to worry about the wing of the Republican party which has been trying to buffalo him. . . . "John," said Senator Capehart to John Bennett of New York, "I need help." "What kind of help?" asked his old friend . . . "You know what kind of help," replied Homer, "I'm running against former Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, and I'm running scared.". . .Just four years ago, good-natured Homer Capehart was singing another tune. On Senate stationary, he wrote to GOP leaders all over the country before the Republican Convention of 1952: "Dear Republican: I am writing this letter because I feel so deeply that the nomination of General Eisenhower would mean the end of the Republican party. . . .We can't winn with an amateur in politics," Homer continued. "Campaigning is a complicated business that takes a terrific lot of experience. . . .I want to tell you with all the sincerity of which I am capable that I firmly believe that Eisenhower is the Democratic candidate for the the Republican nomination. . . . He is getting a build-up from every New Deal columnist, every New Deal editor. Jimmie Roosevelt, Claude Pepper, Elliott Roosevelt. . . . Look at Eisenhower's close personal advisers. He stayed with George Allen in Washington. George Allen is Truman's old pal and side-kick, appointed to high office by Truman. Does anybody honestly think Mr. Allen wants to help elect a Republican president? . . . Eisenhower had a close association with Roosevelt and Truman. It was they who built him up. Every American citizen who applies for a passport to the State Department, headed by Dean Acheson, gets a circular with Eisenhower's picture on the front and a story about what a great man he is. The Post Office has just issued a NATO stamp to persuade the public that NATO is a tremendous success and that Eisenhower is its prophet. . . . He approved the policy of appeasing the Russians. He was chief of staff when Marshall and Acheson abandoned Kai-shek to the Communists in Asia.". . . And so on, wrote Homer Capehart for almost 1,000 words more.

They Need Help—But today good old Homer needs help, and he needs it badly. Most of the old Guard Republicans also need help, and need it badly. They need it to stay in power. . . . That's where they have had Ike buffaloed. They need him much more than he needs them, but he doesn't know it. Len Hall, good staunch old guard Republican, has to have Ike, couldn't breathe politically for five minutes without Ike, yet has been trying to tell Ike whom he should have as vice president. . . . Homer Capehart has quit objecting to George Allen, who is even closer to Ike than to Truman. Truman fired him; now George has bought the Gettysburg farm for Ike, got him an interest in two Howard Johnson restaurants, plays bridge with him. But you hear no more complaints from Homer or from other old guard Republicans.

GOP Platform Termed One Of Finest Documents

By David Lawrence

SAN FRANCISCO — To those folks who are not familiar with the techniques of national political conventions, it should be explained that the party in power always "points with pride," while the party out of power always "views with alarm."

If you read the text of the two platforms, you'll find the Republicans proud of their record and saying so quite forthrightly, while the Democrats are sure that distress and disaster lie ahead unless they are promptly restored to power.

These contrasts are natural. The Republican platform, for example is a calm and dispassionate recital of the record of the Eisenhower administration. Having almost no factionalism within the party to worry about, the platform writers had weeks and weeks in which to polish their phrases and condense their thoughts. As a result, the Republican national platform is one of the finest documents ever turned out by any political party, here or abroad. It is a masterpiece of idealism and practicality woven together in a simple review of the efforts of the administration to meet the spirit of the times—to maintain both peace and internal prosperity.

Follows Doctrine Of Lincoln

Whether it be in the field of labor or agriculture or civil rights or in any of the other fields of domestic legislation, the approach is not extreme or radical or socialistic. It is an attempt to put into effect the doctrine of Abraham Lincoln, who said that government should help only where individuals cannot help themselves and should not interfere in what individuals can do best for themselves.

This principle, whether it be called "moderation" or "middle of the road" philosophy, is not novel. It has been the underlying aspiration of both political parties for decades when they do get into power, however extravagant may have been their criticisms when out of power. It is significant that Stevenson, too, talks of "moderation" nowadays.

The Republican conclave this week, of course, resembles many another convention of the past held by the incumbent party. There is always more excitement when the party out of power holds a convention—as in Chicago last week—because there is usually a scramble for the presidential nomination. When FDR was being renominated in 1936, 1940 and 1944, there wasn't any competitive factor for the top office and the platform was written long in advance. It followed each time the usual pattern of claiming credit for everything good that had happened and ignoring any mistakes that had been made.

Recalls FDR's Selection

As for the vice presidency, the nomination, as a rule, is controlled or influenced by the man at the top of the ticket. Sometimes his managers do it for him. This correspondent remembers how in 1920, just after the Democratic convention at San Francisco named James M. Cox for the presidency, there was a huddle of a small group under the rafters of the auditorium. Those participating were the bosses of the big state delegations. The man being proposed by the nominee and his manager was Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was believed that he would add strength to the ticket because he had been anti-Tammany in New York State. Charlie Murphy, boss of Tammany Hall, was present and agreed to swallow the plan, though not until he and others asked a few of us among the newspapermen, who were standing around and watching, if we thought the public would react favorably to "young Franklin." Of course, we all thought so, and that's how FDR got his first nomination on the national ticket.

There have been such conferences in other conventions among the managers of the big delegations and the spokesmen for the nominee.

The Chicago contest on the vice presidency last week, on the other hand, was an example of what might be called "open conventions, openly contrived at." For the "open" selection was influenced covertly by Stevenson and his lieutenants. It can hardly be otherwise under the convention system in modern politics.

Strengthens Nixon

Out here they are talking also about an "open" convention for the vice presidency. It merely means that any delegation can get the floor and put anyone in nomination. But a big majority of the Republicans want Nixon for the vice presidential nomination, and they intend to select him.

President Eisenhower has all along carefully avoided any appearance of dictation. But it has been plain that nobody else was likely to win the prize. The Stassen crusade served only to emphasize and delineate the strength of Nixon. In fact, as things have worked out, it has assured the renomination of Nixon.

For, as politicians have always figured it, the President in office must be renominated for a second term and run on his record. If the record doesn't appear to be good enough for public approval at the polls, then no other candidate could run as well and defend that record. A vice president in office is theoretically in somewhat the same position, and Nixon particularly is because, whether in vigorous campaigning or in presiding at meetings of government councils, he has acted always at the request of or with the knowledge and consent of President Eisenhower. So it's an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket again.

"All The People"

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

SAN FRANCISCO.

All political platforms are boring, and the civil rights plank of a Republican platform is usually the dullest piece of lumber in the whole dull structure. This one is strikingly interesting, however, first for what it does not say, and second, because it is the result of the personal intervention of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The plank itself has been well described by the chairman of the platform committee, Sen. Prescott Bush, as "strongly moderate." It goes a bit further than the Democratic plank on civil rights, but not very much further. Yet it was satisfactory to most of the Southerners on the platform committee.

In other words, the plank is conspicuously not an all-out attempt to capture the great blocs of Negro votes that now hold the balance of power in an actual majority of the big Northern states. The Supreme Court's desegregation decision, handed down by a "Great Republican Chief Justice," as Vice President Nixon noted, ideally set the stage for a Republican attempt of this kind. The movement of the Negroes into the whole New Deal period, might now have been dramatically reversed. But this glittering temptation has been resisted. Why?

Key Lies With Ike

The key to the puzzle lies squarely in the President's own character and his view of his office. Furthermore, the convention's civil rights plank is no more than a re-affirmation of a big decison that the President made as long ago as the beginning of the last session of Congress.

At that time, a powerful faction in the Eisenhower cabinet, supported by more than one of the President's most influential political advisers, positively longed to launch a major raid into the rich Democratic preserves of Negro voters. Against the background of the courts' decision, they wanted the President to ask Congress, and to ask insistently, for the strongest sort of civil rights legislation.

In the cabinet, Attorney General Herbert Brownell and Secretary of Labor James Mitchell were the most important advocates of this strategy—which would have caused something very like a mass attack of nervous collapse throughout the Northern Democratic organizations. The cabinet's businessman members were unenthusiastic, being instinctively opposed to extreme action of any kind. Also opposed was the Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall, who is working hard to build real Republican organizations in the South.

Lifted To New Plane

As is his habit, the President heard out both sides when the matter was discussed in cabinet. Then, when he gave his decision, he lifted the debate to an entirely new plane. He admitted that asking the Congress for an ultra-strong civil rights program would probably be good politics. It had been good politics for Truman. It would be even better for Republicans, who stood to gain even more lavishly.

But he added that he could not judge the matter politically. The legislation would not pass. It might be good politics but it would also be immensely divisive. It would inflame the already dangerous situation in the South. It would produce all sorts of other unpleasant side effects. He had the duty to act "as President of all the people" he concluded; so he was not going to seek Negro votes when the national cost would be so high.

In line with this decision, the administration's civil rights program was offered to the Congress very late and was never seriously pressed by the President. As a result, the Democratic congressional leaders were able to avoid the civil rights fight that they so desperately feared. And this set the stage for the successful compromise of the civil rights issue at the Democratic convention.

Extreme Plank Unwanted

At this Republican convention, in turn, the Democratic compromise looked like a golden opportunity to such Northern Republicans as Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois. In the platform committee, Dirksen and the others like him tried very hard for a civil rights plank sufficiently extreme to make the Democrats look cheap and timid in Negro eyes.

Dirksen and company might well have won, too. Any Republican can see that the electoral votes of New York and Illinois, Pennsylvania and Michigan and California are worth immeasurably more than the slim chance of Republican gains in the South. Even from the South, from Kentucky Senate aspirant John Sherman Cooper, came a demand for a really strong plank. But once again, Dwight D. Eisenhower put his foot down. The word came from the White House that the President would not stand for anything too extreme. And so the "strongly moderate" plank was adopted.

Drug-Surgery Therapy Helps Whip Tuberculosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There is almost as much tuberculosis today as there was two decades ago. But we now have a number of effective remedies, including anti-tuberculosis drugs and surgical procedures.

On June 1, 1952, Dr. Albert R. Allen and his colleagues at Central Washington Tuberculosis Hospital decided to discard the old treatment and adopt a new plan. After that date every patient admitted was given a combination of streptomycin, PAS, and isoniazid for three months.

These are the best known and most potent anti-tuberculosis drugs and, by using them in combination, they hoped to accomplish more than when the products are given separately. At the end of three months the patient's condition was re-evaluated and if the sputum was not free of tubercle bacilli, operation was advised to remove the infected lobe or portion of the lung.

When the drugs had the desired effect, surgery was not needed and medical treatment was continued until the disease was arrested. Meanwhile, the victim was allowed bathroom privileges and ate his meals in the hospital cafeteria. This is a far cry from the early day when patients were forced to rely upon bed rest, fersh air, good food, and faith to get well.

Dr. Allen compared the results of this plan with those of a comparable period prior to 1952. Under the new regimen, the length of the hospital stay was reduced 60 per cent and the cost of care was cut 50 per cent. The death rate dropped from 8.7 to 1.7 per cent.

But that was not all. Most sufferers maintained their strength and returned to a gainful occupation within a shorter period of time. Jobs included heavy work such as is done by laborers, farmers, carpenters, and mechanics. Five returned to logging and three to the steel mills.

Eighteen women became pregnant one or more times and delivered a total of 26 children. The number of re-admissions in this group was only five.

Dr. Allen and his associates had excellent reasons for recommending surgery when the drugs had failed to eliminate tubercle bacilli by the end of three months. They found that further treatment was useless as a rule because the organisms were becoming resistant to the medicine or the medicine was unable to penetrate the infected tissues.

RASH FROM SUN

P. L. writes: Every summer, after a few outings in the sun, my skin breaks out in an eruption which remains until my tan fades. Is there any remedy for this condition other than staying out of the sun?

REPLY

The sun's rays play strange tricks on the skin of people who are sensitive to Old Sol. You neglected to mention what the rash looks like, but those who are allergic to the sun usually develop hives or patches of deeply pigmented, scaly lesions. Now and then sensitivity is precipitated by applying perfume or a suntan lotion.

KNOBBY FINGERS

D. F. writes: I'm getting ugly, painful knobs on my fingers. Is that arthritis?

REPLY

Yes—osteoarthritis. These lesions are known as Heberden's nodes and the patient aspect usually disappears within six months although the deformity generally persists. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on Heberden's nodes.

CHEST PAIN

C. K. writes. Why should a person with low blood pressure feel pain around the heart?

REPLY

If pain is in the region of the left breast, it probably is due to nervousness. Heart pain usually is located beneath the breastbone and is caused by a distubance in the coronary arteries. There is no connection between this type of discomfort and low blood pressure. You may be interested in our leaflet on chest pain which may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Russia Still Wants More From Japan

In September 1954, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov announced that Russia wanted to resume diplomatic relations with Japan. Most of the world, including nations that had suffered heavily at Japanese hands in World War II, had signed a peace treaty with her in 1951, but Russia, having fought Japan for only a week and gained more than any other nation at less cost, refused to participate. Moscow wanted more.

The Reds still want more. That is why Japan, after almost two years of negotiations, is still unwilling to accept Russian terms. Tokyo may eventually pay Moscow's price to end the Soviet veto of Japan's United Nations membership. What is holding the Japs back is Russia's refusal to return several Japanese islands at the southern end of the Kurile chain.

The agreement at Yalta not only gave Russia important concessions from China in exchange for Russia's participation in the war against Japan. It also gave Russia Japanese territory — the Kurile Islands and the southern half of Kamchatka. And it didn't define the Kuriles exactly, leaving room for doubt as to whether bear-infested, volcanic Kunashiri and Etorofu should have been included.

These two islands, less than 10 miles off the coast of Japan proper, could be considered either at the end of the Kurile chain or as Japanese coastal islands. But Russia moved in. Now the Reds refuse to discuss the matter. Japan balks at signing a treaty forever renouncing all claim to the two islands.

The entire Kurile chain, with 6,000 square miles and 4,500 population including aborigines, is worth very little to Russia unless the Reds want to use the 32 islands as stepping stones in future aggression against Japan. But to Japan the two islands near her coast are important.

Fish is a major item in the meager diet of her people to whom fishing is a livelihood, not a sport. The streams of Etorofu abound with salmon, and Japanese fishing boats have always criss-crossed these waters. But the Russians are now chasing the fishermen away. By refusing to loosen their grip on the islands, they reduce Japan's supply of food without benefiting themselves particularly.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Vice Presidency

The vice presidency is not more important today than it was when William McKinley ran for president and Theodore Roosevelt was nominated to the vice presidency to prevent him from making too great a nuisance of himself in New York State politics. It is no more significant today than it was when Calvin Coolidge was nominated because he put down a police strike in Boston, Mass. Those who are so excited this year about this secondary position are stimulated by Eisenhower's ill health which may or may not continue. The Democrats can only be moved by the truism that all men are mortal and that ill health is not the exclusive characteristic of Republican presidents, although all the presidents who have been assassinated were Republicans. Adlai Stevenson was correct in his attitude when he removed President Eisenhower's health as a campaign issue.

Richard Nixon is one of the few vice presidents who have been taken very seriously. Most vice presidents are ignored in or out of office. Who remembers Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, for instance? He was once vice president of the United States, but why, I do not recall. Nixon, however, has left an imprint as a member of Congress and as vice president. He speaks things and does things and whether one agrees with him or not and whether one likes or dislikes him, nobody can ignore him. The Democratic Convention proved that, paying more attention to Vice President Nixon than has been usual in an opposition convention.

The leading Democrats know that Vice President Nixon has not been President Eisenhower's alter ego. Eisenhower has organized his office on the efficient basis of an army general staff with Sherman Adams as chief of staff and a large body of specialized experts as assistants. However, in the Eisenhower administration, the vice president has been an active member of the cabinet and of the National Security Council, presiding over these bodies in the absence of the President. The vice president has also been sent to various parts of the world to represent the President and has been used in Washington to welcome and entertain foreign guests of the President. Under the staff system of the White House, it has been Sherman Adams, not Richard Nixon, who acts for the President.

It is likely that some of these new roles for the vice president, initiated by President Eisenhower, will be continued by his successors, because it is logical that the vice president should share some of the President's load if he is a suitable person for that purpose. Certainly, it is not expected that Kefauver would like to be a gavel-pounding dummy.

The opposition to Nixon has many motives, some of which are obvious. His activities in pursuit of Alger Hiss, when Nixon was a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, won him a host of friends and admirers among the anti-Communists, but also brought him many enemies among the friends of Alger Hiss and among those who felt that the Hiss case was used to damage the reputation of President Roosevelt.

Nixon was projected into the 1954 congressional campaign after the Republicans felt that they had been irreparably damaged in that canvass. He went into the fight as Harry Truman did in 1948, hitting hard and in all directions. The Democrats had taken the Eisenhower attitude of being above party seriously and expected that no fight would be left in the Republican party. They took the view that it made little difference to Eisenhower whether Republicans or Democrats were elected to Congress. Nixon was a surprise. Although he did not win the Congress, he cut Republican losses and emerged as a leader.

But the attacks on him are really indirect attacks on Eisenhower. However, as the Democratic Convention proceeded, the attack on Eisenhower became increasingly more direct and indicates that the campaign will be sharp and focussed and the target will be Eisenhower. All the talk of the importance of the vice presidency in the Democratic Convention was designed originally as an attack on Nixon, but it began to look as though the Democrats had no arguments against Eisenhower and took a lesser target. Stevenson hit at Eisenhower in his acceptance speech.

The open convention at Chicago will not affect the Republican situation at San Francisco because according to information that reached me, Nixon has a pledge of 900 votes which, of course, is more than enough.

Now For The Campaign

GOP Platform Termed One Of Finest Documents

By David Lawrence

SAN FRANCISCO — To those folks who are not familiar with the techniques of national political conventions, it should be explained that the party in power always "points with pride," while the party out of power always "views with alarm."

If you read the text of the two platforms, you'll find the Republicans proud of their record and saying so quite forthrightly, while the Democrats are sure that distress and disaster lie ahead unless they are promptly restored to power.

These contrasts are natural. The Republican platform, for example is a calm and dispassionate recital of the record of the Eisenhower administration. Having almost no factionalism within the party to worry about, the platform writers had weeks and weeks in which to polish their phrases and condense their thoughts. As a result, the Republican national platform is one of the finest documents ever turned out by any political party, here or abroad. It is a masterpiece of idealism and practicality woven together in a simple review of the efforts of the administration to meet the spirit of the times—to maintain both peace and internal prosperity.

Follows Doctrine Of Lincoln

Whether it be in the field of labor or agriculture or civil rights or in any of the other fields of domestic legislation, the approach is not extreme or radical or socialistic. It is an attempt to put into effect the doctrine of Abraham Lincoln, who said that government should help only where individuals cannot help themselves and should not interfere in what individuals can do best for themselves.

This principle, whether it be called "moderation" or "middle of the road" philosophy, is not novel. It has been the underlying aspiration of both political parties for decades when they do get into power, however extravagant may have been their criticisms when out of power. It is significant that Stevenson, too, talks of "moderation" nowadays.

The Republican conclave this week, of course, resembles many another convention of the past held by the incumbent party. There is always more excitement when the party out of power holds a convention—as in Chicago last week—because there is usually a scramble for the presidential nomination. When FDR was being renominated in 1936, 1940 and 1944, there wasn't any competitive factor for the top office and the platform was written long in advance. It followed each time the usual pattern of claiming credit for everything good that had happened and ignoring any mistakes that had been made.

Recalls FDR's Selection

As for the vice presidency, the nomination, as a rule, is controlled or influenced by the man at the top of the ticket. Sometimes his managers do it for him. This correspondent remembers how in 1920, just after the Democratic convention at San Francisco named James M. Cox for the presidency, there was a huddle of a small group under the rafters of the auditorium. Those participating were the bosses of the big state delegations. The man being proposed by the nominee and his manager was Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was believed that he would add strength to the ticket because he had been anti-Tammany in New York State. Charlie Murphy, boss of Tammany Hall, was present and agreed to swallow the plan, though not until he and others asked a few of us among the newspapermen, who were standing around and watching, if we thought the public would react favorably to "young Franklin." Of course, we all thought so, and that's how FDR got his first nomination on the national ticket.

There have been such conferences in other conventions among the managers of the big delegations and the spokesmen for the nominee.

The Chicago contest on the vice presidency last week, on the other hand, was an example of what might be called "open conventions, openly contrived at." For the "open" selection was influenced covertly by Stevenson and his lieutenants. It can hardly be otherwise under the convention system in modern politics.

Strengthens Nixon

Out here they are talking also about an "open" convention for the vice presidency. It merely means that any delegation can get the floor and put anyone in nomination. But a big majority of the Republicans want Nixon for the vice presidential nomination, and they intend to select him.

President Eisenhower has all along carefully avoided any appearance of dictation. But it has been plain that nobody else was likely to win the prize. The Stassen crusade served only to emphasize and delineate the strength of Nixon. In fact, as things have worked out, it has assured the renomination of Nixon.

For, as politicians have always figured it, the President in office must be renominated for a second term and run on his record. If the record doesn't appear to be good enough for public approval at the polls, then no other candidate could run as well and defend that record. A vice president in office is theoretically in somewhat the same position, and Nixon particularly is because, whether in vigorous campaigning or in presiding at meetings of government councils, he has acted always at the request of or with the knowledge and consent of President Eisenhower. So it's an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket again.

President Eisenhower Has Changed Considerably In Past Four Years

By Drew Pearson

SAN FRANCISCO — There've been a lot of changes in Dwight D. Eisenhower since an August day just four years ago when the Scripps-Howard newspapers accused him of "running like a dry creek." He had delivered a speech in Abilene, Kan.—his first speech, a stumbling, moderate speech during which the rain slashed down on his bald head, soaked his raincoat and blurred his manuscript. It was not a dry occasion, but to GOP Sachem Roy Howard it was dry politics . . . .

Those were days when it looked as if D. D. Eisenhower wasn't going to be a good campaigner. He certainly didn't like campaigning. In Paris before he left to take the big political plunge, his press relations experts had a terrible time. In filming some TV political blurbs, he couldn't read his TV cue cards without glasses, and he didn't want to wear his glasses on television. He tried memorizing his lines, but forgot, stumbled; his press aides were in despair. . . .

In the Commodore Hotel in New York, during and after the campaign, he confided to his new friend, Jim Hagerty: "When I walk through the corridor (where newsmen were sitting) I feel that everyone of them has his foot out to trip me." Ike hated the press and everything connected with it. And he delayed holding press conferences until staunch GOP publishers began griping, wondering when the man they had put in the White House would begin meeting the press.

Sure-Footed Ike — Yes, there've been a lot of changes in Dwight D. Eisenhower as he accepts his renomination in San Francisco. The editorial spur applied by the Scripps-Howard newspapers whipped Ike into a near dither of campaign charge and countercharge. "Communism, Korea and corruption" replaced the moderation of that first speech in Abilene. . . . Later, considerably later, a sure-footed Eisenhower replaced the timid, suspicious Eisenhower who felt every newsman's foot was out to trip him. No President, not even that past master Franklin Roosevelt, has become so adroit at press conferences, has used them so skillfully to reflect his personality, get his views across to the American public. . . . Yes, it's a poised and sure-footed Eisenhower back in his role of moderation, who accepts the renomination. . . . Sure-footed except in two things—health and in making decisions where top political personalities are concerned.

In Panama last month, President Juscelinko Kubitschek of Brazil, himself a physician, asked: "Tell me as a doctor and your friend how you feel?". . . I feel sick and tired all the time," replied the President. . . .He made an equally frank statement to a Panamanian, and at a recent press conference he talked in the mood of one who was fully prepared to die in office. . . .This is a fortitude the American people admire in a soldier, but they recall the jolt to the stock market after the heart attack, remember the delicate diplomatic balance around Suez, Formosa, Moscow, and they are concerned about the-die-with-your-boots-on courage of a president: Especially they are concerned about his successor.

Ike's Buffaloes—Across the lobby of the Fairmount Hotel in San Francisco ambled one of the best natured, best liked figures on the Republican side of the Senate—Homer Capehart of Indiana. He illustrates why Ike is not sure-footed on politics, why he doesn't have to worry about the wing of the Republican party which has been trying to buffalo him. . . . "John," said Senator Capehart to John Bennett of New York, "I need help." "What kind of help?" asked his old friend . . . "You know what kind of help," replied Homer, "I'm running against former Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard, and I'm running scared.". . .Just four years ago, good-natured Homer Capehart was singing another tune. On Senate stationary, he wrote to GOP leaders all over the country before the Republican Convention of 1952: "Dear Republican: I am writing this letter because I feel so deeply that the nomination of General Eisenhower would mean the end of the Republican party. . . .We can't winn with an amateur in politics," Homer continued. "Campaigning is a complicated business that takes a terrific lot of experience. . . .I want to tell you with all the sincerity of which I am capable that I firmly believe that Eisenhower is the Democratic candidate for the the Republican nomination. . . . He is getting a build-up from every New Deal columnist, every New Deal editor, Jimmie Roosevelt, Claude Pepper, Elliott Roosevelt. . . . Look at Eisenhower's close personal advisers. He stayed with George Allen in Washington. George Allen is Truman's old pal and side-kick, appointed to high office by Truman. Does anybody honestly think Mr. Allen wants to help elect a Republican president? . . . Eisenhower had a close association with Roosevelt and Truman. It was they who built him up. Every American citizen who applies for a passport to the State Department, headed by Dean Acheson, gets a circular with Eisenhower's picture on the front and a story about what a great man he is. The Post Office has just issued a NATO stamp to persuade the public that NATO is a tremendous success and that Eisenhower is its prophet. . . . He approved the policy of appeasing the Russians. He was chief of staff when Marshall and Acheson abandoned Kai-shek to the Communists in Asia.". . . And so on, wrote Homer Capehart for almost 1,000 words more.

They Need Help—But today good old Homer needs help, and he needs it badly. Most of the old Guard Republicans also need help, and need it badly. They need it to stay in power. . . . That's where they have had Ike buffaloed. They need him much more than he needs them, but he doesn't know it. Len Hall, good staunch old guard Republican, has to have Ike, couldn't breathe politically for five minutes without Ike, yet has been trying to tell Ike whom he should have as vice president. . . . Homer Capehart has quit objecting to George Allen, who is even closer to Ike than to Truman. Truman fired him; now George has bought the Gettysburg farm for Ike, got him an interest in two Howard Johnson restaurants, plays bridge with him. But you hear no more complaints from Homer or from other old guard Republicans.

"All The People"

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

SAN FRANCISCO.

All political platforms are boring, and the civil rights plank of a Republican platform is usually the dullest piece of lumber in the whole dull structure. This one is strikingly interesting, however, first for what it does not say, and second, because it is the result of the personal intervention of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The plank itself has been well described by the chairman of the platform committee, Sen. Prescott Bush, as "strongly moderate." It goes a bit further than the Democratic plank on civil rights, but not very much further. Yet it was satisfactory to most of the Southerners on the platform committee.

In other words, the plank is conspicuously not an all-out attempt to capture the great blocs of Negro votes that now hold the balance of power in an actual majority of the big Northern states. The Supreme Court's desegregation decision, handed down by a "Great Republican Chief Justice," as Vice President Nixon noted, ideally set the stage for a Republican attempt of this kind. The movement of the Negroes into the whole New Deal period, might now have been dramatically reversed. But this glittering temptation has been resisted. Why?

Key Lies With Ike

The key to the puzzle lies squarely in the President's own character and his view of his office. Furthermore, the convention's civil rights plank is no more than a re-affirmation of a big decison that the President made as long ago as the beginning of the last session of Congress.

At that time; a powerful faction in the Eisenhower cabinet, supported by more than one of the President's most influential political advisers, positively longed to launch a major raid into the rich Democratic preserves of Negro voters. Against the background of the courts' decision, they wanted the President to ask Congress, and to ask insistently, for the strongest sort of civil rights legislation.

In the cabinet, Attorney General Herbert Brownell and Secretary of Labor James Mitchell were the most important advocates of this strategy—which would have caused something very like a mass attack of nervous collapse throughout the Northern Democratic organizations. The cabinet's businessman members were unenthusiastic, being instinctively opposed to extreme action of any kind. Also opposed was the Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall, who is working hard to build real Republican organizations in the South.

Lifted To New Plane

As is his habit, the President heard out both sides when the matter was discussed in cabinet. Then, when he gave his decision, he lifted the debate to an entirely new plane. He admitted that asking the Congress for an ultra-strong civil rights program would probably be good politics. It had been good politics for Truman. It would be even better for Republicans, who stood to gain even more lavishly.

But he added that he could not judge the matter politically. The legislation would not pass. It might be good politics but it would also be immensely divisive. It would inflame the already dangerous situation in the South. It would produce all sorts of other unpleasant side effects. He had the duty to act "as President of all the people" he concluded; so he was not going to seek Negro votes when the national cost would be so high.

In line with this decision, the administration's civil rights program was offered to the Congress very late and was never seriously pressed by the President. As a result, the Democratic congressional leaders were able to avoid the civil rights fight that they so desperately feared. And this set the stage for the successful compromise of the civil rights issue at the Democratic convention.

Extreme Plank Unwanted

At this Republican convention, in turn, the Democratic compromise looked like a golden opportunity to such Northern Republicans as Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois. In the platform committee, Dirksen and the others like him tried very hard for a civil rights plank sufficiently extreme to make the Democrats look cheap and timid in Negro eyes.

Dirksen and company might well have won, too. Any Republican can see that the electoral votes of New York and Illinois, Pennsylvania and Michigan and California are worth immeasurably more than the slim chance of Republican gains in the South. Even from the South, from Kentucky Senate aspirant John Sherman Cooper, came a demand for a really strong plank. But once again, Dwight D. Eisenhower put his foot down. The word came from the White House that the President would not stand for anything too extreme. And so the "strongly moderate" plank was adopted.

Frostburg Adds Water System Improvements

Big 16-Inch Main May Be Extended

FROSTBURG — Water Commissioner William Eberly announces that the large reserve dam just west of the filtration plant on Savage Mountain has been completely resurfaced with a rubber base waterproofing compound during the past weeks, and has now been placed back in service.

This resurfacing will eliminate the numerous leaks which have developed in the dam, according to Eberly.

A new modern post chlorinator has been installed in the large main east of the filtration plant. This new system, according to the commissioner, will result in more even and better chlorination of the city water than was obtained with the old method.

Commissioner Eberly states that the new 16-inch main which extends from the filtration plant to High Street will be checked for leaks within the next week, and put into service as quickly as possible.

This will place thousands of gallons of additional water within the city limits, which will be invaluable in case of fire, and should eliminate the nuisance caused by a low volume of water in some sections of the city.

Plans are also being made to extend this 16-inch water line from High Street to Broadway, the commissioner reports. The pipe is on hand and will be laid as soon as plans are completed.

New York Edges Milwaukee, Yankees Defeat Cleveland

Rhodes' Hit Beats Braves For Giants

Dick Littlefield Gains 2-1 Decision Over League Leaders

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 22 (AP) — Dusty Rhodes singled home the winning run in the sixth inning to give the last place New York Giants a 2-1 victory over the National League front running Milwaukee Braves today and lefthander Dick Littlefield his first triumph of the season after five straight setbacks.

Littlefield yielded nine hits to the Braves in his seven innings, but got the decision over another lefty, Taylor Phillips, the Milwaukee rookie who now has a 3-2 record. Hoyt Wilhelm blanked the Braves the last two frames.

Rhodes' timely blow enabled the Giants to salvage the finale of the three-game series with the Braves. It broke a 1-1 deadlock in the sixth. With one out, Foster Castleman dropped a single into short center, moved to second on Red Schoendienst's infield out and, after Willie Mays was purposely passed, scored on Rhodes' single to center.

The Giants had stepped into the lead in the second inning with the first run of the game on singles by Jackie Brandt and Bill White and Bill Sarni's grounder to short that permitted Brandt to score from third. But the Braves quickly matched it in their half on Joe Adcock's leadoff double followed by Bobby Thomson's single.

After the Giants broke the 1-1 deadlock in the sixth, Sarni's triple to center set up another Giant threat in the seventh but it was wiped out when Littlefield failed in an attempted squeeze play and Sarni was trapped off third and tagged out.

NBA Recommends Heavyweight Title Bout With Moore

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 22 (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. has recommended a possible fight between light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and the winner of the Hurricane Jackson - Bob Baker Sept. 26 bout to determine the new heavyweight champion.

The NBA resolution, proposed by Abe J. Greene, national commissioner, was adopted by the boxing group at its convention here last night.

Greene said the purpose of the move was to prevent "stagnation" among the heavyweights. He said the whole issue rested on the condition of Floyd Patterson's injured right hand and how soon Patterson would be able to fight again.

The NBA said it recognized the 39-year-old Moore as the No. 1 heavyweight with Patterson right behind. If Patterson's hand, injured in his June 8 victory over Jackson, healed so that he could fight Moore soon, the winner of a Moore-Patterson fight would be recognized as successor to retired Rocky Mrciano.

Detroit Batters Stone, Beats Nats 9-5

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Detroit batted Washington's Dean Stone for six runs in the first inning tonight and coasted to an easy 9-5 victory over the Senators. The victory went to Paul Foytack, his 10th.

Washington scored all it's runs on the game's two home runs, a three-run blast by Eddie Yost in the third and a two-run clout by Roy Sievers in the sixth. Sievers' homer was his 24th of the year.

The Tigers mauled Stone, Hal Griggs and Bob Chakales for 15 hits. Harvey Kuenn, Jack Phillips and Charley Maxwell each collected three.

Cleaners' Rally Beats St. Luke's In Rec Loop, 7-6

The league champion Tri-State Cleaners rallied in the last two innings to edge St. Luke's, 7-6, in the first game of their best-of-three playoff series yesterday at Post Field.

First baseman Dave Ritter exploded a long triple with two out in the last of the seventh to score Deb Payton with the winning run for the Cleaners.

Trailing 6-2 the Cleaners scored four times in the sixth frame to knot the count on a walk and four consecutive hits by Ritter, Wayne Holly, Loay Twigg and Wes Bridges.

Neil Toey chalked up his 17th pitching triumph over Bob Garner. Ritter's triple and single and doubles by Fred Meeks and Holly paced the winners' attack.

Sonny Hook blasted a homer and single and Garner had a three-bagger and one-base knock for St. Luke's. The second game of the series will be played Friday at 6:15 p. m. at East Side field. The score:

Boston Wins, 7-6, After Losing 6-3

BOSTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Boston's Billy Consolo bounced a bases-loaded single off the mound—his first hit of the year—in the ninth inning tonight for a 7-6 victory over Chicago in the second half of a split day-night doubleheader. The Boston bonus boy's blow revived the collapsing Red Sox.

The White Sox won the opener 6-3 as Ron Northey's sacrifice fly and Fred Hatfield's two-run homer in the eighth inning spelled triumph No. 18 for southpaw Billy Pierce.

Redlegs Dump Faltering Bucs Ninth In Row

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22 (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 today to hang up their 9th consecutive victory over Bobby Bragan's faltering club.

Had the Pirates fielded as well as they hit, the outcome might have been different. They chased Joe Nuxhall in the 7th after pounding out 11 safeties.

But they allowed the National League third place team three unearned runs, which made it easy for Cincinnati, even in the face of only 6 hits. Pittsburgh made four errors.

Bob Friend started for Pittsburgh, but went out in the sixth inning for a pinch hitter. He was relieved by Johnny O'Brien. It was his 13th defeat against 14 victories.

Nuxhall was the winning hurler and now has a season record of 9 victories.

Cincinnati scored two unearned runs in the first inning on Frank Thomas' error, two infield singles and a couple of fielders' choices.

The Redlegs counted once more in the third on Gus Bell's 24th home run of the season. Three more were added in the 5th on errors by Bill Mazeroski and Dale Long and doubles by Johnny Temple and Frank Robinson.

Times-News, Exchange Cop Opening Wins

Rotary Tossers, B'nai B'rith Lose

Times-News pennant winners and the Exchange Club scored opening game victories over the Rotary and B'nai B'rith last night at Penn Avenue Field as the Hot Stove League playoffs began.

Manager Farmer Northcraft's Newsies backed up Donnie Nave's hurling with a 14-hit attack and iced the 9-6 victory over Exchange with a pair of runs in the sixth frame after the Rotary almost knotted the count in the same frame.

Roger Growden started the victors off on the right foot when he belted a two-run homer to cap a four-run third inning for the Newsies. Nave struck out eight and walked one before being relieved in the sixth by Bill Scott.

The Newsies attack included Jack Hudson's pair of doubles, Growden's brace of singles in addition to his homer, a triple and two singles by Ted McGraw and a double and two singles by Bruce Smith.

Scott, playing left field before relieving Nave on the mound, threw out the potential tying run at the plate in the sixth when Rotary rallied. The Times-News then pushed over two insurance runs on Growden's single, a base hit by Alt, another by McGraw and Nave's force out.

Ronnie Lewis belted a home run for Rotary.

In the nightcap, the Exchange Club took advantage of ace Larry Burns' wildness to cash in the opening game win over B'nai B'rith, 8-7.

Burns hit a batter and walked nine in 1⅔ innings. He was tagged for a grand-slam homer by winning hurler, Fred Eichner in a big six-run second inning for the Exchange.

Eichner was the big gun in the Exchange attack, slamming a two-run triple in the third to account for six runs batted in for the victors.

Jimmy Kline, relieving Eichner in the fifth, hurled two-hit shutout ball over the last three innings to preserve the one-run triumph. He struck out five and walked no one. The scores:

Eagles Trim Moose, 13-3

Woodson Is Star In RC Playoff

Woody Woodson starred at bat and in the field as the F. O. Eagles thumped the Moose, 13-3, in the opening game of their best-of-three playoff series in the Rocking Chair League semi-finals yesterday at Stitcher field.

Woodson smacked out three hits in as many trips to the plate and pulled the fielding gem when he caught a line drive from the bat of Fernlow at second. Clay Ingram also chipped in with three hits in the 18-hit assault by the Eagles on three Moose hurlers. Bill Dean's double was the only extra base hit for the winners.

Pete Dickle with a double and single and Ed Cecil with a triple and single paced the losers. The score;

Pirates To Host Little Leaguers

The Pittsburgh Pirates Baseball Club will conduct its sixth annual "Little League Day" at Forbes Field on Saturday, September 1.

The Pirates are inviting all Pittsburgh area Little Leaguers, along with their managers, coaches and league officials, to participate in the Little League Parade at Forbes Field, and then see the regularly scheduled National League game between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia as guests of the club.

All Little League teams in the area are invited to bring their entire rosters (as many as 18 boys) and it is requested that each group be accompanied by its manager and two coaches, or two other responsible officials. All players are to appear in uniform and clubs are urged to bring with them banners, pennants and other identifying insignia for use in the parade.

Teams are to arrange their own transportation to Forbes Field and are to arrive at the Schenley Park entrance in time to be seated by noon. The parade will start in Forbes Field at 1:00 p. m., with the Pirates-Phillies game following at 1:30 o'clock.

Hank Had Good Chance

CLEVELAND (AP) — When Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, hit his 58th home run on Sept. 27 he still had five games to play in which to tie Babe Ruth's record 60 hit in 1927. Greenberg had 17 official at bats in the final five games but his only hits were four singles and a double.

Tribe Loses 3-2 Tilt On Double Error

Rosen's Misplay Gives Sturdivant Nod Over Indians

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Two errors on the same play by third baseman Al Rosen cost the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 defeat to the New York Yankees before a crowd of 23,584 today at the Stadium.

The Yankees, by splitting the two-game series, restored their first place lead over Cleveland in the American League to 8½ games.

Rosen dropped a throw in the fourth inning from losing hurler Early Wynn, allowing Billy Martin who had doubled to reach third base safely. Rosen then was guilty of obstructing the runner as he attempted to score when the ball flew out of the third sacker's glove.

Umpire Fank Umont made the ruling, which sent in the winning run, which was unearned, and broke a 2-2 deadlock as Wynn engaged young Tom Sturdivant in a close mound duel.

Sturidvant pitched a six-hitter, and had only one bad inning—the third, when Cleveland got three hits and tallied both runs. He fanned seven in gaining his 12th victory against six defeats. Wynn, trying for his 15th win, was charged with his seventh loss.

Martin scored the first Yankee run in the second inning. After singling to short right, he went to third on Bill Skowron's single and scored after Norm Siebern flied deep to Al Smith in center.

In the third inning Hank Bauer walked, then went to third on Gil McDougald's single to right center. Bauer came home on Mickey Mantle's sacrifice fly to Smith.

The Indians scored two in the third, the runs being knocked in on singles by Gene Woodling and Smith.

Berrios Gets Nod Over Flash Elorde

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—Puerto Rican Miguel Berrios scored a surprise split decision tonight over Flash Elorde of the Philippines, the number four ranking featherweight in a bout kept off national television by the Republican National Convention.

Berrios, a 5 foot 2 inch scrapper, weighed 126 and Elorde, 129¼ for the 10-round battle.

The little Puerto Rican appeared confused by the left handed style of the Filipino but caught on about the fifth round. He kept boring in and went to win the nod of judge, Vern Bybee and referee Frankie Carter. Judge Jack Downey counted Elorde ahead.

Referee Carter scored it 96 to 94 for Berrios, judge Vern Bybee had it 98 to 94 for Berrios and judge Jack Downey had it 98 to 94 for Elorde. The Associated Press had Elorde ahead 97 to 96.

HE RE-GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment

A Few Months Later

Thomas A. Melton Jr. of Hollidaysburg, Pennsylvania, (above) shows he re-grew hair by the Erickson Home Treatment method.

Hair Specialists Here Tomorrow; Will Show How To Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

Chicago, Aug. 22—New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Maryland, on August 24, Friday only.

Trichologist F. I. Brodie will be in charge, representing the dynamic Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1:00 to 8:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

At the home office of the Erickson organization, a new, even more successful method of treatment was announced—a treatment that you can easily administer yourself at home.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all." It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked personally at regular intervals by an Erickson expert.

Who Can Be Helped?

For many years now Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the body of scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson home treatment.

Will the new Erickson treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as Alopecia Areata or "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of the Erickson method is that the organization has quickly expanded to serve hundreds of cities in 32 states.

The most important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late."

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't think anybody can stop hair loss"—or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep right on losing hair till you're bald . . . unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair growing condition again.

Satisfy 95%

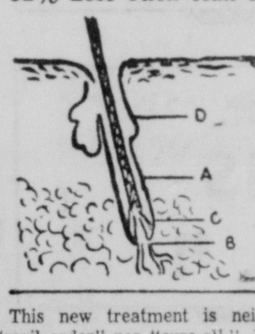

"Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim," says D. W. Erickson, director of the organization, "for we satisfy at least 95% of our clients which, when you consider that almost every person is a 'doubter' or a 'putter-offer' where hair is concerned, is an excellent showing. Getting these doubters and putter-offers to come in for an examination is really the problem."

Examine You Free

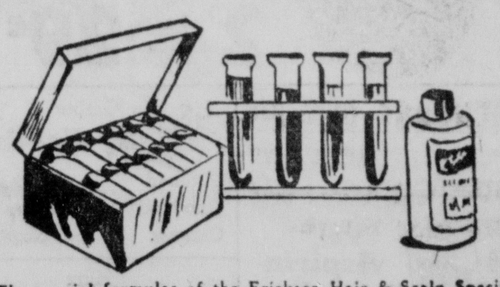

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

92% Lose Their Hair Because . . .

they are suffering from a local infection in the hair follicle (A) called Seborrhea Dermatitis. This infection creates a scaly condition on the surface of the scalp but worse . . . creates a secretion that forms an obstruction between the roof (B) and the hair bulb (C), cutting off the precious food supply between the root and the bulb. Hair becomes lifeless and dry because the sebaceous glands (D) become inactive due to becoming affected by the infection. When this condition exists hair-fall becomes excessive, the scalp is itchy and irritated and oftentimes dandruff is visible. These are all warning signs of approaching baldness and indicate corrective treatment is necessary.

The special formulas of the Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists look like this when you receive them. This is part of typical treatment scientifically planned to meet individual's needs.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

Tomorrow only call at the Fort Cumberland Hotel for Mr. F. I. Brodie's room number. Then come in to see him between 1:00 and 8:30 p. m. for a free examination and discussion of your hair problems. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

You won't be obligated or embarrased in any way. Examinations are given in private.

New York Edges Milwaukee, Yankees Defeat Cleveland

Dick Littlefield Gains 2-1 Decision Over League Leaders

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 22 (AP) — Dusty Rhodes singled home the winning run in the sixth inning to give the last place New York Giants a 2-1 victory over the National League front running Milwaukee Braves today and lefthander Dick Littlefield his first triumph of the season after five straight setbacks.

Littlefield yielded nine hits to the Braves in his seven innings, but got the decision over another lefty, Taylor Phillips, the Milwaukee rookie who now has a 3-2 record. Hoyt Wilhelm blanked the Braves the last two frames.

Rhodes' timely blow enabled the Giants to salvage the finale of the three-game series with the Braves. It broke a 1-1 deadlock in the sixth. With one out, Foster Castleman dropped a single into short center, moved to second on Red Schoendienst's infield out and, after Willie Mays was purposely passed, scored on Rhodes' single to center.

The Giants had stepped into the lead in the second inning with the first run of the game on singles by Jackie Brandt and Bill White and Bill Sarni's grounder to short that permitted Brandt to score from third. But the Braves quickly matched it in their half on Joe Adcock's leadoff double followed by Bobby Thomson's single.

After the Giants broke the 1-1 deadlock in the sixth, Sarni's triple to center set up another Giant threat in the seventh but it was wiped out when Littlefield failed in an attempted squeeze play and Sarni was trapped off third and tagged out.

NBA Recommends Heavyweight Title Bout With Moore

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 22 (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. has recommended a possible fight between light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and the winner of the Hurricane Jackson - Bob Baker Sept. 26 bout to determine the new heavyweight champion.

The NBA resolution, proposed by Abe J. Greene, national commissioner, was adopted by the boxing group at its convention here last night.

Greene said the purpose of the move was to prevent "stagnation" among the heavyweights. He said the whole issue rested on the condition of Floyd Patterson's injured right hand and how soon Patterson would be able to fight again.

The NBA said it recognized the 39-year-old Moore as the No. 1 heavyweight with Patterson right behind. If Patterson's hand, injured in his June 8 victory over Jackson, healed so that he could fight Moore soon, the winner of a Moore-Patterson fight would be recognized as successor to retired Rocky Mrciano.

Detroit Batters Stone, Beats Nats 9-5

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Detroit batted Washington's Dean Stone for six runs in the first inning tonight and coasted to an easy 9-5 victory over the Senators. The victory went to Paul Foytack, his 10th.

Washington scored all it's runs on the game's two home runs, a three-run blast by Eddie Yost in the third and a two-run clout by Roy Sievers in the sixth. Sievers' homer was his 24th of the year.

The Tigers mauled Stone, Hal Griggs and Bob Chakales for 15 hits. Harvey Kuenn, Jack Phillips and Charley Maxwell each collected three.

Cleaners' Rally Beats St. Luke's In Rec Loop, 7-6

The league champion Tri-State Cleaners rallied in the last two innings to edge St. Luke's, 7-6, in the first game of their best-of-three playoff series yesterday at Post Field.

First baseman Dave Ritter exploded a long triple with two out in the last of the seventh to score Deb Payton with the winning run for the Cleaners.

Trailing 6-2 the Cleaners scored four times in the sixth frame to knot the count on a walk and four consecutive hits by Ritter, Wayne Holly, Loay Twigg and Wes Bridges.

Neil Toey chalked up his 17th pitching triumph over Bob Garner. Ritter's triple and single and doubles by Fred Meeks and Holly paced the winners' attack.

Sonny Hook blasted a homer and single and Garner had a three-bagger and one-base knock for St. Luke's. The second game of the series will be played Friday at 6:15 p. m. at East Side field. The score:

ST. LUKE'S	000	312	0—6 9 1
TRI STATE	101	004	1—7 8 1

Boston Wins, 7-6, After Losing 6-3

BOSTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Boston's Billy Consolo bounced a bases-loaded single off the mound—his first hit of the year—in the ninth inning tonight for a 7-6 victory over Chicago in the second half of a split day-night doubleheader. The Boston bonus boy's blow revived the collapsing Red Sox.

The White Sox won the opener 6-3 as Ron Northey's sacrifice fly and Fred Hatfield's two-run homer in the eighth inning spelled triumph No. 18 for southpaw Billy Pierce.

Redlegs Dump Faltering Bucs Ninth In Row

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22 (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 today to hang up their 9th consecutive victory over Bobby Bragan's faltering club.

Had the Pirates fielded as well as they hit, the outcome might have been different. They chased Joe Nuxhall in the 7th after pounding out 11 safeties.

But they allowed the National League third place team three unearned runs, which made it easy for Cincinnati, even in the face of only 6 hits. Pittsburgh made four errors.

Bob Friend started for Pittsburgh, but went out in the sixth inning for a pinch hitter. He was relieved by Johnny O'Brien. It was his 13th defeat against 14 victories.

Nuxhall was the winning hurler and now has a season record of 9 victories.

Cincinnati scored two unearned runs in the first inning on Frank Thomas' error, two infield singles and a couple of fielders' choices.

The Redlegs counted once more in the third on Gus Bell's 24th home run of the season. Three more were added in the 5th on errors by Bill Mazeroski and Dale Long and doubles by Johnny Temple and Frank Robinson.

Times-News, Exchange Cop Opening Wins

Rotary Tossers, B'nai B'rith Lose

Times-News pennant winners and the Exchange Club scored opening game victories over the Rotary and B'nai B'rith last night at Penn Avenue Field as the Hot Stove League playoffs began.

Manager Farmer Northcraft's Newsies backed up Donnie Nave's hurling with a 14-hit attack and iced the 9-6 victory over Exchange with a pair of runs in the sixth frame after the Rotary almost knotted the count in the same frame.

Roger Growden started the victors off on the right foot when he belted a two-run homer to cap a four-run third inning for the Newsies. Nave struck out eight and walked one before being relieved in the sixth by Bill Scott.

The Newsies attack included Jack Hudson's pair of doubles, Growden's brace of singles in addition to his homer, a triple and two singles by Ted McGraw and a double and two singles by Bruce Smith.

Scott, playing left field before relieving Nave on the mound, threw out the potential tying run at the plate in the sixth when Rotary rallied. The Times-News then pushed over two insurance runs on Growden's single, a base hit by Alt, another by McGraw and Nave's force out.

Ronnie Lewis belted a home run for Rotary.

In the nightcap, the Exchange Club took advantage of ace Larry Burns' wildness to cash in the opening game win over B'nai B'rith, 8-7.

Burns hit a batter and walked nine in 1⅔ innings. He was tagged for a grand-slam homer by winning hurler, Fred Eichner in a big six-run second inning for the Exchange.

Eichner was the big gun in the Exchange attack, slamming a two-run triple in the third to account for six runs batted in for the victors.

Jimmy Kline, relieving Eichner in the fifth, hurled two-hit shutout ball over the last three innings to preserve the one-run triumph. He struck out five and walked no one. The scores:

Eagles Trim Moose, 13-3

Woodson Is Star In RC Playoff

Woody Woodson starred at bat and in the field as the F. O. Eagles thumped the Moose, 13-3, in the opening game of their best-of-three playoff series in the Rocking Chair League semi-finals yesterday at Stitcher field.

Woodson smacked out three hits in as many trips to the plate and pulled the fielding gem when he caught a line drive from the bat of Fernlow at second. Clay Ingram also chipped in with three hits in the 18-hit assault by the Eagles on three Moose hurlers. Bill Dean's double was the only extra base hit for the winners.

Pete Dickle with a double and single and Ed Cecil with a triple and single paced the losers. The score;

Pirates To Host Little Leaguers

The Pittsburgh Pirates Baseball Club will conduct its sixth annual "Little League Day" at Forbes Field on Saturday, September 1.

The Pirates are inviting all Pittsburgh area Little Leaguers, along with their managers, coaches and league officials, to participate in the Little League Parade at Forbes Field, and then see the regularly scheduled National League game between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia as guests of the club.

All Little League teams in the area are invited to bring their entire rosters (as many as 18 boys) and it is requested that each group be accompanied by its manager and two coaches, or two other responsible officials. All players are to appear in uniform and clubs are urged to bring with them banners, pennants and other identifying insignia for use in the parade.

Teams are to arrange their own transportation to Forbes Field and are to arrive at the Schenley Park entrance in time to be seated by noon. The parade will start in Forbes Field at 1:00 p. m., with the Pirates-Phillies game following at 1:30 o'clock.

Hank Had Good Chance

CLEVELAND (AP) — When Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, hit his 58th home run on Sept. 27 he still had five games to play in which to tie Babe Ruth's record 60 hit in 1927. Greenberg had 17 official at bats in the final five games but his only hits were four singles and a double.

Tribe Loses 3-2 Tilt On Double Error

Rosen's Misplay Gives Sturdivant Nod Over Indians

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—Two errors on the same play by third baseman Al Rosen cost the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 defeat to the New York Yankees before a crowd of 23,584 today at the Stadium.

The Yankees, by splitting the two-game series, restored their first place lead over Cleveland in the American League to 8½ games.

Rosen dropped a throw in the fourth inning from losing hurler Early Wynn, allowing Billy Martin who had doubled to reach third base safely. Rosen then was guilty of obstructing the runner as he attempted to score when the ball flew out of the third sacker's glove.

Umpire Fank Umont made the ruling, which sent in the winning run, which was unearned, and broke a 2-2 deadlock as Wynn engaged young Tom Sturdivant in a close mound duel.

Sturidvant pitched a six-hitter, and had only one bad inning—the third, when Cleveland got three hits and tallied both runs. He fanned seven in gaining his 12th victory against six defeats. Wynn, trying for his 15th win, was charged with his seventh loss.

Martin scored the first Yankee run in the second inning. After singling to short right, he went to third on Bill Skowron's single and scored after Norm Siebern flied deep to Al Smith in center.

In the third inning Hank Bauer walked, then went to third on Gil McDougald's single to right center. Bauer came home on Mickey Mantle's sacrifice fly to Smith.

The Indians scored two in the third, the runs being knocked in on singles by Gene Woodling and Smith.

Berrios Gets Nod Over Flash Elorde

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—Puerto Rican Miguel Berrios scored a surprise split decision tonight over Flash Elorde of the Philippines, the number four ranking featherweight in a bout kept off national television by the Republican National Convention.

Berrios, a 5 foot 2 inch scrapper, weighed 126 and Elorde, 129¼ for the 10-round battle.

The little Puerto Rican appeared confused by the left handed style of the Filipino but caught on about the fifth round. He kept boring in and went to win the nod of judge, Vern Bybee and referee Frankie Carter. Judge Jack Downey counted Elorde ahead.

Referee Carter scored it 96 to 94 for Berrios, judge Vern Bybee had it 98 to 94 for Berrios and judge Jack Downey had it 98 to 94 for Elorde. The Associated Press had Elorde ahead 97 to 96.

HE RE-GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment — A Few Months Later

Thomas A. Melton Jr. of Hollidaysburg, Pennsylvania, (above) shows he re-grew hair by the Erickson Home Treatment method.

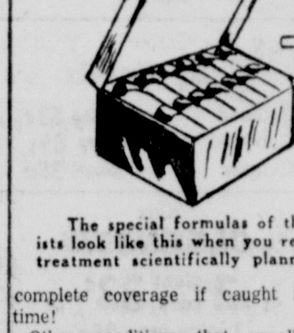

Hair Specialists Here Tomorrow; Will Show How To Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

Chicago, Aug. 22—New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Cumberland, Maryland, on August 24, Friday only.

Trichologist F. I. Brodie will be in charge, representing the dynamic Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1:00 to 8:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

At the home office of the Erickson organization, a new, even more successful method of treatment was announced—a treatment that you can easily administer yourself at home.

92% Lose Their Hair Because . . .

they are suffering from a local infection in the hair follicle (A) called Seborrheic Dermatitis. This infection creates a scaly condition on the surface of the scalp but worse . . . creates a secretion that forms an obstruction between the roof (B) and the hair bulb (C), cutting off the precious food supply between the root and the bulb. Hair becomes lifeless and dry because the sebaceous glands (D) become inactive due to becoming affected by the infection. When this condition exists hair-fall becomes excessive, the scalp is itchy and irritated and oftentimes dandruff is visible. These are all warning signs of approaching baldness and indicate corrective treatment is necessary.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all." It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked personally at regular intervals by an Erickson expert.

Who Can Be Helped?

For many years now Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the body of scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson home treatment.

Will the new Erickson treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as Alopecia Areata or "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

Evidence of the success of the Erickson method is that the organization has quickly expanded to serve hundreds of cities in 32 states.

The most important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late."

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't think anybody can stop hair loss"—or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep right on losing hair till you're bald . . . unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair growing condition again.

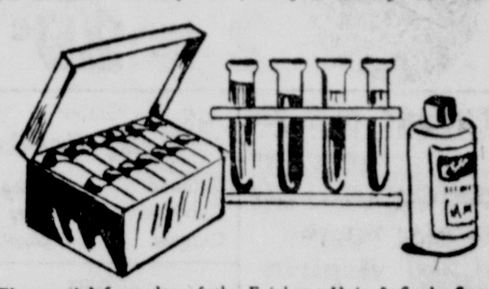

Satisfy 95%

"Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim," says D. W. Erickson, director of the organization, "for we satisfy at least 95% of our clients which, when you consider that almost every person is a 'doubter' or a 'putter-offer' where hair is concerned, is an excellent showing. Getting these doubters and putter-offers to come in for an examination is really the problem."

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

The special formulas of the Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists look like this when you receive them. This is part of typical treatment scientifically planned to meet individual's needs.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

Tomorrow only call at the Fort Cumberland Hotel for Mr. F. I. Brodie's room number. Then come in to see him between 1:00 and 8:30 p. m. for a free examination and discussion of your hair problems. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

You won't be obligated or embarrased in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Jim Vance Named Baseball, Cage Coach At Mathias Hi

Succeeds Wendell Mathias Who Is School's Principal

James Vance, 23-year-old Moorefield High School graduate, has been named basketball and baseball coach at Mathias High School, Raymon S. Dispanet, superintendent of Hardy County, W. Va., schools, announced yesterday.

Vance, who was graduated from Berea, Ky., College in 1955 and began teaching at Moorefield elementary school last year. He succeeds Wendell C. Mathias, coach and teacher at Mathias High for the past several years, who was elevated to principal there.

Mathias Is Principal

Mathias was made principal at the school which has approximately 360 students enrolled when Robert Jarvis resigned the position to take a similar post in Virginia.

Vance, a cousin of Charles Vance, coach at Wardensville High School, thus takes over the reins of athletics at the small school at Mathias for the first time.

Active in baseball, basketball and football while at Moorefield, young Vance starred in the cage sport prior to his graduation in 1951.

Will Teach English

Vance will teach junior high school social studies and English in addition to his duties as coach of the varsity cage and baseball teams which participate in the Potomac Valley Conference.

Unmarried, he is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Vance of Moorefield.

Yankees Purchase Wilson From Giants

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP) — The New York Yankees today purchased the contract of reserve outfielder George Wilson from the New York Giants. Wilson, who will be 30-years-old on Aug. 30, was used mainly as a pinch hitter by the Giants and compiled a .132 average—9 hits in 68 times up.

He bats lefthanded and throws righthanded and will report here in time for the Yankee doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox tomorrow. His addition brings the Yankee roster to full strength, a total of 27 players. This includes service returnees Billy Martin and Norm Siebern.

San Antonio Wins Pony League Game

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 22 (AP) —Emmett Benavides drove in three runs with two homers yesterday to pace San Antonio to a 13-3 victory over Salisbury, Md. in the first round of the Pony League world series.

Joe Valdez and Jesse Garza also homered for the Texas team. Eugene Trevino, San Antonio hurler, had a no-hitter until the 6th inning when he gave up three runs on an error and two hits.

Snead, Bolt Meet Again At St. Paul

$20,000 Open Begins Today At Keller

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 22 (AP)—Sam Snead and Tommy Bolt return tomorrow to an old battleground at St. Paul's Keller course, the scene of their memorable and bitter meeting in the 1954 PGA Tournament.

With them in the starting field for the $20,000 St. Paul Open will be a swarm of notables like Doug Ford, Julius Boros, Mike Souchak, Fred Haas, Bo Winninger, Dow Finsterwald and Bob Toski.

But for the galleries the big magnets are Snead, winner of almost $12,000 in prize money over the years at Keller, and Bolt, the 1955 St. Paul Open champion.

Neither has forgotten the tension-charged quarter final battle in the 1954 PGA, where Bolt threatened to withdraw at midmatch because of alleged gallery favoritism for Snead. Bolt said it was distracting to his game.

But he came out of the clubhouse with a crusader's fire and eliminated Sam on the third extra hole. Bolt eventually lost in the semis.

For his part, Snead is content to rely on his remarkably good fortune at Keller, a par 36-36—72 public course.

Sam won the Open here in 1937, took the Western Open at Keller in 1949, tied for the St. Paul Open in 1950 only to lose to Jim Ferrier in a playoff, and has finished second once and third once.

Bolt is bidding to become the first repeat champion since 20 years ago, when Harry Cooper turned the trick.

Lopata's Error Helps Cubs Score Over Phils, 8-3

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs pushed across four runs after catcher Stan Lopata's failure to hold a third-out strike in the fourth inning today and romped over the Philadelphia Phils 8-3 to sweep the two-game series.

Bob Rush got his 12th victory against 6 defeats, settling down after a shaky first inning when the Phils scored twice on Richie Ashburn's single and Willie Jones' 13th homer.

The Cubs sailed ahead 7-2 in the fourth. After starter Harvey Haddix got out the first two batters to face him, he southpawed a third striket o Jerry Kindall. But Lopata let the ball get away and the rookie shortstop took first on the error.

Then Rush singled and Solly Drake walked to fill the bases. Don Hoak singled home Rush and sent Drake to third. Ron Negray replaced Haddix and was greeted by Gene Baker's bases-clearing double. Negray fanned Monte Irvin to retire the side.

Smith To Defend His Title Against Brown

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22 (AP) — The favorite's role in the lightweight title fight Friday night between champion Wallace (Bud) Smith and eager Joe Brown remained uncertain today, bewildering even the men whose business it is to know.

The word was that Brown, the 30-year old challenger from New Orleans, was a slight choice. But contradicting information along the city's strip of fistiana was that Smith was a solid selection.

The record lends support to both contentions, with both men showing inconsistent pasts. The 27-year old titleholder from Cincinnati hasn't won a bout since successfully defending the crown against former champion Jimmy Carter last October.

Brown is working on a string of six victories after years of floating in and out of the division's top ten. His main argument is a 10-round non-title verdict over Smith in Houston last May.

Regardless of who finally gains the public's favoritism, the 9,200 fans expected to crowd into the Municipal Auditorium for the nationally-televised (NBC-TV, 9 p.m. EST) 15-rounder should see a close scrap.

Brown, who has never gone 15 rounds, probably will set the pace and try for an early knockout. Smith, a more seasoned performer over the longer distance, may conserve his strength and apply the pressure in the late sessions.

Neither of the men's records attract adulation. Smith has won 32, lost 14 and fought five draws. Brown shows 60 triumphs, 14 setbacks and six draws.

Promoter J. T. Owen and matchmaker Bonny Geigerman reported a $30,000 advance sale and predicted a sellout of $60,000 by fight time.

The Grantsville Sluggers, fighting to remain in fourth place for a playoff berth in the Pen Mar Baseball League, yesterday upset first-place Zihlman, 6-2, in a game called in the eighth inning because of darkness at Grantsville.

The defeat shoved Zihlman into a first-place deadlock with Barrelville with 19-7 records apiece.

The triumph enabled Grantsville to remain tied with Centerville in the fourth slot as the latter dumped Hyndman out of a three-way deadlock with a 3-0 decision yesterday at Hyndman.

Four runs in the seventh inning broke a 2-2 tie and gave Grantsville the victory over Zihlman. Hits by Donnie Wilkinson, the winging pitcher, Junie Perry, who batted in two runs in the frame, and Joe Wengerd accounted for the tallies.

Five players shared two hits apiece for Grantsville with Toby Colaw collecting a double and Perry a homerun in addition to his single. Wengerd had two singles, as did Wilkinson and Fred Colaw.

For Zihlman Tom Dunn had two hits, one a double, and Barney Spearman chipped in with a pair of singles and Bob Kirtley had a two-bagger.

At Hyndman, Centerville ace Glen Deremer blanked the home team on five hits, striking out two and walking only one. His mates collected all their runs in a three-run third inning.

Glen Street led off with a single and stole second. Dave Rose singled him home with one out Mel Nee blasted a long drive over the leftfield fence for a two-run homer to close out the scoring. Dave Rose had a pair of singles for the winners. Robert Bryant had two hits for Hyndman. The scores:

Legislators May Delay Ban On Integrated Games

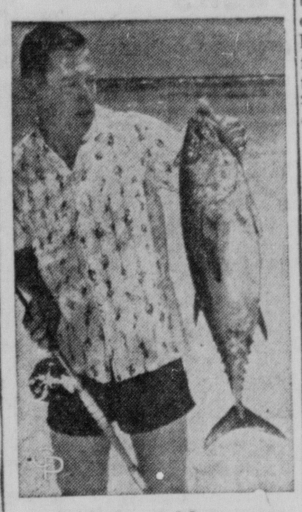

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22 (AP) —The Louisiana legislature may be called into special session to suspend effectiveness of a new law banning interracial athletics, a source close to the governor said today.

The source said if the special session is called, it would be asked to approve the delay so the law would not hit the Sugar Bowl athletic events.

The law, which is scheduled to go into effect Oct. 15, has caused three teams to drop out of the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament, leaving only Kentucky.

Pittsburgh, which brought the first Negro player to the Sugar Bowl last Jan. 2, already has rejected any possible repeat bids to the football game, basing the rejection on the new law.

Jim Vance Named Baseball, Cage Coach At Mathias Hi

Succeeds Wendell Mathias Who Is School's Principal

James Vance, 23-year-old Moorefield High School graduate, has been named basketball and baseball coach at Mathias High School, Raymon S. Dispanet, superintendent of Hardy County, W. Va., schools, announced yesterday.

Vance, who was graduated from Berea, Ky., College in 1955 and began teaching at Moorefield elementary school last year. He succeeds Wendell C. Mathias, coach and teacher at Mathias High for the past several years, who was elevated to principal there.

Mathias Is Principal

Mathias was made principal at the school which has approximately 360 students enrolled when Robert Jarvis resigned the position to take a similar post in Virginia.

Vance, a cousin of Charles Vance, coach at Wardensville High School, thus takes over the reins of athletics at the small school at Mathias for the first time.

Active in baseball, basketball and football while at Moorefield, young Vance starred in the cage sport prior to his graduation in 1951.

Will Teach English

Vance will teach junior high school social studies and English in addition to his duties as coach of the varsity cage and baseball teams which participate in the Potomac Valley Conference.

Unmarried, he is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Loring Vance of Moorefield.

QUESTIONS

1—On what major league team are these men the coaches—Ray Blades, Emil (Dutch) Leonard and John (Pepper) Martin?

2—How many 20-game winners were there in the majors last year? Name them.

3—What year was the last one in which Bobby Feller made the 20-game victory circle?

HOOHEE?

WHEN he was in the minors, he made such a good impression that White Sox traded away Chico Carrasquel. This shortstop is slick defensively, and a fair hitter.

ANSWERS

1—Chicago Cubs: (Hoobler: Luis Aparicio).
2—Just the perennial Robin Roberts and Don Newcombe.
3—It was 1951 when he got 22 wins.

Yankees Purchase Wilson From Giants

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP) — The New York Yankees today purchased the contract of reserve outfielder George Wilson from the New York Giants. Wilson, who will be 30-years-old on Aug. 30, was used mainly as a pinch hitter by the Giants and compiled a .132 average—9 hits in 68 times up.

He bats lefthanded and throws righthanded and will report here in time for the Yankee doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox tomorrow. His addition brings the Yankee roster to full strength, a total of 27 players. This includes service returnees Billy Martin and Norm Siebern.

San Antonio Wins Pony League Game

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 22 (AP) —Emmett Benavides drove in three runs with two homers yesterday to pace San Antonio to a 13-3 victory over Salisbury, Md. in the first round of the Pony League world series.

Joe Valdez and Jesse Garza also homered for the Texas team. Eugene Trevino, San Antonio hurler, had a no-hitter until the 6th inning when he gave up three runs on an error and two hits.

Snead, Bolt Meet Again At St. Paul

$20,000 Open Begins Today At Keller

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 22 (AP)—Sam Snead and Tommy Bolt return tomorrow to an old battleground at St. Paul's Keller course, the scene of their memorable and bitter meeting in the 1954 PGA Tournament.

With them in the starting field for the $20,000 St. Paul Open will be a swarm of notables like Doug Ford, Julius Boros, Mike Souchak, Fred Haas, Bo Winninger, Dow Finsterwald and Bob Toski.

But for the galleries the big magnets are Snead, winner of almost $12,000 in prize money over the years at Keller, and Bolt, the 1955 St. Paul Open champion.

Neither has forgotten the tension-charged quarter final battle in the 1954 PGA, where Bolt threatened to withdraw at midmatch because of alleged gallery favoritism for Snead. Bolt said it was distracting to his game.

But he came out of the clubhouse with a crusader's fire and eliminated Sam on the third extra hole. Bolt eventually lost in the semis.

For his part, Snead is content to rely on his remarkably good fortune at Keller, a par 36-36—72 public course.

Sam won the Open here in 1937, took the Western Open at Keller in 1949, tied for the St. Paul Open in 1950 only to lose to Jim Ferrier in a playoff, and has finished second once and third once.

Bolt is bidding to become the first repeat champion since 20 years ago, when Harry Cooper turned the trick.

Lopata's Error Helps Cubs Score Over Phils, 8-3

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs pushed across four runs after catcher Stan Lopata's failure to hold a third-out strike in the fourth inning today and romped over the Philadelphia Phils 8-3 to sweep the two-game series.

Bob Rush got his 12th victory against 6 defeats, settling down after a shaky first inning when the Phils scored twice on Richie Ashburn's single and Willie Jones' 13th homer.

The Cubs sailed ahead 7-2 in the fourth. After starter Harvey Haddix got out the first two batters to face him, he southpawed a third striket o Jerry Kindall. But Lopata let the ball get away and the rookie shortstop took first on the error.

Then Rush singled and Solly Drake walked to fill the bases. Don Hoak singled home Rush and sent Drake to third. Ron Negray replaced Haddix and was greeted by Gene Baker's bases-clearing double. Negray fanned Monte Irvin to retire the side.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug 22—(INS)—Richard Widmark has signed Kari Malden to make his debut as a director handling Dick's independent picture, "Time Limit." What bigger compliment can one actor pay another? Particularly in view of the fact that Widmark paid $100,000 for this play by Henry Denker and Ralph Berkey.

"I don't know anyone I have more confidence in than Karl," says Dick, "he's never directed before, but he knows theatre and the movies from A to Izzard. We've been closely associated since 1938 when we were in radio together and we've made two pictures."

Malden is finishing up his acting stint in "The Jim Piersall Story" and reports immediately after to the Widmark company on the Goldwyn lot.

You never saw the likes of all the help Diana Dors had to have being assisted into a Beverly Hills medical building to visit her doctor after that dunking. Husband Dennis Hamilton was supporting her by one arm and an unidentified gentleman was performing the same chore on Diana's other wing.

Photographers flashed cameras right and left—as Diana, teetering on high heels, tried to make it. For this painful occasion she was wearing a white sun-dress sheath and mink stole and a decidedly harassed expression.

Teen-age Natalie Wood and her "heart" Nick Adams were very close to getting married over the weekend in Las Vegas. While doing a layout for Modern Screen Cameraman Bob Beerman in front of the Little White Chapel, the kids decided to get a license. On the way to the courthouse they started thinking it over and decided at least temporarily to postpone the "elopement."

Despite all the publicity about Natalie's other dates, Nick is definitely number one man in her life right now.

What a break for young 16-year-old newcomer Hal Stalmaster, a Los Angeles boy, to be signed by Walt Disney for "Johnny Tremain." Presented as two one-hour shows on the Disneyland TV program, Walt himself says "Johnny Tremain" is his most ambitious TV venture of the '56-57 series. It's a dramatic story of the events leading up to the Revolutionary War and of the men who played notable roles in winning American independence.

Now about this lucky young Stalmaster; he's the son of a judge, now deceased, and lives with his mother in Westwood. He's had one previous screen role—and now look at him.

Hollywood in Shorts:

Sad that Dinah Shore, rushed to the hosiptal in the middle of the night, lost the expected baby she and George Montgomery wanted so much. Dinah hadn't told anyone she was expecting because she wanted to share the happy secret just with George for a little while.

Canadian-born Leslie Nielson (MGM's new hotshot) hopes he gets his American citizenship through before the November elections. He's getting in practice watching both conventions. So far, he's voting for Betty Furness.

I got a big kick seeing Millie Considine (Mrs. Bob) who didn't know she was "on camera" during a TV interview with Virginia Warren on the floor of the Cow Palace. Bet that's the first time traveling Millie didn't know where she was!

And, how about that tongue-weary TV reporter who asked Virginia if her parents, Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren would visit "Nero" in India? That's the neatest trick yet in world politics.

Sal Mineo is young, but not too young to take pretty teen-ager Denice Alexander to dinner at the Oyster House and do a little hand holding.

Terry To Resign As Sally Prexy

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 22 (AP)—Bill Terry will quit the presidency of the Class A South Atlantic League at the end of this season, he told The Jacksonville Journal today.

The Jacksonville auto dealer and former first baseman and manager of the New York Giants notified league directors of his intention by letter July 2, he said.

He said he could not give sufficient time to the job.

Spanish moss which drapes trees, fences and wires from Virginia southward, is not a parasite but an epiphyte or air plant related to the pineapple.

Starting At Bottom

TAIPEI, Aug. 22 (AP)—Formosa's Provincial Department of Education has ordered establishment of kindergartens in the aboriginal districts of the island to stimulate the use of Mandarin, the official Chinese language.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug 22—(INS)—Richard Widmark has signed Karl Malden to make his debut as a director handling Dick's independent picture, "Time Limit." What bigger compliment can one actor pay another? Particularly in view of the fact that Widmark paid $100,000 for this play by Henry Denker and Ralph Berkey.

"I don't know anyone I have more confidence in than Karl," says Dick, "he's never directed before, but he knows theatre and the movies from A to Izzard. We've been closely associated since 1938 when we were in radio together and we've made two pictures."

Malden is finishing up his acting stint in "The Jim Piersall Story" and reports immediately after to the Widmark company on the Goldwyn lot.

You never saw the likes of all the help Diana Dors had to have being assisted into a Beverly Hills medical building to visit her doctor after that dunking. Husband Dennis Hamilton was supporting her by one arm and an unidentified gentleman was performing the same chore on Diana's other wing.

Photographers flashed cameras right and left—as Diana, teetering on high heels, tried to make it. For this painful occasion she was wearing a white sun-dress sheath and mink stole and a decidedly harassed expression.

Teen-age Natalie Wood and her "heart" Nick Adams were very close to getting married over the weekend in Las Vegas. While doing a layout for Modern Screen Cameraman Bob Beerman in front of the Little White Chapel, the kids decided to get a license. On the way to the courthouse they started thinking it over and decided at least temporarily to postpone the "elopement."

What a break for young 16-year-old newcomer Hal Stalmaster, a Los Angeles boy, to be signed by Walt Disney for "Johnny Tremain." Presented as two one-hour shows on the Disneyland TV program, Walt himself says "Johnny Tremain" is his most ambitious TV venture of the '56-57 series. It's a dramatic story of the events leading up to the Revolutionary War and of the men who played notable roles in winning American independence.

Now about this lucky young Stalmaster; he's the son of a judge, now deceased, and lives with his mother in Westwood. He's had one previous screen role—and now look at him.

Hollywood in Shorts:

Sad that Dinah Shore, rushed to the hosiptal in the middle of the night, lost the expected baby she and George Montgomery wanted so much. Dinah hadn't told anyone she was expecting because she wanted to share the happy secret just with George for a little while.

Canadian-born Leslie Nielsen (MGM's new hotshot) hopes he gets his American citizenship through before the November elections. He's getting in practice watching both conventions. So far, he's voting for Betty Furness.

I got a big kick seeing Millie Considine (Mrs. Bob) who didn't know she was "on camera" during a TV interview with Virginia Warren on the floor of the Cow Palace. Bet that's the first time traveling Millie didn't know where she was!

And, how about that tongue-weary TV reporter who asked Virginia if her parents, Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren would visit "Nero" in India? That's the neatest trick yet in world politics.

Sal Mineo is young, but not too young to take pretty teen-ager Denice Alexander to dinner at the Oyster House and do a little hand holding.

Terry To Resign As Sally Prexy

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 22 (AP)—Bill Terry will quit the presidency of the Class A South Atlantic League at the end of this season, he told The Jacksonville Journal today.

The Jacksonville auto dealer and former first baseman and manager of the New York Giants notified league directors of his intention by letter July 2, he said.

He said he could not give sufficient time to the job.

TAIPEI, Aug. 22 (AP)—Formosa's Provincial Department of Education has ordered establishment of kindergartens in the aboriginal districts of the island to stimulate the use of Mandarin, the official Chinese language.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Collarbones Often Need Attention

Most women find that a dress with a "V" or scoop neckline allows a flattering expanse of throat between face and fabric, But there are others who never expose that part of the body as they don't thing it's a beauty point. They say that their collarbones "stick out."

There are a few routines which, if followed, should fill out the hollows when the clavicle is prominent.

Sit with your arms raised straight overhead. Then curl the fingers under as if you were grasping an imaginary rod. With maximum tension, pull your "rod" downward until it touches chest. Relax and repeat 25 times.

Next, stand on tiptoe and face a wall at arms' length. Place both your palms on the wall at shoulder level pointing fingers toward each other. Now, in s-l-o-w motion, let body fall toward wall. When you've gone as far as you can go, gently push yourself back to your starting position. Never arch the back—always keep it in a straight line. Repeat 20 times.

There is also a make-up trick to beautify collarbones that need special attention. Use a liquid-oil make-up base that is lighter than the one you apply to your facial complexion. Blend into the hollows on either side of the bones to smooth down the sharpness, when the clavicle is prominent. If there are any small blemishes on the skin, a tinted cream-cake or beauty-stick can be used to cover them.

"WHAT'S YOUR LINE?" — Horizontal, vertical and diagonal lines make a world of difference in what clothing will do for (or to) your figure! Complete information on handling lines to best advantage. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 5c (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Tomorrow—Be a charmer.

Frostburg Exhausts Supply Bicycle Tags

FROSTBURG — Police Chief Lloyd Truly has announced that bicycles will be checked and license tags issued each Wednesday between 5 and 7 p. m. at the police station.

At present the supply of tags is exhausted, but a new shipment is expected soon and bicycles will be examined, cards issued, and tags may be secured when they arrive, Truly said.

WIFE PRESERVERS

When you are going to serve a dessert topped with whipped cream, chill the bowl in which you will whip the cream first and the cream will whip more quickly.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

W S E E S D B C S U Y J S N U D G I I E R G Y E U I C O S C Y J U Y E C Y P G I E S D D U D — G S M U K .

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: GIVE, I PRAY, REWARDS WORTHY OF MY ABILITY—OVID.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Nope, it's not fragile — it's one of my wife's cakes."

Flies can walk upside down on the ceiling because they have tiny suction pads on the ends of their feet.

The pyramids of Egypt, built from 3000 B.C. to 1800 B.C., were the monumental tombs of Egypt's pharaohs.

DENNIS THE MENACE — By Hank Ketcham

"I took it away from those guys, Dad! Let's keep it, shall we?"

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"Have you thought of the hardships a raise would mean to you? . . . Your wife on a buying spree, larger donations to office collections, and I'D demand you do some work around here! . . ."

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all of our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us following the death of our beloved husband and father, Arthur Clarence Galford. We especially wish to thank those who sent floari tributes and those who donated the use of their cars.

Mrs. A. C. Galford and Children.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Henry Arthur Clayton, who left us one year ago today, Aug. 23, 1955.

Down a road that's calm and peaceful,
Guided by God's loving hand,
He has gone upon a journey,
To a distant, brighter land.
And although our hearts are heavy,
With the sorrow we must bear,
It helps to bring us comfort,
Knowing he is happy there.

Sadly missed but dearly loved by his Wife & Family.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all of our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us following the death of our beloved husband and father, Arthur Clarence Galford. We especially wish to thank those who sent floarl tributes and those who donated the use of their cars.

Mrs. A. C. Galford and Children.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Henry Arthur Clayton, who left us one year ago today, Aug. 23, 1955.
Down a road that's calm and peaceful,
Guided by God's loving hand,
He has gone upon a journey,
To a distant, brighter land.
And although our hearts are heavy,
With the sorrow we must bear,
It helps to bring us comfort,
Knowing he is happy there.
Sadly missed but dearly loved by his Wife & Family.

Market, In Slow Session, Coasts Into Gentle Decline

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)— The stock market coasted into a gentle decline today in its slowest trading session in nearly two months.

There were no spectacular developments on the news front to account for the market's action. Prospects of a further tightening of interest rates continued to loom in the background, and latest reports on the Suez Canal conference were far from encouraging. Leading customs smelters cut copper prices after the market's close.

Only 1,097 stocks were traded. Of these, 343 advanced and 485 declined. Volume came to a scant 1,570,000 shares—lowest since June 25—and compared with yesterday's 2,440,000. Five stocks made new 1956 highs and there were 35 new lows.

Glenn Martin headed the parade for the third straight day this week, up ¼ at 37½ on 33,200 shares.

Second most active was Standard Oil of New Jersey, down 1⅛ at 56⅜ on 24,500, followed by General Motors, down ¾ at 45⅞ on 18,800, Sperry-Rand up ⅛ at 25⅞ on 18,300 and U.S. Steel down ¼ at 63⅛.

Others, in order, were Gulf Oil down ⅝ at 123½ at 14,900, Standard Oil of Indiana off ½ at 61⅞ on 12,600, Campbell Red Lake up ⅛ at 5¾ on 12,500 and American Telephone unchanged at 182.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.00 at $183.80. The industrials component was off $1.50 at $266, the rails off 40 cents at $135.40 and utilities down 50 cents at $74.70.

Market, In Slow Session, Coasts Into Gentle Decline

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)— The stock market coasted into a gentle decline today in its slowest trading session in nearly two months.

There were no spectacular developments on the news front to account for the market's action. Prospects of a further tightening of interest rates continued to loom in the background, and latest reports on the Suez Canal conference were far from encouraging. Leading customs smelters cut copper prices after the market's close.

Only 1,097 stocks were traded. Of these, 343 advanced and 485 declined. Volume came to a scant 1,570,000 shares—lowest since June 25—and compared with yesterday's 2,440,000. Five stocks made new 1956 highs and there were 35 new lows.

Glenn Martin headed the parade for the third straight day this week, up ¼ at 37½ on 33,200 shares.

Second most active was Standard Oil of New Jersey, down 1⅛ at 56⅜ on 24,500, followed by General Motors, down ¾ at 45⅞ on 18,800. Sperry-Rand up ⅛ at 25⅞ on 18,300 and U.S. Steel down ¼ at 63⅛.

Others, in order, were Gulf Oil down ⅝ at 123½ at 14,900, Standard Oil of Indiana off ½ at 61⅞ on 12,600, Campbell Red Lake up ⅛ at 5¾ on 12,500 and American Telephone unchanged at 182.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.00 at $183.80. The industrials component was off $1.50 at $266, the rails off 40 cents at $135.40 and utilities down 50 cents at $74.70.

State Motor Law Changes Urged

Driver Re-Examination Advocated

Periodic re-examination of drivers, automobile inspections, stiffer penalties for driving offenses—including revocation of licenses—were among scores of suggestions presented to a Legislative Council sub-committee on revision of Motor Vehicle Laws at a public hearing for the three Western Maryland counties yesterday afternoon in the crowded council chamber at City Hall.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, Allegany County Republican, presided at the two-hour hearing. Del. Edgar P. Silver, (D-Balt 5th), is chairman of the sub-committee, but has followed a policy of getting the committee member living nearest the point where the meeting is held to preside. About 100 persons attended.

Three other committee members also attended yesterday's session. They were Sen. George Rasin (D-Kent); Del. Joseph Acker (D-Balt 3d), and Del Thomas Hatem (D-Hartford). Senator Harry A. Cole, Republican of Baltimore's Fourth District, is attending the GOP National Convention in San Francisco.

Mason Presents Program

The presentation yesterday afternoon was made by Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason of this city, who presented each member of the committee a list of 15 suggestions, most of which would (1) provide stiffer penalties for traffic violations, (2) make it easier for law enforcement officers to obtain evidence, or (3) eliminate confusion in present law.

One of his major recommendations concerns hit-and-run accidents. Under present law it is necessary for the arresting officer to identify the driver, which is virtually impossible in most cases. He recommends that the law be changed to read that it is a "rebuttable presumption" that the owner of the vehicle is the driver. In other words, if he is not the driver he must rebut the presumption by stating who was driving the vehicle at the time.

Mason also suggested that the authority for magistrates to sentence offenders to certain correctional institutions be changed.

Youths To Jail?

Under present law magistrates can only impose sentences in the County Jail or House of Correction. He does not believe these places appropriate for youthful offenders. He recommends that magistrates be given authority to sentence youthful offenders between 16 and 18 years to a training school, and those between 18 and 21 to the reformatory or any appropriate correctional institution fit for their age.

He also suggested some accurate scientific test for determining what constitutes "under the influence of intoxicating liquors." He also heartily endorsed the subcommittee's previous recommendation to re-examine and re-license motor vehicle operators every three years.

The Cumberland trial magistrate's concluding comments were that the most effective penalty is suspension or revocation of the driver's license, and that accidents caused by speed could be reduced if auto manufacturers make cars with maximum speed of 70 miles per hour.

Sen. Friend Objects

Senator Clifford Friend, Garrett County Republican, said he did not think taking driver's licenses away from old persons through re-examination would solve the problems. He contended that old people are responsible for few accidents.

Ralph M. Race, Frostburg banker who is chairman of the Mountain State Traffic Safety Committee, came up with a novel idea to focus attention on drivers whose licenses are suspended or revoked. Any automobile whose operator had his license revoked would be furnished a special license tag which the car would be required to carry during the period of suspension or revocation.

Delegate George R. Hughes Jr., Allegany County Republican and minority leader of the House of Delegates, endorsed Mason's suggestion for periodic re-examination of drivers and periodic inspection of automobiles.

Speakers at yesterday's meeting were primarily from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, but there were two young police officials from two of the largest counties in the state. Suggestions for improved legislation came from both Capt. Roland Switzer, Prince George's County police, and Capt. Karl Zinkhan, Baltimore County police.

Finan Urges Change

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan suggested a change in motor vehicle laws so that the cities would be able to keep a larger share of the fine money collected for motor vehicle violations, all of which are state offenses.

Others heard yesterday were J. Walter Byer, this city; George S. Jeffrey, Lonaconing, member of the House of Delegates; William O. Bitzer, Oakland trial magistrate; Melvin S. Sloan, Lonaconing trial magistrate; Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, chairman of the Western Maryland Womens Traffic Safety Committee; Mrs. Adam Baer, Frostburg, representing the County PTA; Miss Esther Carter, representing the Frostburg-George's Creek AAUW; W. E. Kines, Flintstone trial magistrate; Edward P. Post, Hancock trial magistrate; J. Milton Dick, Cumberland trial magistrate, and Capt. Charles W. Magaha, commander of Troop B, State Police.

Safety Program For Labor Day Is Announced

103 Police Chiefs Pledge Support

A state-wide "Slow Down and Live" program for the long Labor Day weekend was announced yesterday by Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, at a special luncheon meeting of the commission at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Burke stated that some 103 police chiefs and other law enforcement officers throughout the state have pledged their cooperation over the Labor Day weekend beginning at 6 p. m. Friday, August 31, and continuing until midnight September 3.

Police departments in Maryland plan to distribute 250,000 "Slow Down and Live" pamphlets and will present "Slow Down and Live" safety key rings to motorists police observe driving with safety.

Police Pledge Support

Police chiefs who have pledged their cooperation include R. Emmett Flynn of Cumberland, LeRoy Robinson of Friendsville, Lloyd S. Truly of Frostburg, Henry Patton of Grantsville, Howard N. Murfin of Hancock, Ervin Green of Kitzmiller, George McCormick of Lonaconing, Joseph Wilkes of Luke, Lawrence Dunn of Midland, Henry Arnold of Oakland and Burza Hanlin of Westernport, and constable Andrew Lennox at Mt. Savage.

Burke observed that up to Tuesday night there had been 314 recorded traffic deaths in Maryland this year, compared with 304 in the same period a year ago. He hopes this Labor Day program will help reduce the number of holiday fatalities.

Specialist Speaks

William J. Toth, specialist in safety with the Center for Safety Education of New York University, spoke briefly. He is a native of Uniontown, Pa., and his parents have a summer home on Deep Creek Lake.

Toth commended Burke for his safety work. He observed that he saw a safety picture Burke had arranged at Ocean City appear on the front page of a Tucson, Ariz., paper while he was in Arizona for a safety meeting last year.

Ralph M. Race of Frostburg, chairman of the Mountain Traffic Safety Committee, thanked all who had helped improve the safety standards on Big Savage Mountain since the tragic runaway truck accident of last October. He mentioned the Traffic Safety Commission, State Police, the County Delegation to the General Assembly, Mayor and Council of Frostburg, county commissioners of both Allegany and Garrett counties and the State Roads Commission.

Driver Hurt As Truck Overturns

An 18-year-old Hyndman, Pa., truck driver is a patient in Memorial Hospital suffering from injuries sustained about noon yesterday in an unusual accident which occurred near Corriganville.

Authorities reported last night that Charles Lowery sustained a fractured left elbow and fractured right hand.

Maryland State Police said that Lowery, an employe of the Fry Coal and Stone Company in Corriganville, had backed the truck he was driving onto a gravel pile which was about 30 feet high.

He set the emergency brake and started toward the rear of the vehicle to see if it was clear to dump the load of gravel.

Meanwhile he noticed the brakes weren't holding, and jumped back into the cab. The gravel pile gave way under the loaded truck, police said, and it plunged to the base of the gravel pile and turned over.

Accident Victim Transferred Here

Michael J. Quartucci, 19, of Frostburg, has been transferred to Sacred Heart Hospital here from Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown with an injured hand sustained in a highway accident Sunday evening.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Quartucci, 41 South Water Street. The accident occurred along U. S. Route 40 on Sideling Hill Mountain east of here as the car skidded from the highway.

Deaths

Bowser, Truman, 84, Oakland.

Johnson, Fannie E., 84, Oakland.

Smith, Delores A., infant, Frostburg.

Airline Plans 2 New Flights Through City

Vice President Outlines Schedule In Talk To Lions

If the Allegheny Airlines proposals for new flights between Washington and Detroit and between Washington and Cincinnati are approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board this fall, Cumberland will have twice as much direct air service as it now enjoys.

That was one of the principal observations of David L. Miller, Washington, D. C., vice president of Allegheny Airlines, who spoke at the luncheon meeting yesterday of the Cumberland Lions Club at Central YMCA.

The Washington-Detroit flight would serve Cumberland, Morgantown, Wheeling, Akron, Cleveland and Toledo in addition to its destination points. The Washington-Cincinnati flight would serve Cumberland, Clarksburg and Parkersburg as intermediate points.

Two Planes Daily

There would be two planes through Cumberland in each direction daily if that service is approved. Under the present Washington-Pittsburgh schedule there is one plane here each day in each direction.

While here, Miller also conferred with Mayor Roy W. Eves, Finance Commissioner John J. Long and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan. They agreed that the city would drop its objection to the elimination of Cumberland from the Washington-Pittsburgh flight if the other two flights are added.

When the Allegheny Airlines application was made some six weeks ago, the city objected to the elimination of the Pittsburgh service. When told by Miller of the added benefits from the other two flights and that only about 20 per cent of the westbound passengers from here have Pittsburgh as their ultimate destination, Finan said he was agreeable to dropping the protest.

Airlines Have Problems

Under the CAB program of federal subsidy of intermediate cities for temporary periods, the carrier is under directive to reduce its dependency on federal support as soon as possible. This subsidy has been steadily reduced by Allegheny Airlines over the last four years.

Cumberland has been granted temporary certification by the CAB for a limited period so as to develop a record sufficient to warrant continuation of the service. However, Miller said, traffic from here does not yet match the CAB requirements of tthree passengers a day.

The Reasons Why

Miller cited two reasons why airline traffic here is a difficult problem. One is the location of the airport, which makes it a "weather well." The mountainous terrain off the end of the primary runway is a problem, despite the fact that in many ways the Cumberland airport is better than that of other cities served by the line.

It is extremely doubtful if Allegheny ever will land planes here after dark because of its standards of safety, he said.

The second difficulty is that Cumberland is not on the direct route between Hagerstown and Altoono, and that means an additional 45 miles in the flight at a cost of about $100 a day. Cumberland would be on the direct route of flights between both Washington and Detroit and Washington and Cincinnati.

Equity Suits

A number of equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Madeline A. Dircks vs. Paul Dircks, Carl Folk vs. Hazel Folk, Laverne Belle Parsons vs. Marvin Lester Parsons and Minnie Pauline Williston vs. Clarence M. Williston.

Outlines Airline Plans

Arson Probe Launched As House Burns

Charred Wood To Be Tested

Pieces of charred wood from a controversial dwelling that was gutted by fire early yesterday will be sent to a police laboratory for tests to determine whether the blaze was the result of arson.

The building, owned by August Robey, had been moved from Laing Avenue to Williams Street last Saturday. On Monday, a group of Williams Street residents gave the Mayor and Council a petition objecting to location of the house in the area. They termed the building "undesirable."

At 3:55 a. m. yesterday the house caught fire and was practically destroyed, despite efforts of South End Fire Company to save it.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said yesterday he would send pieces of charred wood from the house to a laboratory such as that operated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington. He said he hoped tests would determine whether any incendiary material was used to start the fire.

Parker said no physical evidence of arson was found, such as fuel cans, paper, or matches. The official fire report, meanwhile, lists the origin of the blaze as "unknown."

Both the City Police and the City Fire Department have announced that they plan a "full-scale" investigation.

Postcard Will Be Delivered Here 26 Years Late

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 22 (AP) — Attention, Mrs. George Williams of Cumberland, Md.:

That postcard "Helen C." sent you is being forwarded.

Who's Helen C.?

Mrs. Stevens doesn't remember. The card is postmarked "College Park, Md., July 25, 1930."

Mrs. Williams is Mrs. George E. Williams, 210 Saratoga Street, who came here from Hagerstown with her husband about 18 years ago.

(Neither could recall who "Helen C" might have been, but they're hoping the card may bear a clue when it's finally delivered.)

Supper Planned Tonight

A roast beef supper will be served by the WSCS of Davis Memorial Methodist Church from 4:30 until 7 p. m. today. Mrs. Stanley Walker is WSCS president.

Record Crowd Is Expected At Fair Today

Kiddies' Matinee, Fireworks Planned

Fair weather for the second consecutive day brought crowds of spectators to the 39th annual Cumberland Fair yesterday afternoon and last night, with preparations under way for the expected record crowd of the week today.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Fair Association, said a double show of fireworks will be displayed tonight. All the set pieces and aerial displays which were not used Monday because of the heavy rain will be used tonight in addition to the regularly scheduled Thursday night exhibition.

In addition, at 7 p. m. there will be a parade of all prize winning livestock in front of the grandstand. This parade will be followed at 8 p. m. by the spectacular stage show entertainment, followed by the fireworks.

Matinee Today

This afternoon, the second of two scheduled kiddies' matinee will be held. Along the midway, Prell's Broadway Shows, with many new and added attractions were ready for the youngsters. Joe Prell said last evening all rides and shows will be reduced to half price this afternoon for the youngsters.

He noted that several new attractions added to the midway for the first time this year have been especially attractive to the children.

The usual live pony ride has been augmented with the addition of two small donkeys, not much larger than Mexican burros. Prell said these long-eared, gentle little fellows have the ponies jealous because all the youngsters want to ride the donkeys.

A new ride for the juvenile "hot rods" is calle the "Turnpike," which consists of several heavy plastic and metal "sports cars" operated by remote control over a specially constructed roadway.

Other New Rides

Along the "Turnpike" is a pony cart ride, which goes round and round with the passengers sitting in pony carts.

These additions to the carnival add to gaiety of the traditional merry-go-round, miniature train, swings, cars, tanks and jeeps. There are 18 rides on the midway, plus 25 other attractions.

The matinee starts at 2 p. m. today and will continue to 6 p. m.

Also scheduled this afternoon is a grandstand revue, featuring eight stellar acts. This is to be preceded by the annual farm boys' and farm

County Demo Committee Gives Mahoney Support

Two hours before Michael J. Birmingham of Baltimore County announced his withdrawal from nomination on the Democratic ticket as candidate for United States Senate, the Allegany CoCounty Democratic Committee had unanimously endorsed George P. Mahoney, and pledged the county's seven votes to him.

Birmingham, who had announced his intentions of seeking the nomination when the State Central committeemen assemble in state caucus in Baltimore Monday night, had claimed Allegany County as one of those which would support him.

Chairman Thomas B. Finan said the local committee, polled individually prior to last night's caucus, were in agreement on the Mahoney endorsement. Only formal action was necessary at last night's session. As the meeting began at 8 p. m. a call from a Baltimore newspaper was received, and the paper was informed the Allegany County committee would support Mahoney unanimously.

Two hours later, Birmingham made his announcement of withdrawal.

In the early calculations, Birmingham had been claiming a total of 83 votes. Only 77 are required for nomination. Losing Allegany County cost Birmingham seven votes, leaving a total of 76. It was also learned later last night that Washington county was split three to three, so this also reduced his margin.

Finan said the local committee members felt that Mahoney had been the only other contender in the primary with Millard E. Tydings. After Tydings withdrawal, it was reasonable to consider Mahoney a candidate for the office. Mahoney and Tydings had tied in unit votes.

The committee also considered the fact that it had endorsed Mahoney's candidacy in the first place, and that the majority of the voters in the county had favored Mahoney.

At last night's caucus, besides Finan, were James R. Kenney, Westernport, James Kelley, Lonaconing, John R. Kelly, William C. McDermott and F. Allan Weatherholt, all of Cumberland, who comprise the Allegany County Committee. All of the committeemen said they will attend the state meeting in Baltimore Monday night.

Child Is Injured In Fall From Bike

Six-year-old Joseph Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Flynn, RD 5, Gettysburg, Pa., was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday evening after he fell from a bicycle he was riding at the home of relatives on Valley Road.

The boy sustained a deep laceration over his right eyebrow.

Fire Companies Plan Election At LaVale

An election of officers for the coming year will be held Monday at 8 p. m. (EDT at the LaVale Fire Hall by member companies of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

David E. Kirk, coordinator of the radio committee of the two-county organization announced yesterday that a maintenance man will be appointed for radios now in use by volunteer companies as well as the Cumberland Fire Department in connection with Civil Defense work.

He will be appointed from a list of applicants submitted to the secretary, Cromwell C. Zembower, LaVale.

The local fire department and the volunteer companies are being urged to send representatives to the meeting.

Ray Sine has been the maintenance man under a one-year contract. He donated his services to the group for a period which will end this fall.

The radios owned by the local fire department and volunteer companies were made available through funds of the federal and state CD program.

Some 31 sets have been installed in 14 companies including Cumberland. A breakdown shows five sets in local fire fighting equipment; Frostburg, three; LaVale, three, two each at Bowling Green, Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, Barton, Midland, Bedford Road, Baltimore Pike, Flintstone, Bowman's Addition, Corriganville and one at Clarysville and Shaft.

Cyclist Injured In Road Crash

Memorial Hospital said last night the condition of George Hiett, 904 Kentucky Avenue, was "fair," although his injuries had not been determined. X-rays have been taken.

Police said Hiett was driving east on Oldtown Road and collided with a truck driven by Arthur R. Jolley, of Mexico Farms in the 1500 block.

The trucker was traveling toward Cumberland and began to turn left into a fruit stand when he suddenly saw the cyclist coming down the highway.

He stopped the truck, police said, but the cyclist rammed into the front of the vehicle and was thrown to the side of the road.

Officer Louis Downey said no charges have been filed pending the outcome of Hiett's injuries. The accident occurred about 2:15 p. m.

Visitor Advocates Rail Crossing Signs

Thomas H. Riley, Baltimore newspaperman who also is a member of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, yesterday advocated signs at the approach to both Baltimore Street railroad crossings to warn motorists of the danger.

Riley attended the public hearings at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. He also observed that the city's stop signs are not all 24 inches and reflective, the recommended standard. Mayor Roy W. Eves said he was interested in Riley's comments.

Birmingham Quits Race For Senate

Announces Move In Interest Of Party Harmony

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP)—Michael J. Birmingham withdrew tonight as a candidate for the vacant Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Birmingham quit at the peak of a contest between him and George P. Mahoney for the nomination left open by the inability of Millard E. Tydings to campaign.

Tydings won the nomination in the May primary from Mahoney. Tydings announced Sunday he would have to default because of illness which had confined him since June.

The contest to replace Tydings for the task of trying to unseat John Marshall Butler, Republican who took the job away from Tydings six years ago, settled down quickly between Birmingham and Mahoney.

Was Mahoney Manager

Birmingham, so far a political contestant only in Baltimore County where he is president of the commission, had managed the primary campaign for Mahoney.

For awhile the Birmingham-Mahoney struggle for votes among the 152 Democratic Central Committeemen who will choose Tydings' substitute next week, was nip and tuck. It collapsed without warning tonight with Birmingham's capitulation.

"I am now convinced," he said, "that union and harmony cannot result under present circumstances.

"In the interest of party harmony and unity, I am withdrawing my name from consideration by the Democratic State Central Committee for the nomination to replace Senator Tydings."

Asks Mahoney To Quit

He urged Mahoney to do the same. Mahoney was en route between Hagerstown and Baltimore and could not be reached for comment.

Just last night, Mahoney said he felt "entitled" to the nomination because of his close primary defeat by Tydings.

"I urge the members of the Democratic party in our state to give the U.S. Senate nomination to some fresh, vigorous member of our party who can unite us and bring victory in November," Birmingham said.

"I pledge my support of such a nominee and I invite Mr. Mahoney to join with me and all other Democrats to forget differences and factionalism and join ranks to ensure a vigorous and victorious campaign.

Urges Unity

"Primary elections naturally produce or reveal differences in a political party. This is inevitable. However, we are not now engaged in a primary fight.

"Our Democratic State Central Committee has the duty and obligation to rise above factionalism and fragmentation and respond to the yearning and hopes of Democrats all over this state to produce a candidate who can harness all elements of the party into a victory caravan.

"I am convinced that thousands of Democrats in this state—young and old, men and women—will appreciate and approve my decision and stand.

"I believe I express their unspoken thoughts and desire."

D'Alesandro Unaware

Birmingham left his statement to be issued by Baltimore County aides and left the city. Not even Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, who had given him a running start of at least 35 city votes on the Central Committee, was aware of the move until after Birmingham had departed.

The mayor is an avowed foe of Mahoney for the nomination. The mayor would not disclose if he hoped to drum up another candidate.

"No comment," was his reply to all questions on the situation.

Birmingham's withdrawal came while politicking was still going on among some committees. At the time, efforts were being made to hold a caucus tomorrow night in Easton of the Eastern Shore's nine counties and bind their 35 votes to one candidate or the other.

Claims Disputed

Birmingham claimed in his withdrawal statement "a clear majority of the members of the Democratic State Central Committee have pledged themselves to vote for my nomination."

This was disputed earlier in the day by the Mahoney forces who likewise were claiming victory was guaranteed. Actually, only three counties outside of Baltimore City had publicly announced a choice.

Anne Arundel was on record for Mahoney, Prince Georges and Baltimore for Birmingham.

4-H, FFA Livestock Winners Named

Several winners carried off honors yesterday in the 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America cattle and livestock showings at the 39th annual Cumberland Fair.

County Agent Joseph M. Steger said the boys and girls had some excellent displays, showing progress in all breeds of animals.

In the 4-H fitting and showing, Robert E. Moore, 14, of Mt. Savage was top award winner, with Pauline Miltenberger of Ridgeley, W. Va., a close second. Suzy Miller, Midland, Dale Gary, Mt. Savage, and John Wilderson finished in that order.

Moore who exhibited Ayrshire cattle won five blue ribbons in that class. Dale Gary won a first blue ribbon for his prized Guernsey bull.

In the Jersey breed, John Wilderson won four blue ribbons; Joseph Cosgrove of Valley Road and Suzy Miller each won one blue ribbon first.

For Holsteins, Suzy Miller won a first place and Pauline Miltenberg won two first places. Robert Adams of Bedford Road won a first place and Paul Miltenberger, twin brother of Pauline, also won two firsts. Jean Miller of Midland also won a blue ribbon for her prize Holstein.

Winner Bob Moore with beribboned "Ann."

In the 13th annual county-wide and regional Future Farmers of America livestock judging contest the judges selected the best among Yorkshire gilts, Hampshire ewes, Angus heifers and Holstein heifers.

Twenty-five boys from Garrett and Allegany counties participated in the contest.

Garrett County winners are Max Bowser, Accident, $8; John Hummel, New Germany, $7; Gerald Friend, Oakland, $6; David Beachy, Bittinger, $5; Troy Wilburn, Bittinger, $4; and Tom Glotfelty, Oakland, $3.

Winners from Allegany County are Bill Hout, $8; Wayne Boggs, $7; Franklin Heavener, $6; Lynn Mauzy, $5; Sonny Huffman, $4; and Donald Weicht, $3.

Judges were Dr. James Ferguson, livestock; and Dr. John Dietrick, dairy cattle, both from the University of Maryland Extension Service.

Advisors from the several schools include George Lipscomb, Southern High School; Richard Bishoff, Southern High School; Lawrence Faith, Northern High School; Kenneth M. Malone, Flintstone, and James House, Oldtown, who served as contest chairman.

State Motor Law Changes Urged

Driver Re-Examination Advocated

Periodic re-examination of drivers, automobile inspections, stiffer penalties for driving offenses—including revocation of licenses—were among scores of suggestions presented to a Legislative Council sub-committee on revision of Motor Vehicle Laws at a public hearing for the three Western Maryland counties yesterday afternoon in the crowded council chamber at City Hall.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, Allegany County Republican, presided at the two-hour hearing. Del. Edgar P. Silver, (D-Balt 5th), is chairman of the sub-committee, but has followed a policy of getting the committee member living nearest the point where the meeting is held to preside. About 100 persons attended.

Three other committee members also attended yesterday's session. They were Sen. George Rasin (D-Kent); Del. Joseph Acker (D-Balt 3d), and Del Thomas Hatem (D-Hartford). Senator Harry A. Cole, Republican of Baltimore's Fourth District, is attending the GOP National Convention in San Francisco.

Mason Presents Program

The presentation yesterday afternoon was made by Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason of this city, who presented each member of the committee a list of 15 suggestions, most of which would (1) provide stiffer penalties for traffic violations, (2) make it easier for law enforcement officers to obtain evidence, or (3) eliminate confusion in present law.

One of his major recommendations concerns hit-and-run accidents. Under present law it is necessary for the arresting officer to identify the driver, which is virtually impossible in most cases. He recommends that the law be changed to read that it is a "rebuttable presumption" that the owner of the vehicle is the driver. In other words, if he is not the driver he must rebut the presumption by stating who was driving the vehicle at the time.

Mason also suggested that the authority for magistrates to sentence offenders to certain correctional institutions be changed.

Youths To Jail?

Under present law magistrates can only impose sentences in the County Jail or House of Correction. He does not believe these places appropriate for youthful offenders. He recommends that magistrates be given authority to sentence youthful offenders between 16 and 18 years to a training school, and those between 18 and 21 to the reformatory or any appropriate correctional institution fit for their age.

He also suggested some accurate scientific test for determining what constitutes "under the influence of intoxicating liquors." He also heartily endorsed the subcommittee's previous recommendation to re-examine and re-license motor vehicle operators every three years.

The Cumberland trial magistrate's concluding comments were that the most effective penalty is suspension or revocation of the driver's license, and that accidents caused by speed could be reduced if auto manufacturers make cars with maximum speed of 70 miles per hour.

Sen. Friend Objects

Senator Clifford Friend, Garrett County Republican, said he did not think taking driver's licenses away from old persons through re-examination would solve the problems. He contended that old people are responsible for few accidents.

Ralph M. Race, Frostburg banker who is chairman of the Mountain State Traffic Safety Committee, came up with a novel idea to focus attention on drivers whose licenses are suspended or revoked. Any automobile whose operator had his license revoked would be furnished a special license tag which the car would be required to carry during the period of suspension or revocation.

Delegate George R. Hughes Jr., Allegany County Republican and minority leader of the House of Delegates, endorsed Mason's suggestion for periodic re-examination of drivers and periodic inspection of automobiles.

Speakers at yesterday's meeting were primarily from Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, but there were two young police officials from two of the largest counties in the state. Suggestions for improved legislation came from both Capt. Roland Switzer, Prince George's County police, and Capt. Karl Zinkhan, Baltimore County police.

Finan Urges Change

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan suggested a change in motor vehicle laws so that the cities would be able to keep a larger share of the fine money collected for motor vehicle violations, all of which are state offenses.

Others heard yesterday were J. Walter Byer, this city; George S. Jeffrey, Lonaconing, member of the House of Delegates; William O. Bitzer, Oakland trial magistrate; Melvin S. Sloan, Lonaconing trial magistrate; Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, chairman of the Western Maryland Womens Traffic Safety Committee; Mrs. Adam Baer, Frostburg, representing the County PTA; Miss Esther Carter, representing the Frostburg-George's Creek AAUW; W. E. Kines, Flintstone trial magistrate; Edward P. Post, Hancock trial magistrate; J. Milton Dick, Cumberland trial magistrate, and Capt. Charles W. Magaha, commander of Troop B, State Police.

Safety Program For Labor Day Is Announced

103 Police Chiefs Pledge Support

A state-wide "Slow Down and Live" program for the long Labor Day weekend was announced yesterday by Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, at a special luncheon meeting of the commission at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Burke stated that some 103 police chiefs and other law enforcement officers throughout the state have pledged their cooperation over the Labor Day weekend beginning at 6 p. m. Friday, August 31, and continuing until midnight September 3.

Police departments in Maryland plan to distribute 250,000 "Slow Down and Live" pamphlets and will present "Slow Down and Live" safety key rings to motorists police observe driving with safety.

Police Pledge Support

Police chiefs who have pledged their cooperation include R. Emmett Flynn of Cumberland, LeRoy Robinson of Friendsville, Lloyd S. Truly of Frostburg, Henry Patton of Grantsville, Howard N. Murfin of Hancock, Ervin Green of Kitzmiller, George McCormick of Lonaconing, Joseph Wilkes of Luke, Lawrence Dunn of Midland, Henry Arnold of Oakland and Burza Hanlin of Westernport, and constable Andrew Lennox at Mt. Savage.

Burke observed that up to Tuesday night there had been 314 recorded traffic deaths in Maryland this year, compared with 304 in the same period a year ago. He hopes this Labor Day program will help reduce the number of holiday fatalities.

Specialist Speaks

William J. Toth, specialist in safety with the Center for Safety Education of New York University, spoke briefly. He is a native of Uniontown, Pa., and his parents have a summer home on Deep Creek Lake.

Toth commended Burke for his safety work. He observed that he saw a safety picture Burke had arranged at Ocean City appear on the front page of a Tucson, Ariz., paper while he was in Arizona for a safety meeting last year.

Ralph M. Race of Frostburg, chairman of the Mountain Traffic Safety Committee, thanked all who had helped improve the safety standards on Big Savage Mountain since the tragic runaway truck accident of last October. He mentioned the Traffic Safety Commission, State Police, the County Delegation to the General Assembly, Mayor and Council of Frostburg, county commissioners of both Allegany and Garrett counties and the State Roads Commission.

Driver Hurt As Truck Overturns

An 18-year-old Hyndman, Pa., truck driver is a patient in Memorial Hospital suffering from injuries sustained about noon yesterday in an unusual accident which occurred near Corriganville.

Authorities reported last night that Charles Lowery sustained a fractured left elbow and fractured right hand.

Maryland State Police said that Lowery, an employe of the Fry Coal and Stone Company in Corriganville, had backed the truck he was driving onto a gravel pile which was about 30 feet high.

He set the emergency brake and started toward the rear of the vehicle to see if it was clear to dump the load of gravel.

Meanwhile he noticed the brakes weren't holding, and jumped back into the cab. The gravel pile gave way under the loaded truck, police said, and it plunged to the base of the gravel pile and turned over.

Accident Victim Transferred Here

Michael J. Quartucci, 19, of Frostburg, has been transferred to Sacred Heart Hospital here from Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown with an injured hand sustained in a highway accident Sunday evening.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Quartucci, 41 South Water Street. The accident occurred along U. S. Route 40 on Sideling Hill Mountain east of here as the car skidded from the highway.

Deaths

Bowser, Truman, 84, Oakland.

Johnson, Fannie E., 84, Oakland.

Smith, Delores A., infant, Frostburg.

Airline Plans 2 New Flights Through City

Vice President Outlines Schedule In Talk To Lions

If the Allegheny Airlines proposals for new flights between Washington and Detroit and between Washington and Cincinnati are approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board this fall, Cumberland will have twice as much direct air service as it now enjoys.

That was one of the principal observations of David L. Miller, Washington, D. C., vice president of Allegheny Airlines, who spoke at the luncheon meeting yesterday of the Cumberland Lions Club at Central YMCA.

The Washington-Detroit flight would serve Cumberland, Morgantown, Wheeling, Akron, Cleveland and Toledo in addition to its destination points. The Washington-Cincinnati flight would serve Cumberland, Clarksburg and Parkersburg as intermediate points.

Two Planes Daily

There would be two planes through Cumberland in each direction daily if that service is approved. Under the present Washington-Pittsburgh schedule there is one plane here each day in each direction.

While here, Miller also conferred with Mayor Roy W. Eves, Finance Commissioner John J. Long and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan. They agreed that the city would drop its objection to the elimination of Cumberland from the Washington-Pittsburgh flight if the other two flights are added.

When the Allegheny Airlines application was made some six weeks ago, the city objected to the elimination of the Pittsburgh service. When told by Miller of the added benefits from the other two flights and that only about 20 per cent of the westbound passengers from here have Pittsburgh as their ultimate destination, Finan said he was agreeable to dropping the protest.

Airlines Have Problems

In his off-the-cuff talk to the Lions Club, Miller cited some of the problems confronting Allegheny Airlines in providing service here.

Under the CAB program of federal subsidy of intermediate cities for temporary periods, the carrier is under directive to reduce its dependency on federal support as soon as possible. This subsidy has been steadily reduced by Allegheny Airlines over the last four years.

Cumberland has been granted temporary certification by the CAB for a limited period so as to develop a record sufficient to warrant continuation of the service. However, Miller said, traffic from here does not yet match the CAB requirements of tthree passengers a day.

The Reasons Why

Miller cited two reasons why airline traffic here is a difficult problem. One is the location of the airport, which makes it a "weather well." The mountainous terrain off the end of the primary runway is a problem, despite the fact that in many ways the Cumberland airport is better than that of other cities served by the line.

It is extremely doubtful if Allegheny ever will land planes here after dark because of its standards of safety, he said.

The second difficulty is that Cumberland is not on the direct route between Hagerstown and Altoono, and that means an additional 45 miles in the flight at a cost of about $100 a day. Cumberland would be on the direct route of flights between both Washington and Detroit and Washington and Cincinnati.

Equity Suits

A number of equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Madeline A. Dircks vs. Paul Dircks, Carl Folk vs. Hazel Folk, Laverne Belle Parsons vs. Marvin Lester Parsons and Minnie Pauline Williston vs. Clarence M. Williston.

Outlines Airline Plans

Arson Probe Launched As House Burns

Charred Wood To Be Tested

Pieces of charred wood from a controversial dwelling that was gutted by fire early yesterday will be sent to a police laboratory for tests to determine whether the blaze was the result of arson.

The building, owned by August Robey, had been moved from Laing Avenue to Williams Street last Saturday. On Monday, a group of Williams Street residents gave the Mayor and Council a petition objecting to location of the house in the area. They termed the building "undesirable."

At 3:55 a. m. yesterday the house caught fire and was practically destroyed, despite efforts of South End Fire Company to save it.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said yesterday he would send pieces of charred wood from the house to a laboratory such as that operated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington. He said he hoped tests would determine whether any incendiary material was used to start the fire.

Parker said no physical evidence of arson was found, such as fuel cans, paper, or matches. The official fire report, meanwhile, lists the origin of the blaze as "unknown."

Both the City Police and the City Fire Department have announced that they plan a "full-scale" investigation.

Postcard Will Be Delivered Here 26 Years Late

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 22 (AP) — Attention, Mrs. George Williams of Cumberland, Md.:

That postcard "Helen C." sent you is being forwarded.

Who's Helen C.?

Mrs. Stevens doesn't remember. The card is postmarked "College Park, Md., July 25, 1930."

Mrs. Williams is Mrs. George E. Williams, 210 Saratoga Street, who came here from Hagerstown with her husband about 18 years ago.

(Neither could recall who "Helen C" might have been, but they're hoping the card may bear a clue when it's finally delivered.)

Supper Planned Tonight

A roast beef supper will be served by the WSCS of Davis Memorial Methodist Church from 4:30 until 7 p. m. today. Mrs. Stanley Walker is WSCS president.

Record Crowd Is Expected At Fair Today

Kiddies' Matinee, Fireworks Planned

Fair weather for the second consecutive day brought crowds of spectators to the 39th annual Cumberland Fair yesterday afternoon and last night, with preparations under way for the expected record crowd of the week today.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Fair Association, said a double show of fireworks will be displayed tonight. All the set pieces and aerial displays which were not used Monday because of the heavy rain will be used tonight in addition to the regularly scheduled Thursday night exhibition.

In addition, at 7 p. m. there will be a parade of all prize winning livestock in front of the grandstand. This parade will be followed at 8 p. m. by the spectacular stage show entertainment, followed by the fireworks.

Matinee Today

This afternoon, the second of two scheduled kiddies' matinee will be held. Along the midway, Prell's Broadway Shows, with many new and added attractions were ready for the youngsters. Joe Prell said last evening all rides and shows will be reduced to half price this afternoon for the youngsters.

Birmingham Quits Race For Senate

Announces Move In Interest Of Party Harmony

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (AP)—Michael J. Birmingham withdrew tonight as a candidate for the vacant Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Birmingham quit at the peak of a contest between him and George P. Mahoney for the nomination left open by the inability of Millard E. Tydings to campaign.

Tydings won the nomination in the May primary from Mahoney. Tydings announced Sunday he would have to default because of illness which had confined him since June.

The contest to replace Tydings for the task of trying to unseat John Marshall Butler, Republican who took the job away from Tydings six years ago, settled down quickly between Birmingham and Mahoney.

Was Mahoney Manager

Birmingham, so far a political contestant only in Baltimore County where he is president of the commission, had managed the primary campaign for Mahoney.

For awhile the Birmingham-Mahoney struggle for votes among the 152 Democratic Central Committeemen who will choose Tydings' substitute next week, was nip and tuck. It collapsed without warning tonight with Birmingham's capitulation.

"I am now convinced," he said, "that union and harmony cannot result under present circumstances.

"In the interest of party harmony and unity, I am withdrawing my name from consideration by the Democratic State Central Committee for the nomination to replace Senator Tydings."

Asks Mahoney To Quit

He urged Mahoney to do the same. Mahoney was en route between Hagerstown and Baltimore and could not be reached for comment.

Just last night, Mahoney said he felt "entitled" to the nomination because of his close primary defeat by Tydings.

"I urge the members of the Democratic party in our state to give the U.S. Senate nomination to some fresh, vigorous member of our party who can unite us and bring victory in November," Birmingham said.

"I pledge my support of such a nominee and I invite Mr. Mahoney to join with me and all other Democrats to forget differences and factionalism and join ranks to ensure a vigorous and victorious campaign.

Urges Unity

"Primary elections naturally produce or reveal differences in a political party. This is inevitable. However, we are not now engaged in a primary fight.

"Our Democratic State Central Committee has the duty and obligation to rise above factionalism and fragmentation and respond to the yearning and hopes of Democrats all over this state to produce a candidate who can harness all elements of the party into a victory caravan.

"I am convinced that thousands of Democrats in this state—young and old, men and women—will appreciate and approve my decision and stand.

D'Alesandro Unaware

Birmingham left his statement to be issued by Baltimore County aides and left the city. Not even Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, who had given him a running start of at least 35 city votes on the Central Committee, was aware of the move until after Birmingham had departed.

The mayor is an avowed foe of Mahoney for the nomination. The mayor would not disclose if he hoped to drum up another candidate.

"No comment," was his reply to all questions on the situation.

Birmingham's withdrawal came while politicking was still going on among some committees. At the time, efforts were being made to hold a caucus tomorrow night in Easton of the Eastern Shore's nine counties and bind their 35 votes to one candidate or the other.

Claims Disputed

Birmingham claimed in his withdrawal statement "a clear majority of the members of the Democratic State Central Committee have pledged themselves to vote for my nomination."

This was disputed earlier in the day by the Mahoney forces who likewise were claiming victory was guaranteed. Actually, only three counties outside of Baltimore City had publicly announced a choice.

Anne Arundel was on record for Mahoney, Prince Georges and Baltimore for Birmingham.
